Meg - I have to really enjoyed getting to know you & your personality and I hope you have a great year. I don't think we'll ever change. I hope you won't be a cheerleader. I would like to see you without your glasses. I hope you can make it. I'll see you next fall.
 Love,
 Sally

Meg,
 It's been great having you in my chemistry class and
 P.E. class. Taylor's class wouldn't have been the same without you.
 See you... Mr. Taylor likes to tease you. As for as gym, I loved being your badminton partner when Mary was gone. We've really gotten to be better friends
 this year - I'm glad.
 Have a great summer.
 I'll see you next fall.
 Love, Sally

The Choice...
 Meg, I had a good time playing badminton against you in gym and also in Taylor's advanced chemistry class. Have a good summer and good luck next year.
 Love,
 Sally

Meg,

I really feel privileged you left me such a big space to say nothing! This year has really meant a lot to me. I have sort of blossomed into the world. Every since the first day I saw you I have thought we could make it together. On September 12th, the day I asked you out to the first football game, I about melted when I walked up to you to ask. You and those big, beautiful, goo goo eyes you kept giving ~~you~~ me. That night at Pizza Inn ^{when} you told Kurt to not get me in trouble in History, I knew then how much I wanted you. From then on out you were all I thought and think about. Each day I would run from Dennis's 15W. just to see your smiling face that made me feel so good inside. All during homeroom and first period I just couldn't wait to see you.

Meg you will never know how much you have helped me; you gave me courage I have never had or felt before, you helped me to grow up physically and mentally, you made me strive to be the best at whatever I tried (even though I never came near), you picked me up when I was down (even if I tell you, you didn't), you made me feel proud because you were "my" girlfriend. Boy, am I lucky! But the thing you gave me most was your love, (all my love was what you always signed before your name).

Meg, whatever you do please don't change (no matter how much I put you down, etc...) because you're perfect the way you are! I pray that someday or if ever we go our separate paths you will make someone as happy and be as loyal as you were and are to me.

I'm sorry for all the arguments and trouble I have started and finished. I've really tried hard to be good, God only knows how I have tried. I'm just glad you have found it to put up with me after the way I treated and treat you. Also as I write this I weep, sounds stupid I guess, I guess though it is because I love you so!

Meg there is only one thing left to say and that is

I LOVE YOU!!!

all my love

Doug Lechtenberger

P.S. Hope you have fun this summer with me and whoever else you go out with. P.S., P.S. think you for all the good times and memories you have had and shared together!

The choice — the responsibility . . .

The hour was momentous:

Students issued orders, then polite requests —

Requests for the absence of teachers in a student gathering —

A gathering to promote innovations — necessary innovations — in the policies at Lee . . .

Such was a controversial Student Council assembly.

Organizations — and individuals — in opposition presented declarations Emphasizing the importance of both student and faculty involvement.

But council members made, answered for, the choice . . .

Meg-

It's been great getting to know ya this year. We had lots of fun in Chemistry. Have fun this summer. Stay sweet. Lots of luck.

Love
Bubba

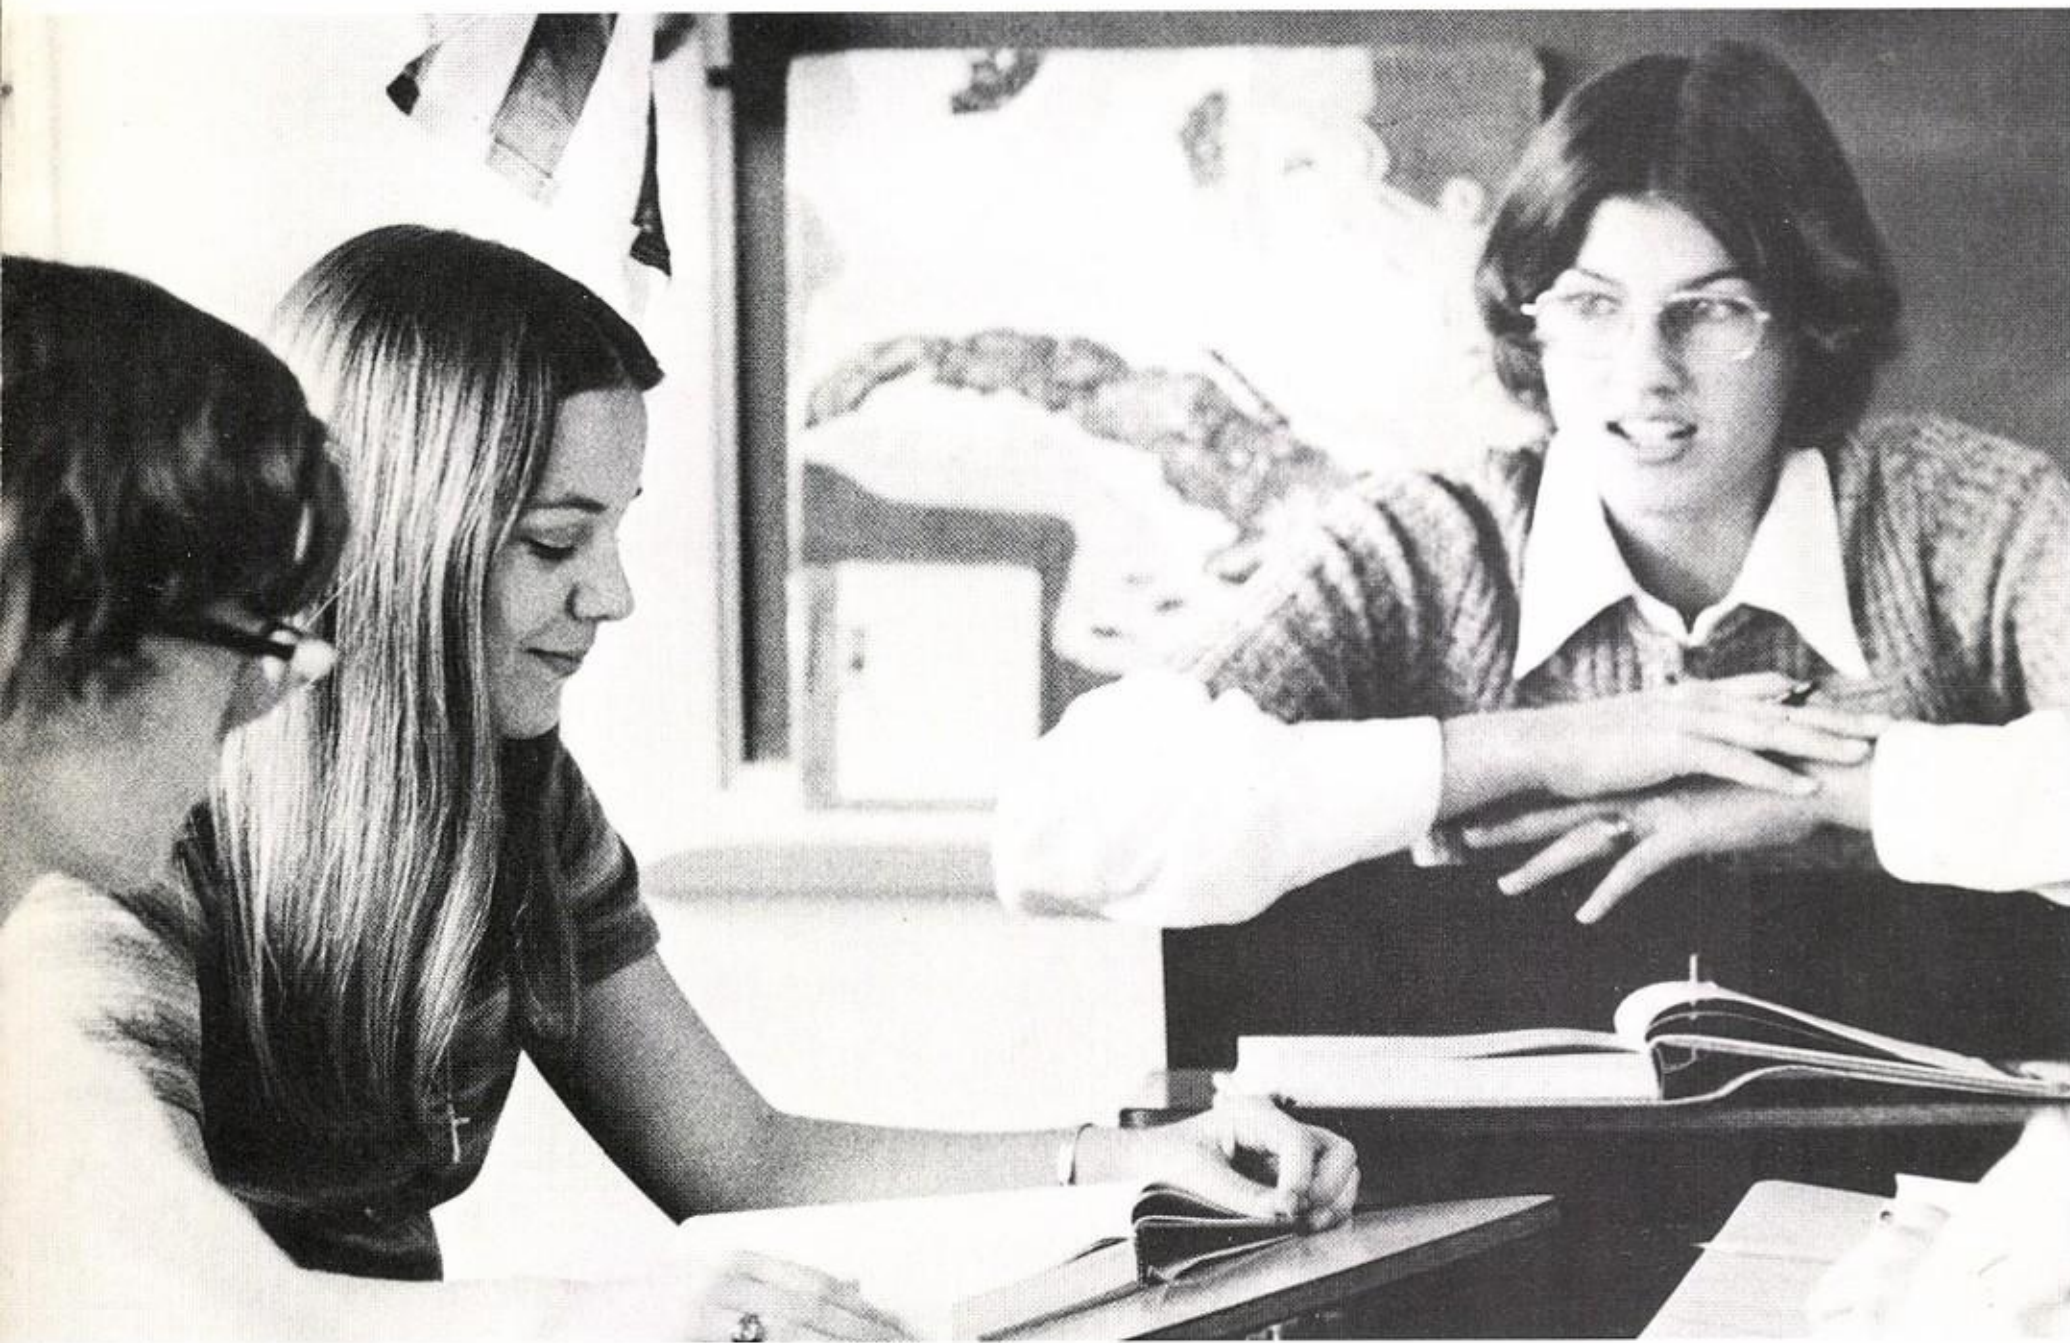

And the council members — aware of each result —

Also established a resolution and apologized;

They had made a mistake;

They had learned . . .

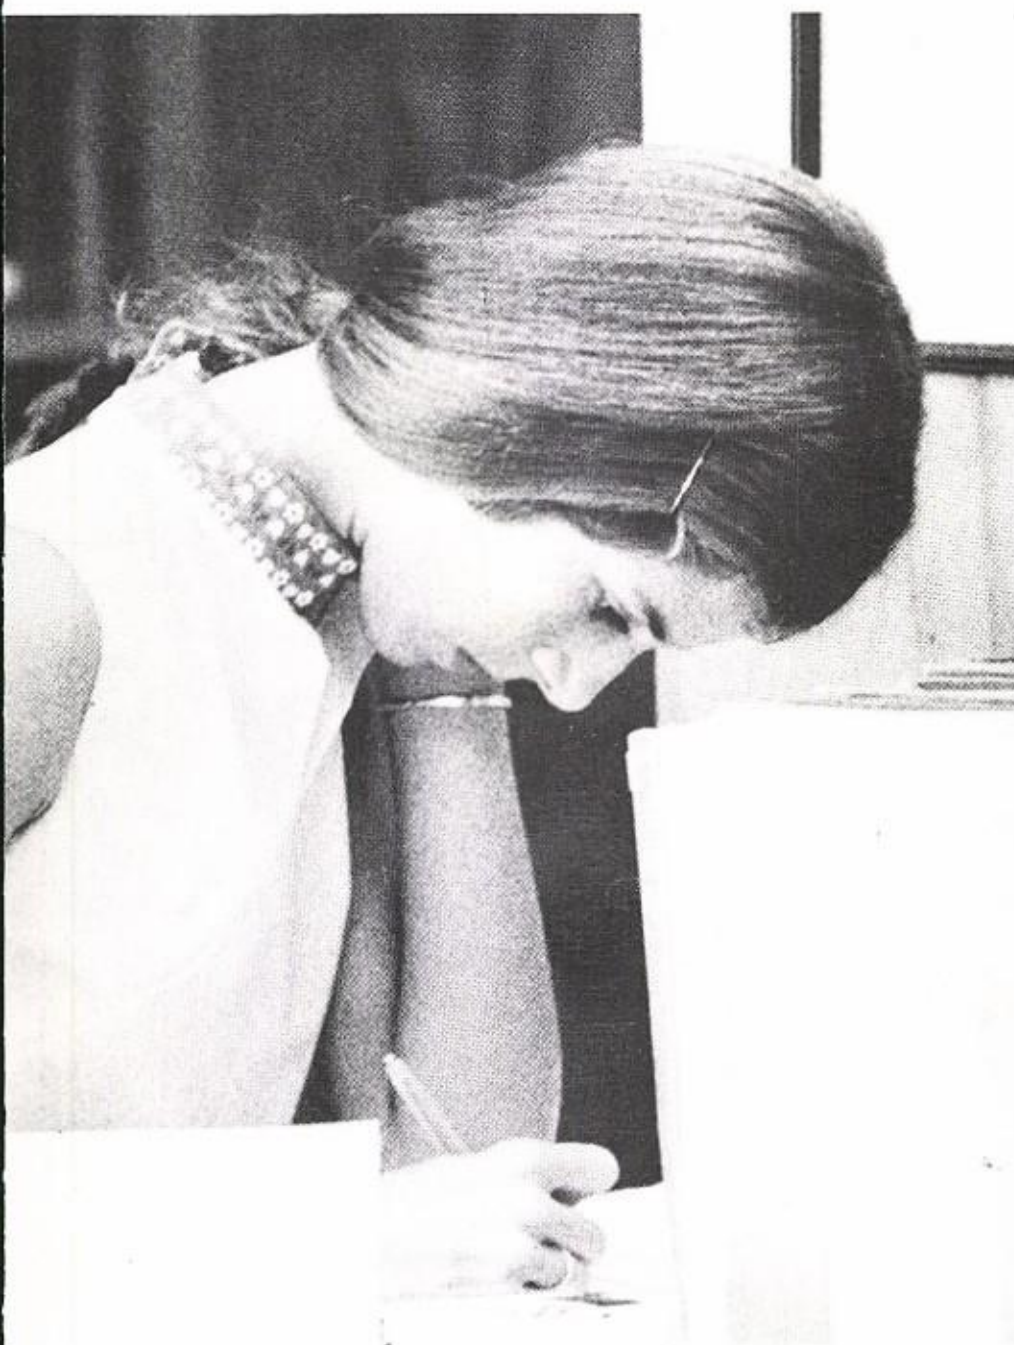

The responsibility was assumed.

Meg -
 Well how does it feel to almost be a big senior? ha.
 I'm glad we were in the same French class. Its really been fun although we might not pass. I'm just kidding.
 You and Daug are so cute together and I love you both.
 Have a fantastic summer.

Love,
 Laura Lee

For respecting educators — because they are educators — is an essential part of learning.

With a new principal — as well as new teachers — seeking to guide and direct,

Students faced yet another choice —
 The choice of accepting this situation of change.

And each realized his basic responsibility to self —

That of obtaining an education . . . a truly individual education.

Tracy -

Only one (1) more year to go! What can I say? Next year has got to be better for you. We did accomplish something in French this yr - we put Mrs. Peterson in the hospital! (he-he) I know you're gonna have fun because so many crazy things go on in that head of yours! Besides, "women-of-the-world" know how to have fun!!! I've really had fun talking to you and getting to know you last yr. in Biology & this yr. in French - even though it was god-awful. I know I'll miss Lee next yr. even though I say I won't, and the fun we've had in class (a little) will be one of the things I'll miss.

Have fun this summer, good luck, and if I don't see you again - have a happy life! Wyche Baker

Meg - I don't really know where to begin w/ you. All I can say is I'm glad we had classes together + I really enjoyed your company and your understanding when I was in a bad mood or being my usual grouchy self. I have to admit - you really put up w/ a lot from me,

And this education involved an even more personal obligation:

Administrators suggested basic guidelines of dress,

But only a personal code — a code revealing the true person, the true self —

Influenced both the dress and attitude of Lee students . .

Each made his own choice — Not that of last year, but a freer choice.

Each did, each said, whatever satisfied an individually set standard.

Students assumed a personal responsibility.

and I appreciate you for doing so. At times you were as nutty as a fruitcake but I loved you for it! She's hoping you have many years of happiness & success. Love, Kelly P.S. we have almost made it through French!!

*It was great meeting you this year & having you in gym.

go getters who will get something out of life.
Have fun this summer & come back as good a bad-

Lee individuals preserved varying attitudes:

Some acknowledged spirit as a prevailing force at Lee,

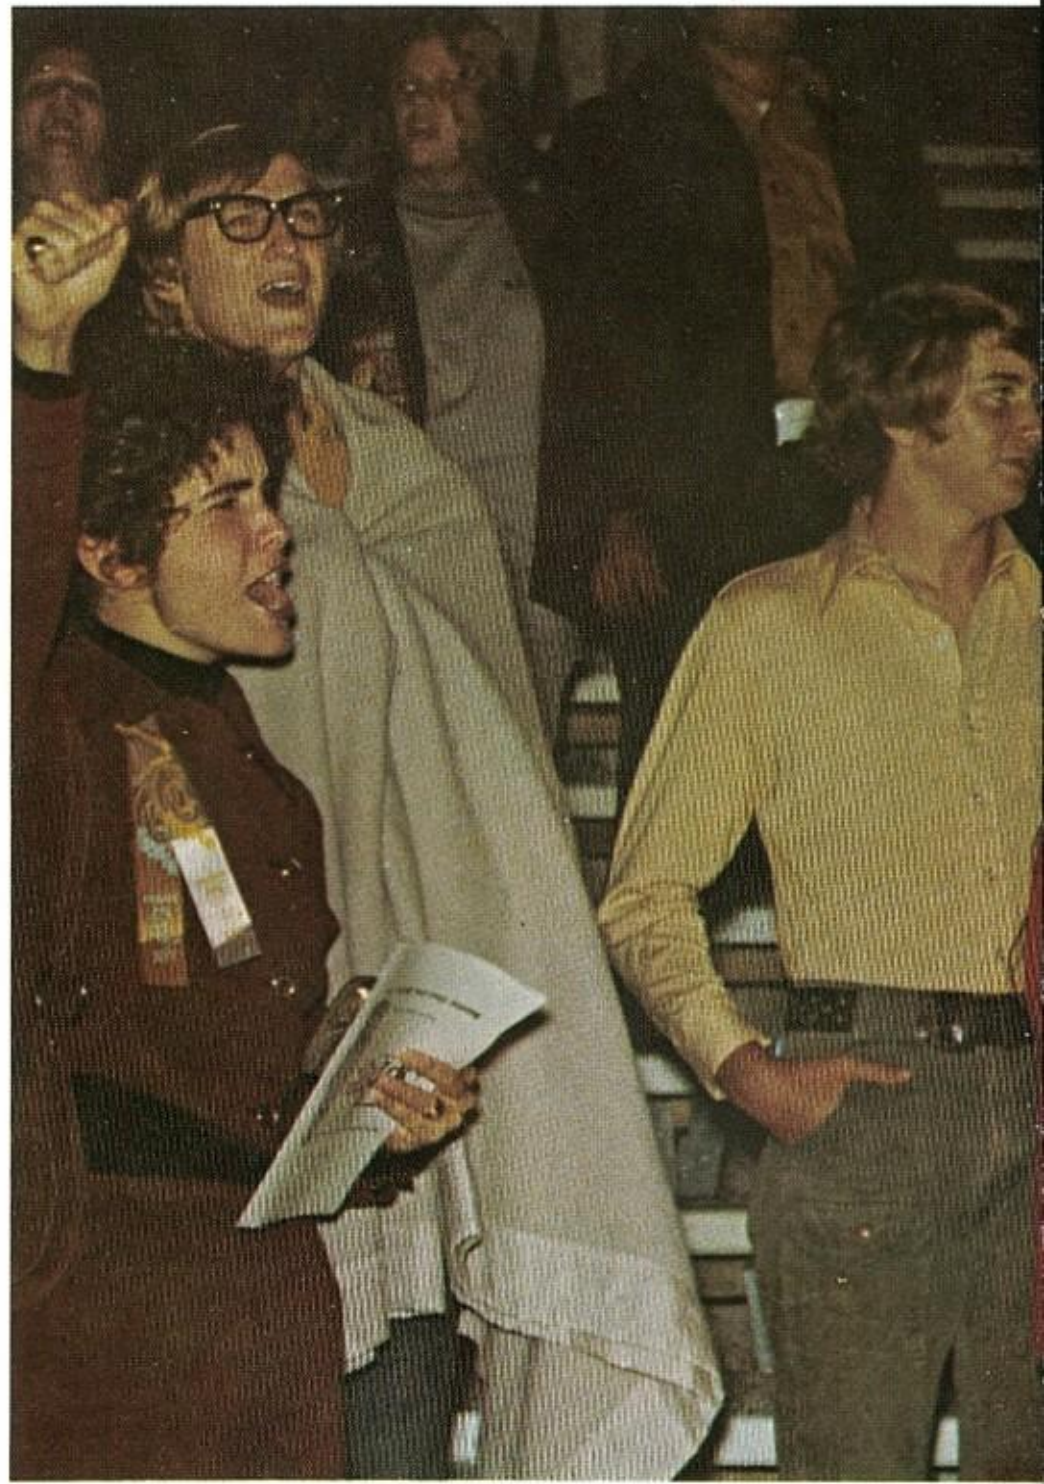

But others —

Questioned compulsory attendance at the initial pep rally,

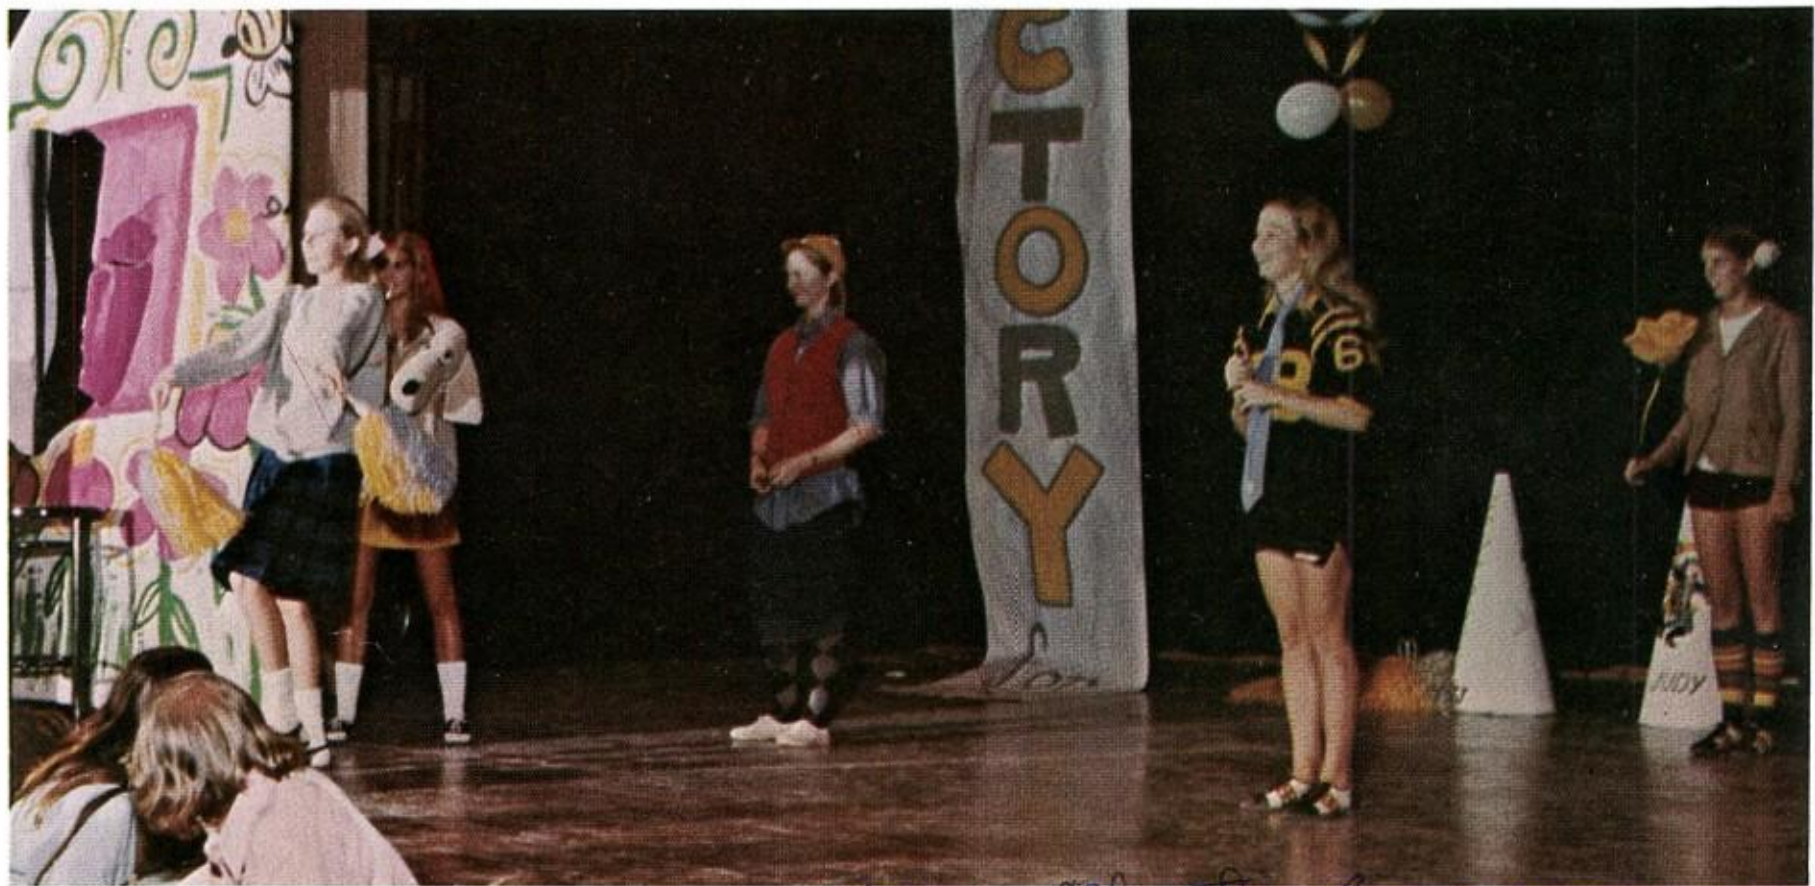

Questioned a tradition of rising for the school song.

For each, a choice was made . . .

Some assumed, some rejected, a responsibility to Lee.

Meg, now that this year is almost over I'm really looking forward to our senior year. A lot of good things happened this year and next year will be even better. I've enjoyed being friends again this year, don't forget all the "exciting" days in Mrs. Peterson's class. Have fun this summer with Doug and I will see you in August. Love,
Susan

Let's be like this from now on oh, certainly!

Meg,
 well as chief competitors on a team I'd say we've done really well to stay friends. You provide inspiration for me to improve & vice-versa. It wasn't fun in French, not because of us, we tried but "Meg
 turn around" prevented us from having the fun we could have have. Next year, I'll sit in front of you!
 Practice V.B. this summer! Not kidding, forget it if you want. ah ha!
 No - have fun with Doug,

Love,
 Kathryn

Meg,
 Try to be more original with your poetry projects from now on. Stay sweet always.
 You made homeroom a riot. Good luck!

Yet choices, responsibilities, continued to develop outside the school building.

With the advent of a significant innovation in national election policy,

Each student — in this election year
 — necessarily acquired added responsibilities:

Those of sufficient age directly contributed an essential vote,

While others — younger, yet equally as concerned — chose to aid and support that candidate of similar beliefs.

Meg, it's really

Meg~

We've been through alot this year and I think we've really had alot of fun. Our shopping spree and "The Last Picture Show" (a movie I wish I could forget I remember that couple in front of us?), And I'll never, never forget the night we climbed (wait a minute I climbed in the window) in the window. We had a good time on dates too, too numerous to mention. We had some nice talked too. You were the first people we ever went out with and I'll never forget that first beautiful date. I think things were a lot different then for both of us. The fights were fewer then and a good time was had, by all.

Activities

I hope you keep dating for a long time, you both are really neat people and make a cool looking couple. Life feels sorta unreal for me right now

Whether supporting a team for but I remember all the good times we all had together and it makes achievement of victory, it a whole lot easier.

Next year will be your best, I promise. Live it Or experiencing vicariously the life of to the hilt, you won't regret it. All the cool things you get a character, to do as seniors really makes it great. I'll come back a see you next

Or persuading a judge on a current year for sure and if you're ever in San Antonio you better drop topic — in on me. And if you find time inbetween, all your senior activities write me Students probed for an education not sometime.

Well, that's all I've got to say so I guess only of books, but also of life. it's time to stop.

Have a fantastic summer and let's do get Each of these people assumed a together for lunch sometime. Have a fabulous senior year responsibility to Lee and keep me informed on what's going on.

By maintaining its spirit, its rivalries its activities.

To a very sweet girl. Stay that way! Don't change! I have a great summer & lots of luck throughout your life. Love Ana Olivas

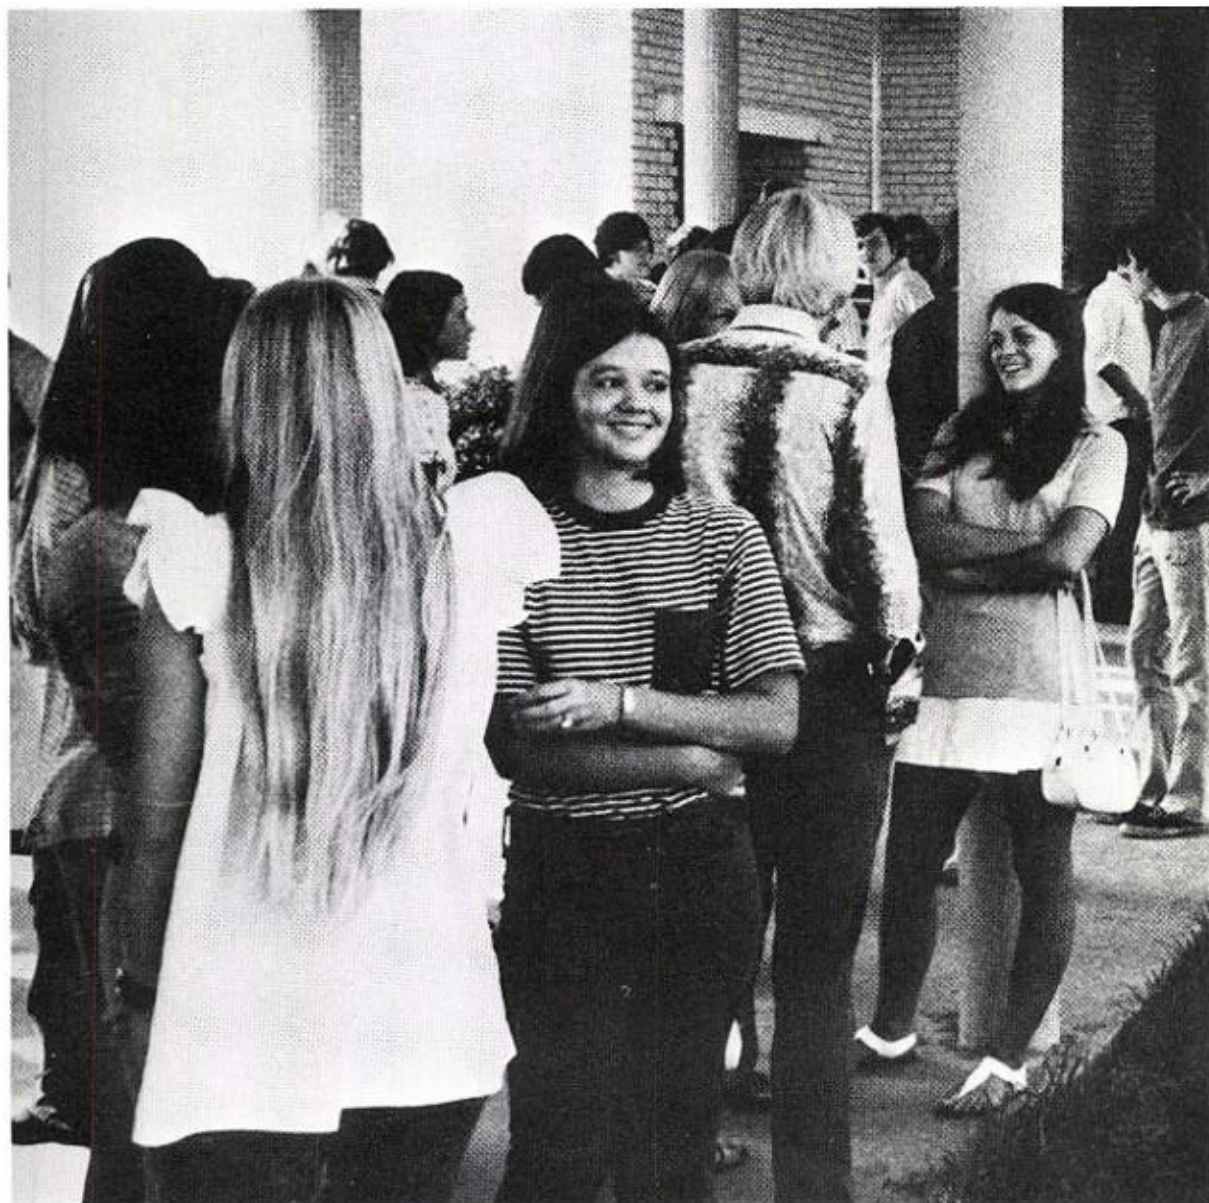

Before the P.T.A. meeting begins, Susan Read and Allison Arnsperger discuss the possibility of parents going back to school!?

Yields Involvement

Representatives from every club at Lee were present at orientation.

Sophomores, wondering what is in store for them, stand in front of Lee before orientation.

As fall approached, eager students, ready to face new challenges and responsibilities, returning to the classrooms. Seniors anticipated their last year full of countless activities — oceanography field trips, parties, the prom, and "Senior Skip Day." Juniors, returning to see old friends and teachers, joined forces with the seniors to greet each curious sophomore.

Anchor Club members welcomed the sophomores at orientation on August 21, while representatives of each club were present to encourage membership of the newcomers. After the assembly, sophomores, preparing for their first day of high school, acquainted themselves with the unfamiliar halls. Each student was apprehensive at first, but the initial shyness was soon overcome, and the adjustment to life at Lee began.

Cheerleaders . . .

Head cheerleaders Kim Webb and Johnny Duncan lead the Generals to victory. Let's have one big fight! Okay, gang?

Leap frog? Alternates Betsy Sengelmann and Don Palmer practice before a game.

"Don't drop me!" pleads Judy Graff to Bill Hayes.

"My girdle is killing me!" comments Kitty Gallagher to her partner, Pat Doherty.

Spark Spirit

Each spring, hopeful individuals competing for the position of cheerleader face a select group of students and teachers. Eight students are chosen with great care, for they must promote enthusiasm throughout the year.

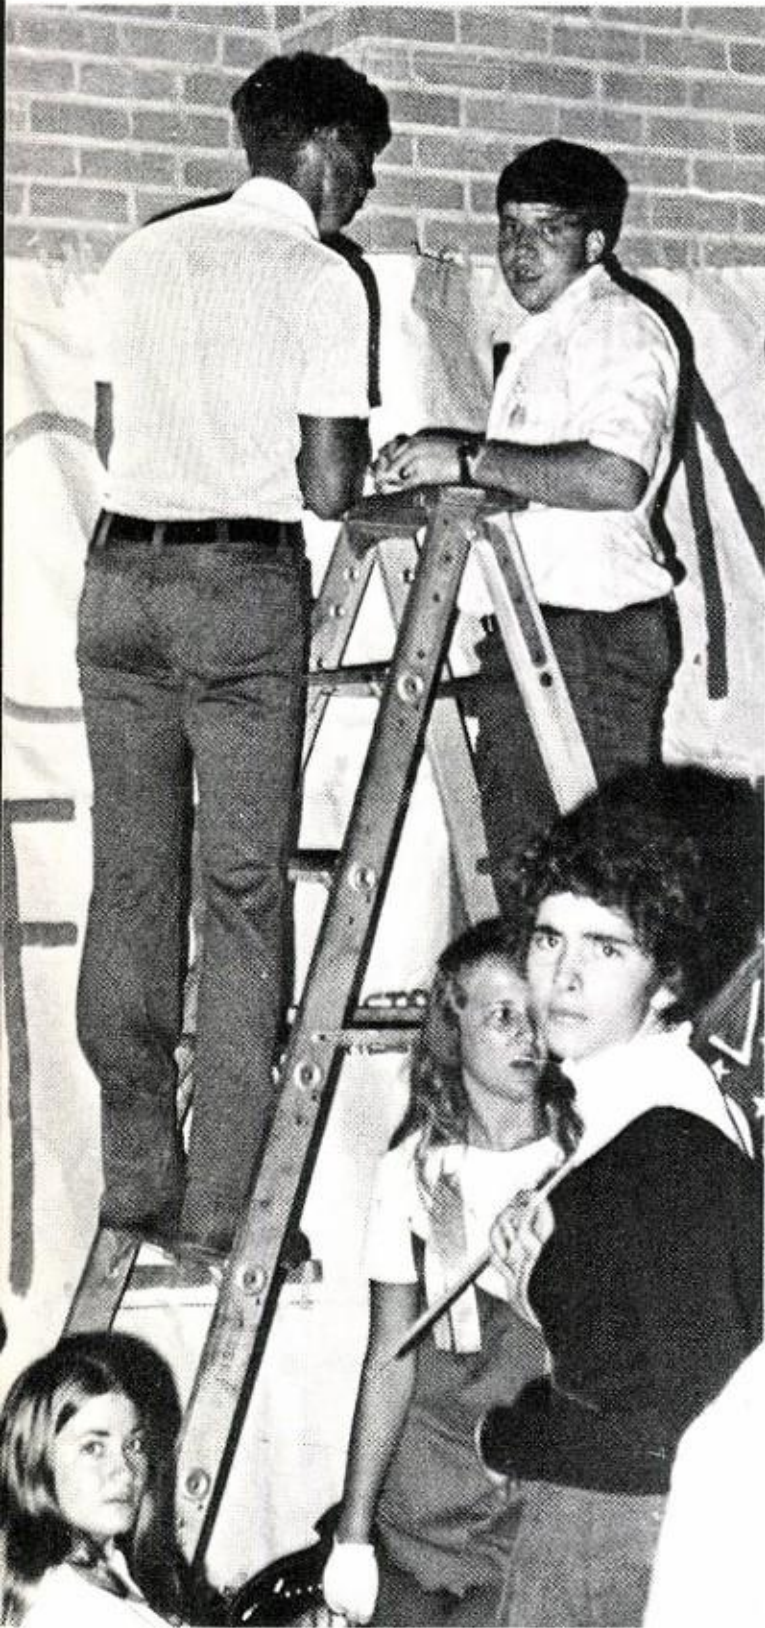

Heading the '72-'73 "spirited six" are Kim Webb and Johnny Duncan while cheerleaders Kitty Gallagher, Pat Doherty, Judy Graff, Bill Hayes, and alternates Betsy Sengelmann and Don Palmer contribute equally to the spirit.

The honor of being selected cheerleader, however, brought endless responsibilities, long hours of practice, many games to attend, new cheers to create, and a constant readiness to lead 2,100 students to victory.

The "spirited six" pile up for a lot of laughs!

Spirit Committee Stirs Spirit

Greg Shandera and Robert Reeves show their talents — hanging posters? Susie Patterson looks a bit perplexed by this action!

Neenah Friedheim uses her charm on Kirk Pfeffer, but Kirk seems to be having second thoughts about this approach.

"Our fearless leader," Uncle Bob, points out to Erik Tosh the finer things in life! What do you say, Erik?

Cooperation Builds Support

"Hey, save me one, Mark!" yells Tommy Ford to Mark Hardwick while Cyndy White does the honors in handing out cupcakes.

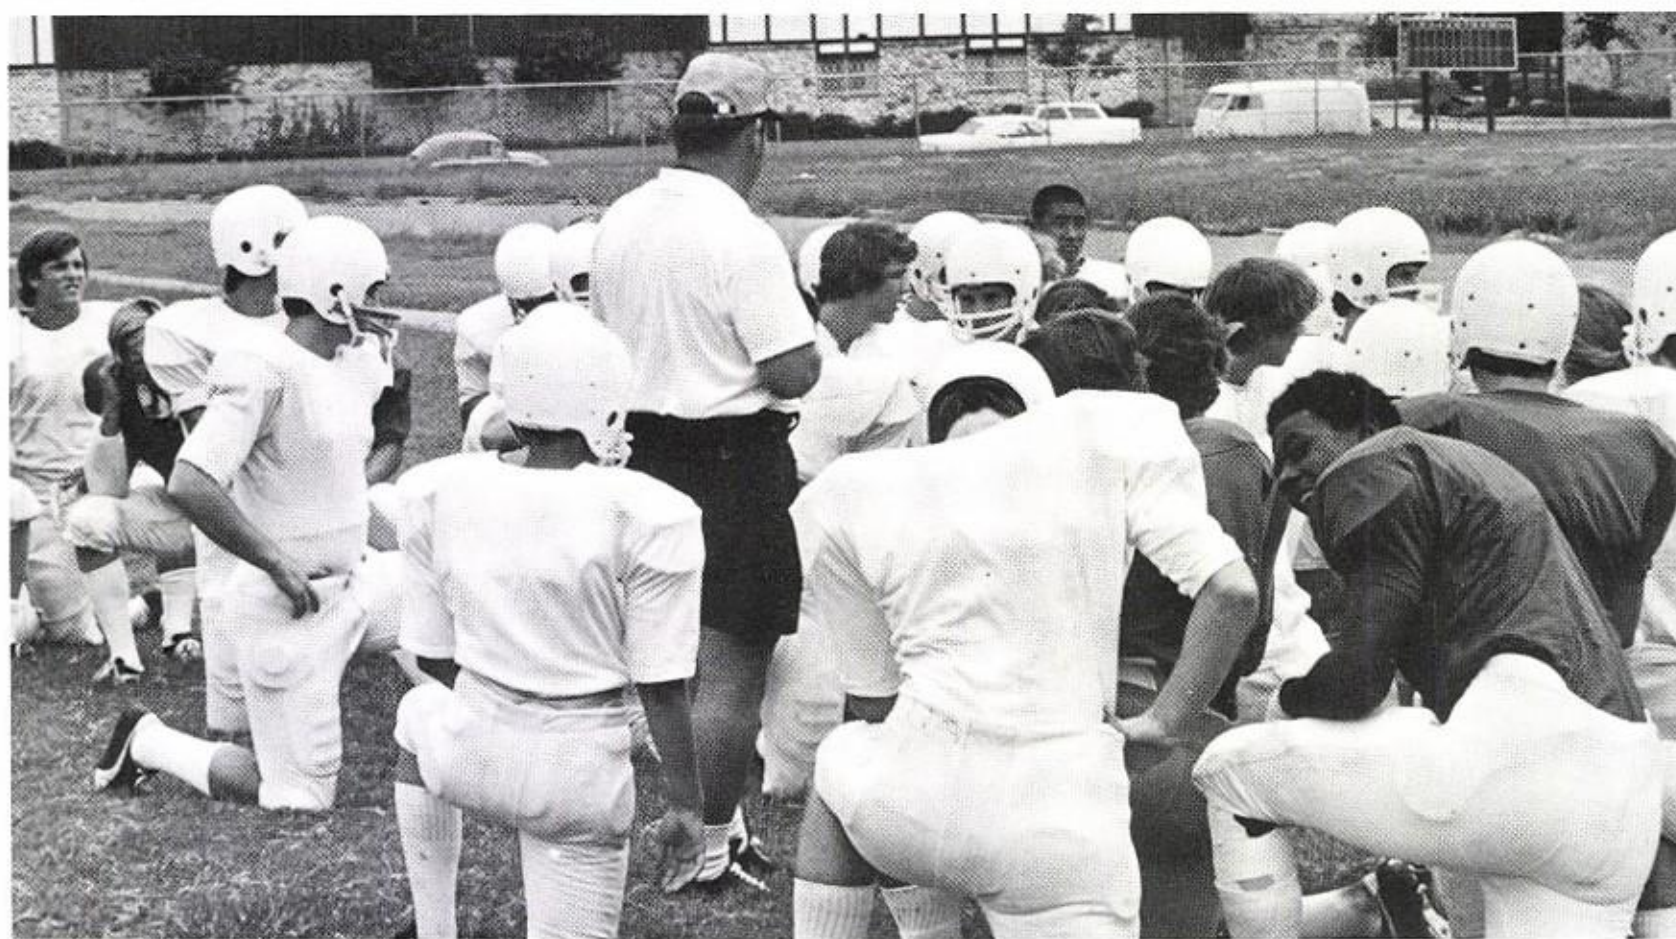

Coach Wilson presents his "surviving six" football players on the varsity squad. Rodney Davis, Steve Johnson, Dexter Krause, Steve Buckley, and Bruce Stewart say, "Smile, we can't be all that bad!"

Anne Westbrook, Donna Dori, and Kathy Fischer show a little cool in saying, "It never, never, never stings."

S-T-R-E-T-C-H seems to be the name of the game in papering the auditorium. Frank Bonno, Lynn Schissler, and Sarah Watts participate in the weekly activity of decorating the school.

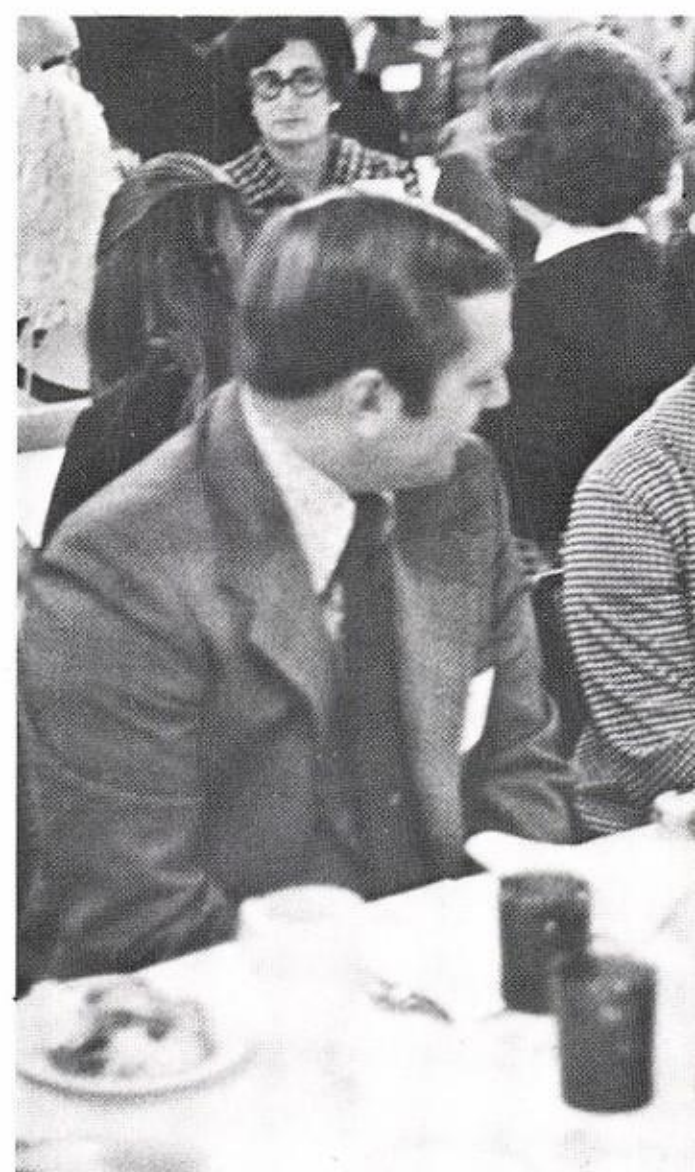

Coach Wilson talks to the varsity squad about practice. Yogi Reece seems to be entertaining different ideas.

"All right, who took my dinner?" whines Mark Santa Maria as Bobby Berry and Tim Goostree act as if they don't understand!

"Gee, Mr. Miller, you didn't have to make a special award just for me!" blushes Kirk Pfeffer.

Miss Countee prays that the food will arrive,

Hard Work Greet's Reward

Coach Green wonders what Stan Hinson is drinking while Ronnie Routzon inconspicuously passes it under the table.

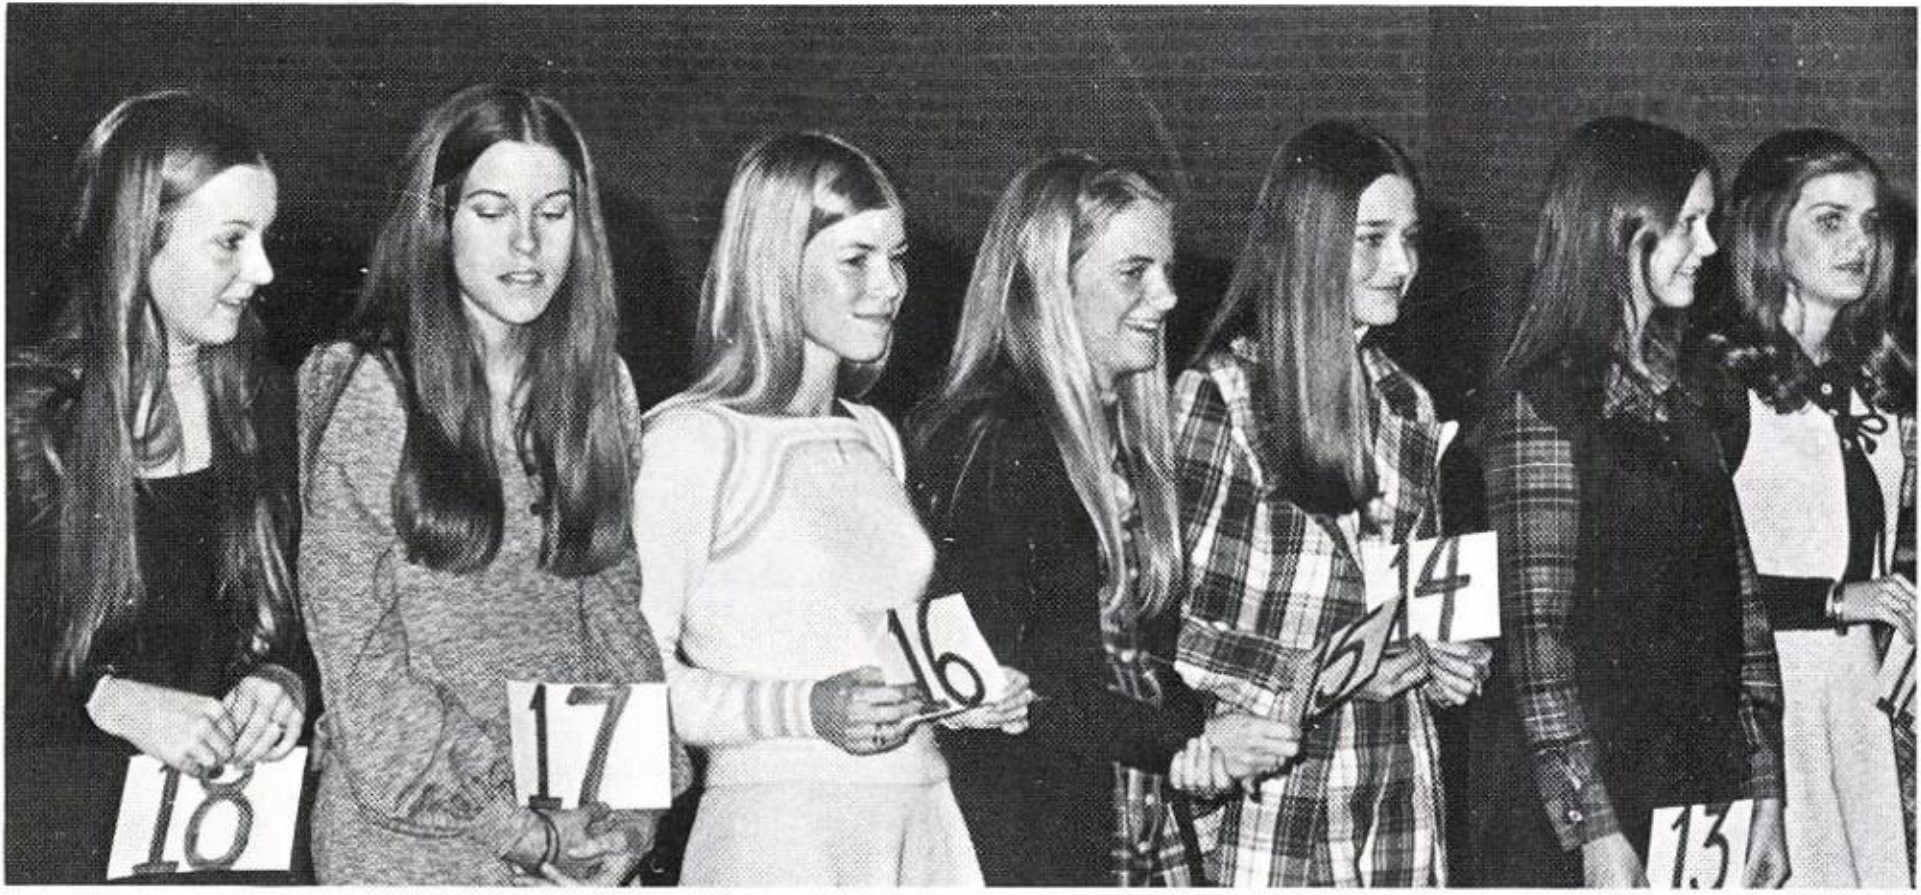

while Mr. Glover looks on.

Long hours of hard work, many games played, and a strong team were the culmination of an eventful season of football.

On November 28, at the annual football banquet, awards were given to the outstanding players on the team. Charlie Williams received the award for Most Valuable Player, while Kevin Henry was named Most Valuable Back. Charlie Williams was also announced as winner of the Armchair Generals Award for the most outstanding player. Coaches, teachers, and parents were present to congratulate each player for the last time. Although the banquet at the Briar Club marked the season's climax, anticipations of an even better team next fall were already developing.

Contests Provide Entertainment

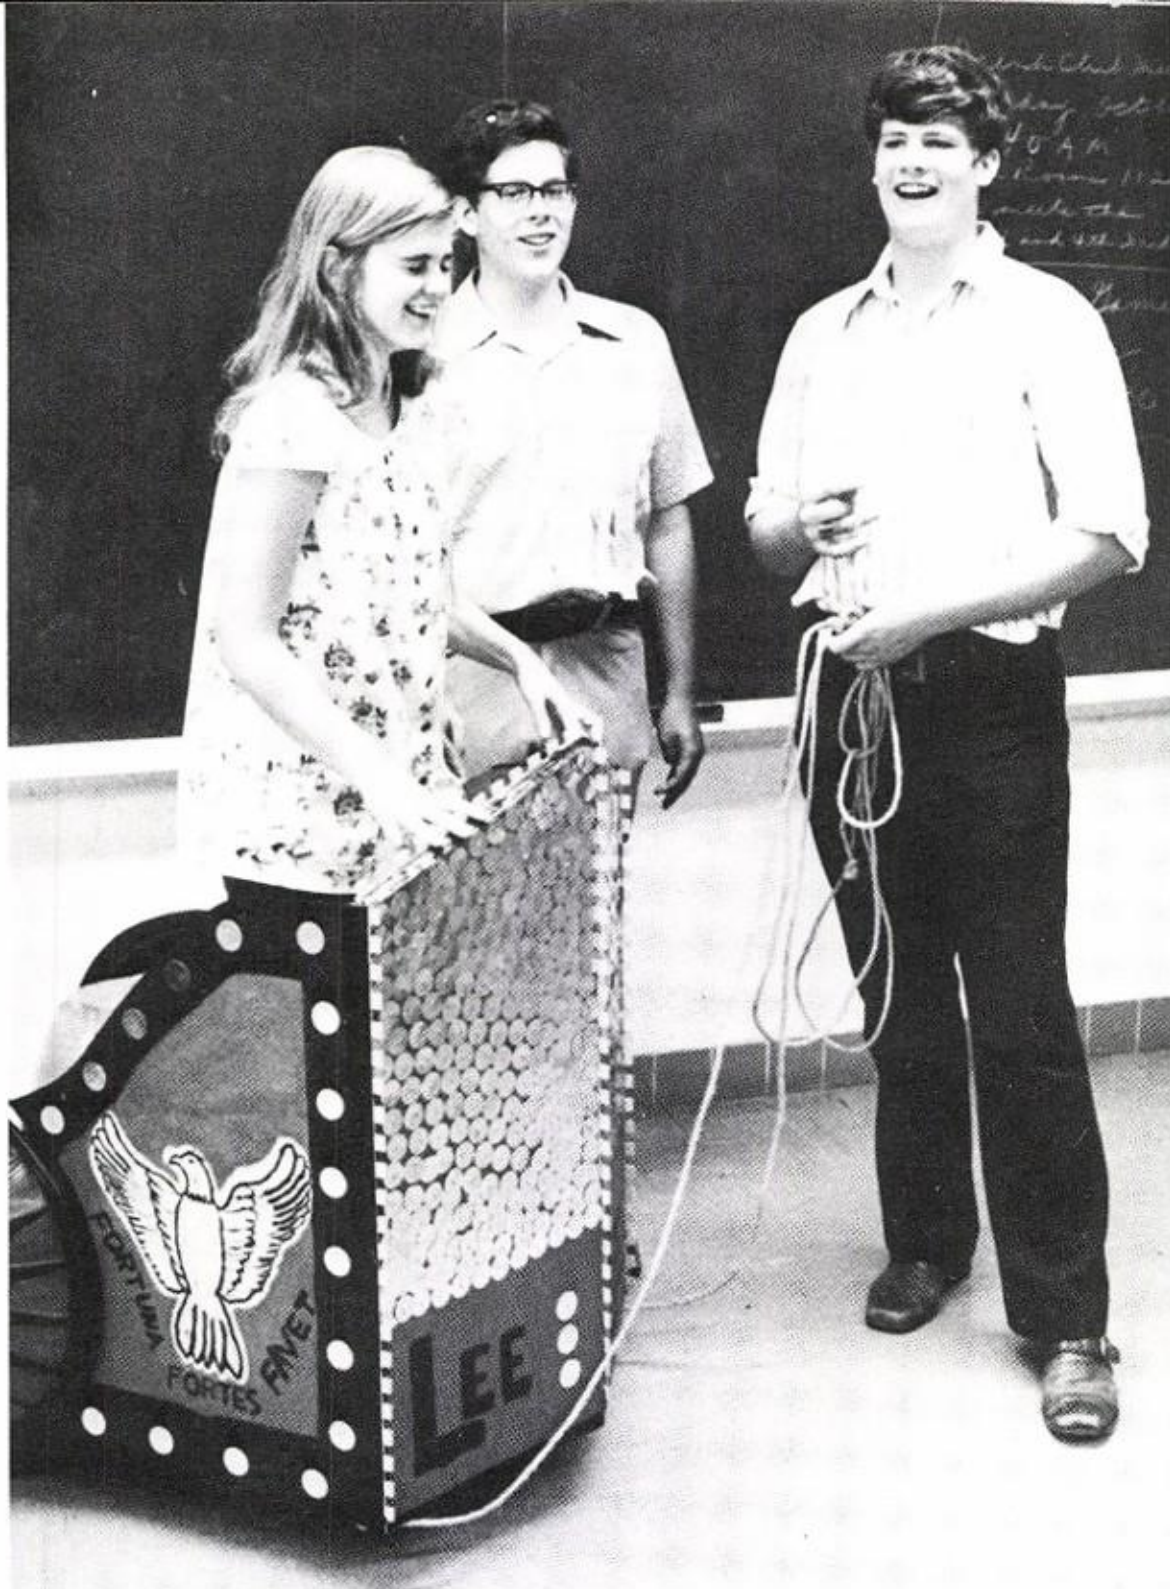

Lee's beauties line up for judging.

"How did that one on the end ever get in here?" whispers Miss Etter to Miss Haynes as Miss Satlof stares in amazement.

"What's wrong with you? Haven't you ever seen an elf before?" asks Martha Walton.

Grant Martin is glad that Sky Davis ordered his '73 chariot with deluxe options. Ellen Scully is a little embarrassed by all this attention.

Contests provide Lee students with an opportunity for further involvement throughout the year. One of the most popular is the "Most Beautiful" or "Most Handsome" contest in which any Lee student may participate, although nominees are initially elected from the homerooms. For the first time, both the nominees and semifinalists were judged in person by a select panel. The results were kept secret until May, when the SABER was issued, and the suspense became a reality.

Through participation in club activities, students have an additional chance to compete in contests against students from other schools. This year, the Latin Honor Society participated in Roman Games Day, which was held at Lamar High School. Students took part in chariot races and grape-eating contests. These contests provide a necessary break from the normal educational atmosphere of the classroom.

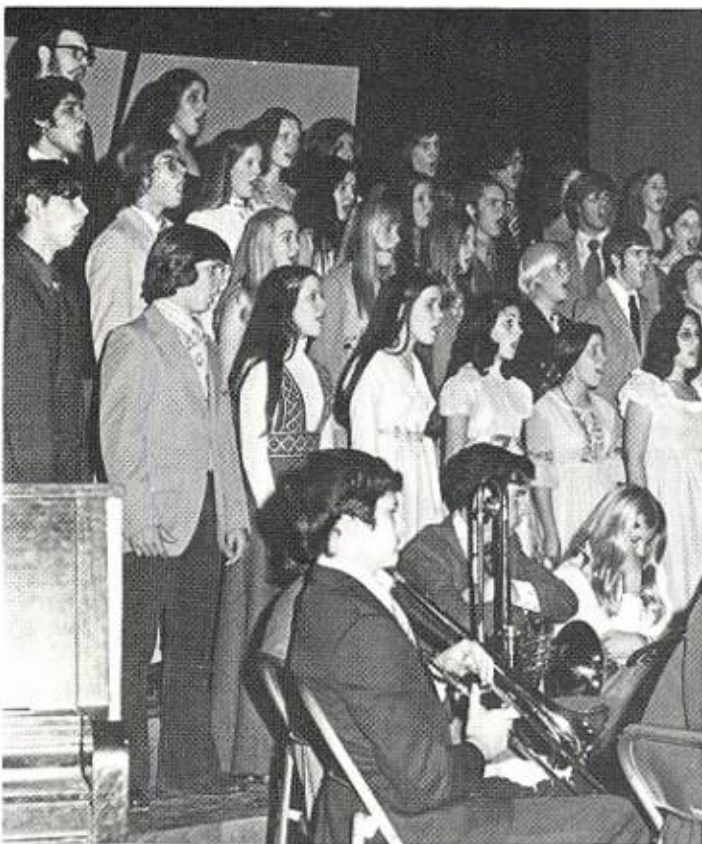

Kirk Pfeffer can't believe his low number in the "Most Handsome" judging, as Bennett Hughes, John Tipton, Craig Damuth, and Frank Bonno express disagreement in their ratings.

Everyone Faces Christmas

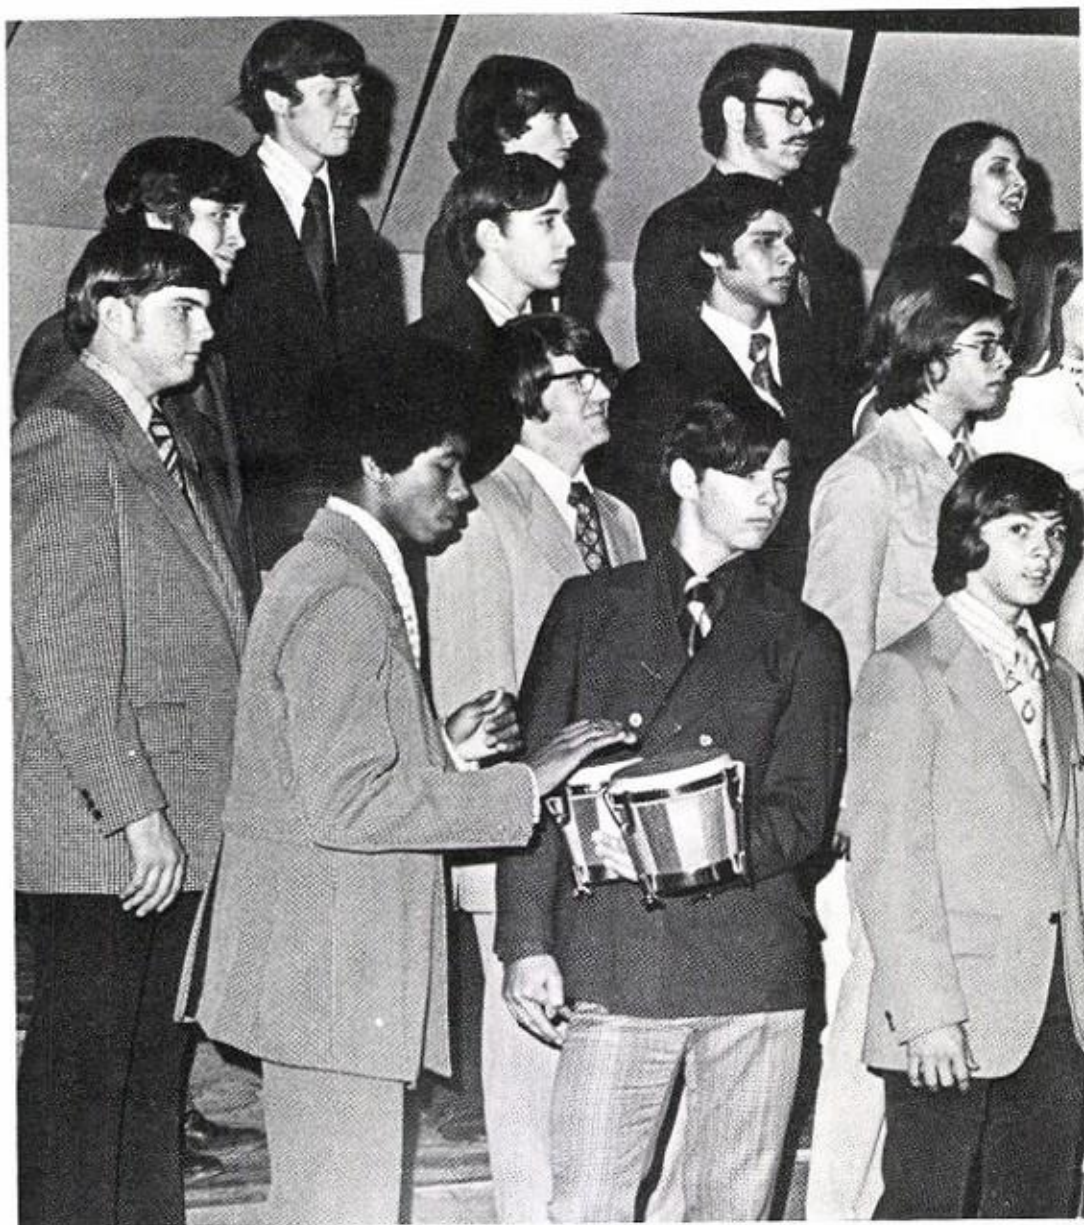

Everyone looks forward to Christmas dinner. These girls enjoy their first one in a foods class before the holidays.

The Southernaires and Lee orchestra "do their thing" in Lee's annual Christmas pageant.

Bill Boss and Patti Brandon show their appreciation of basketball at the Lee Exes game played during the holidays.

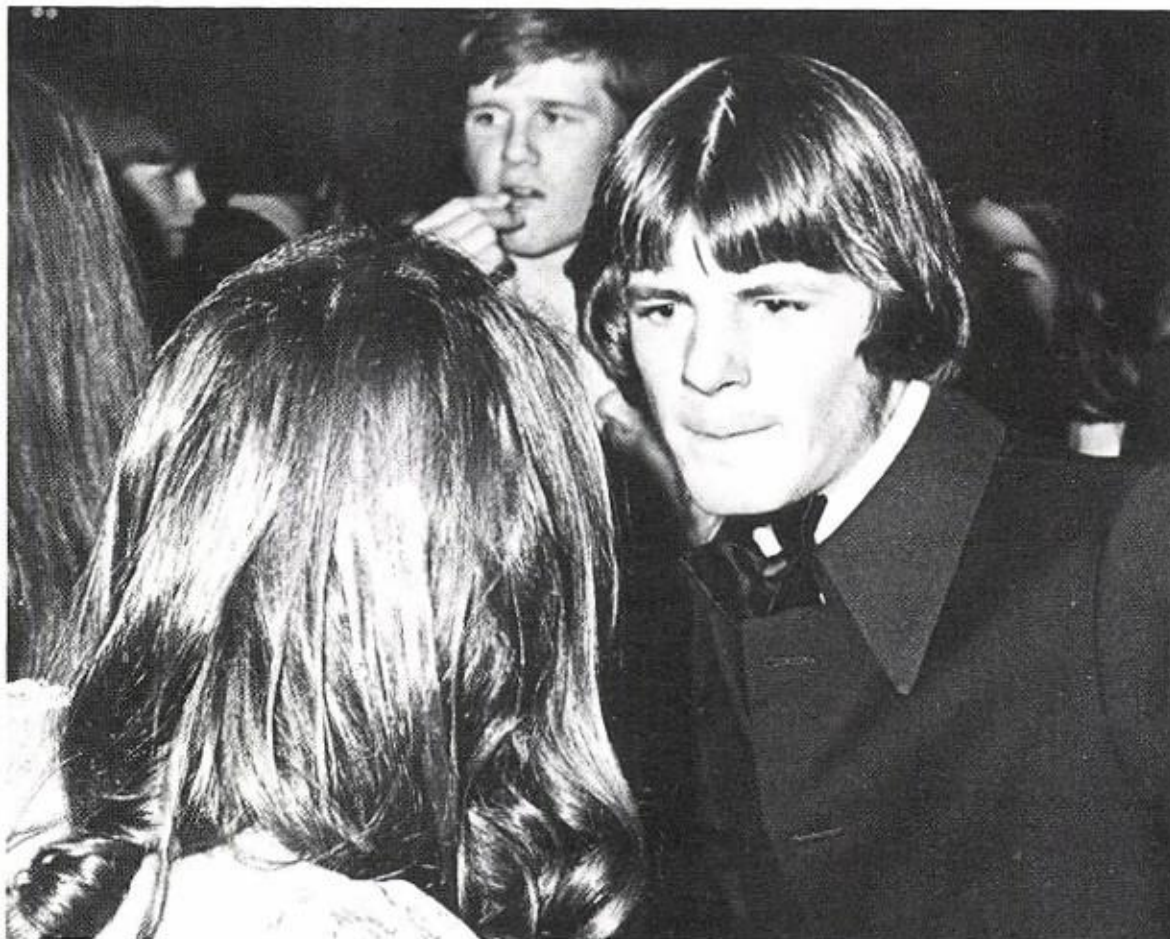

Billy Paige pats out a few good vibrations while Donny Hogg and Charlie Schwab seem to be having second thoughts about the beat. Sounds like a rain dance, huh, boys?

As Christmas is a time of happiness and brotherhood, Lee students found fulfillment in relating joy and true holiday spirit to the entire student body. The choral department, directed by Miss Eleanor Grant, presented a Christmas pageant which was accompanied by Lee's Stage Band, a winner of many awards. On Christmas Eve night, these students observed the result of their numerous hours of practice, for the program was presented on television.

A special treat at the Christmas program this year was the River Oaks Baptist Church Bell Choir — "rings of excitement!"

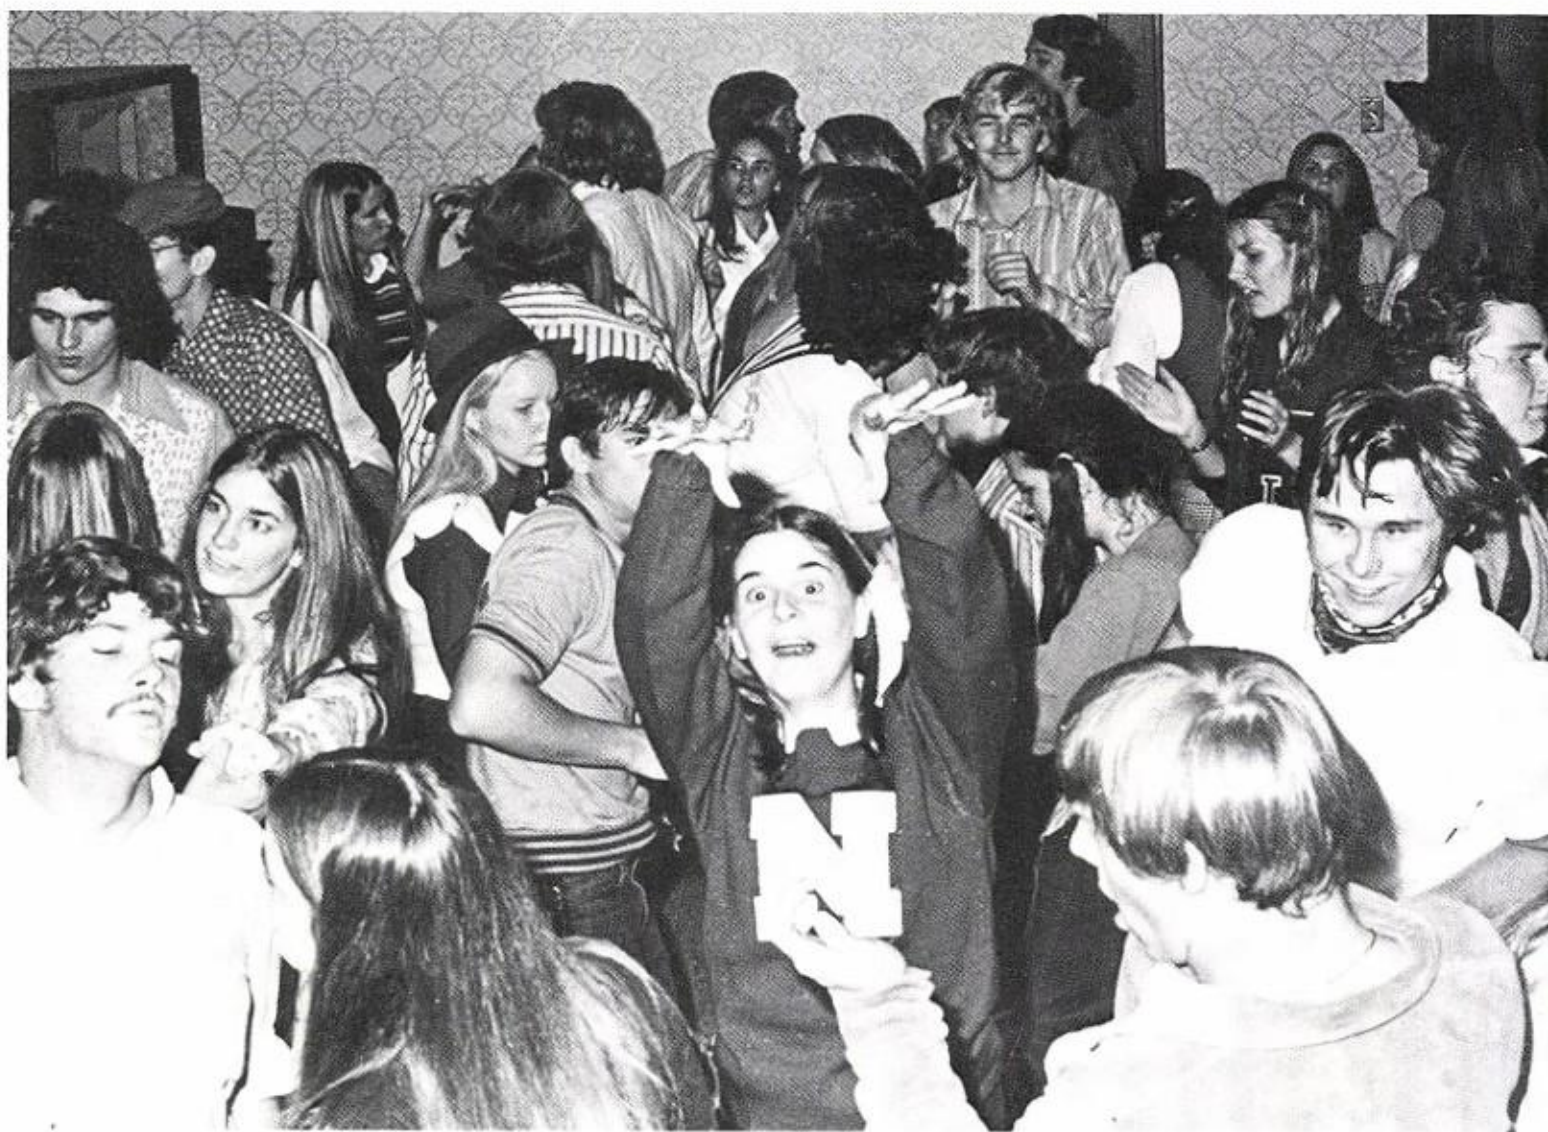

New Year Arrives

"Why can't I remember her name?" ponders Jim Rea while staring at his date!

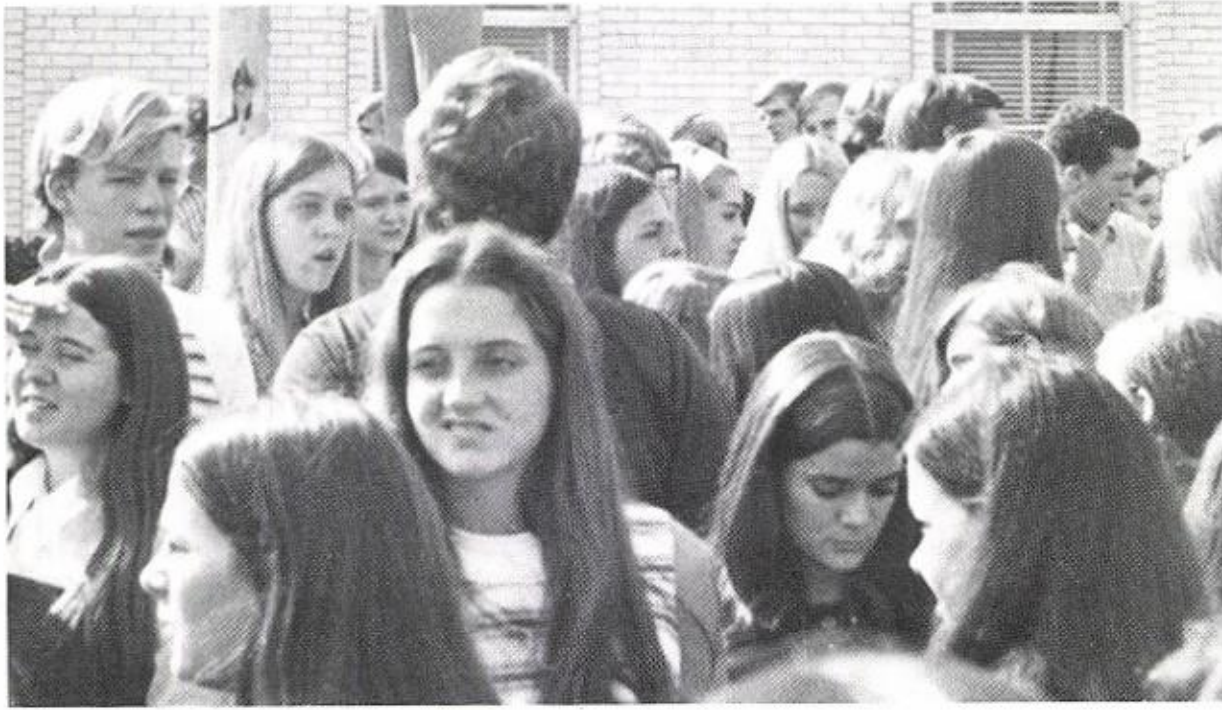

Julie Caldwell pleads to Beth Roessler, "Why can't I be built like Raquel Welch?"

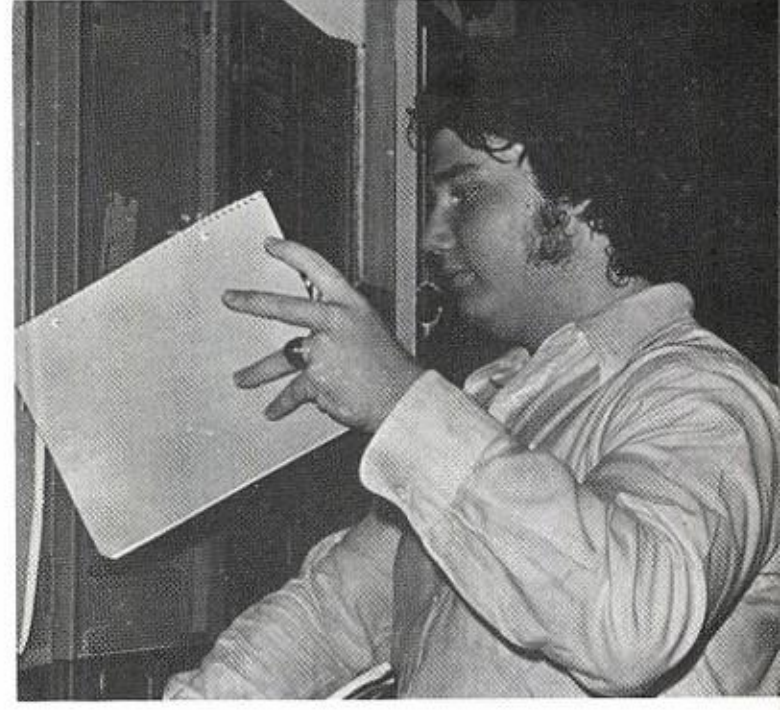

Alden Bumstead puts the "hex" on Bert Magill, Sharon Parsley, Steve Buckley, and Charlie Williams!

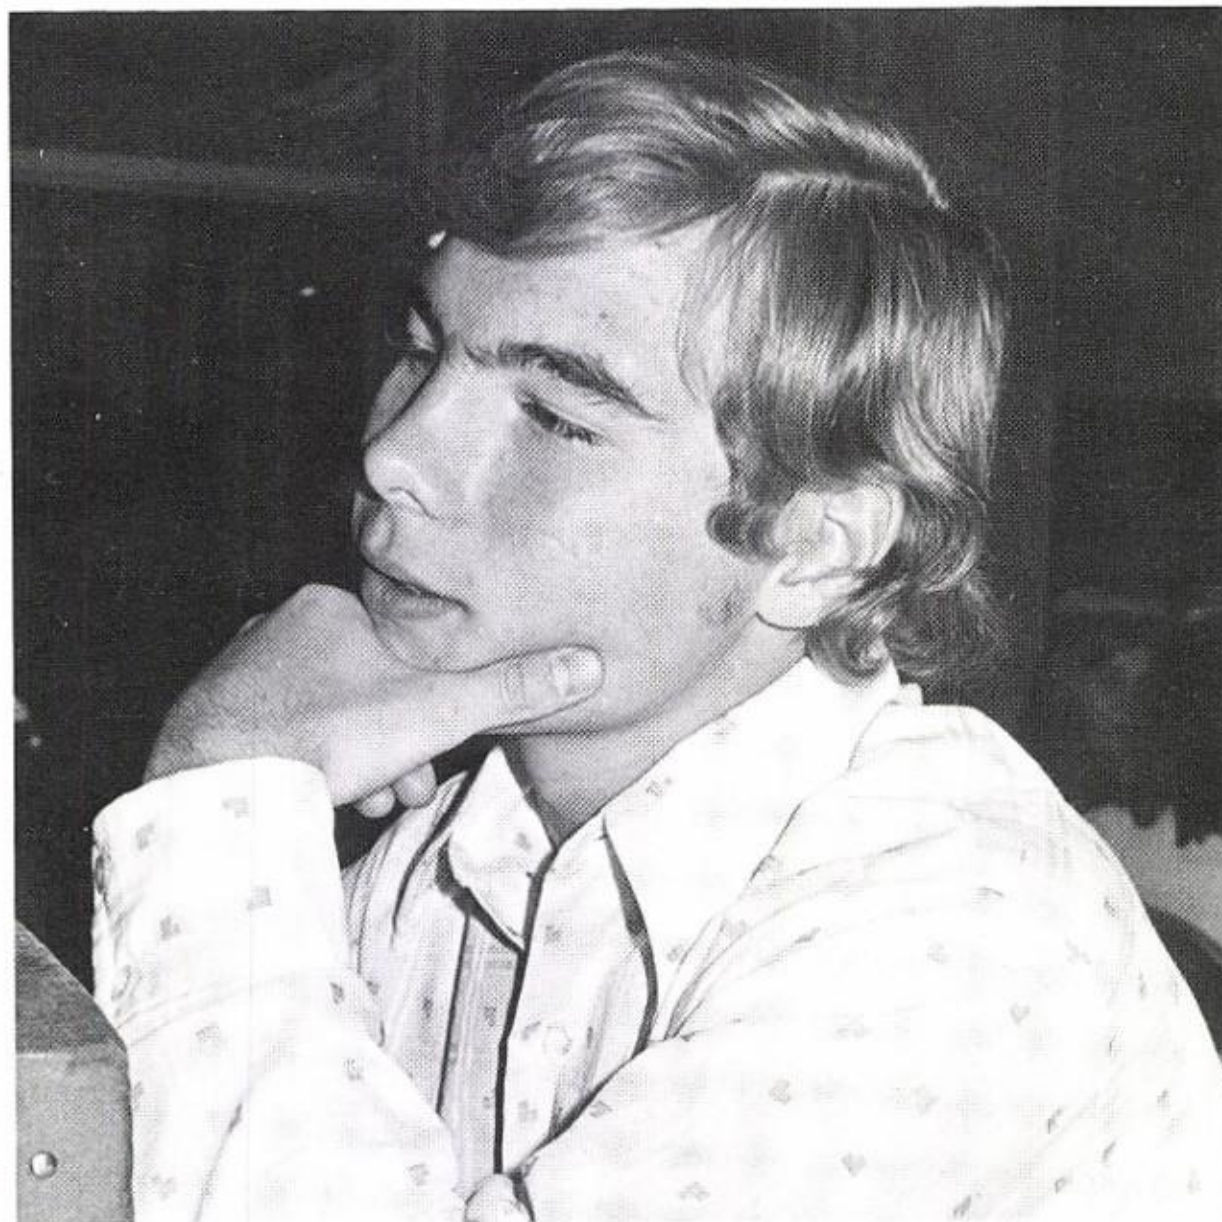

Classes Resume; Finals Loom Ahead

Seniors don't look too happy at the thought of returning to the classrooms after their holiday!

Frank Bullock prepares for his finals by putting all of his books in his locker.

"I wonder which final I flunked the worst." Bill Bauerschlag contemplates this serious situation.

As the New Year begins, the realization of nearing final examinations becomes prevalent in each classroom. Finals loom large in the minds of eager sophomores, but merely signify another part of the high school routine for each junior and senior.

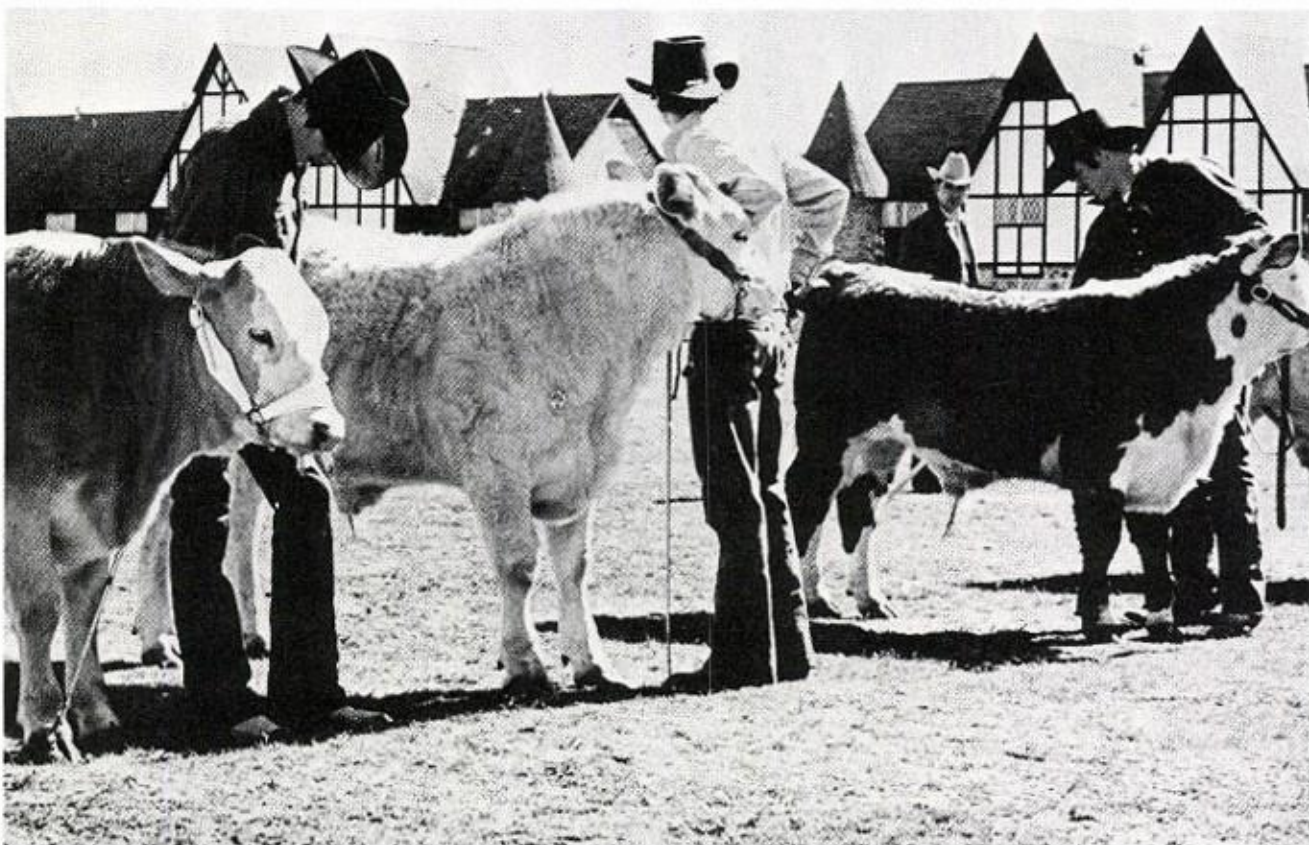

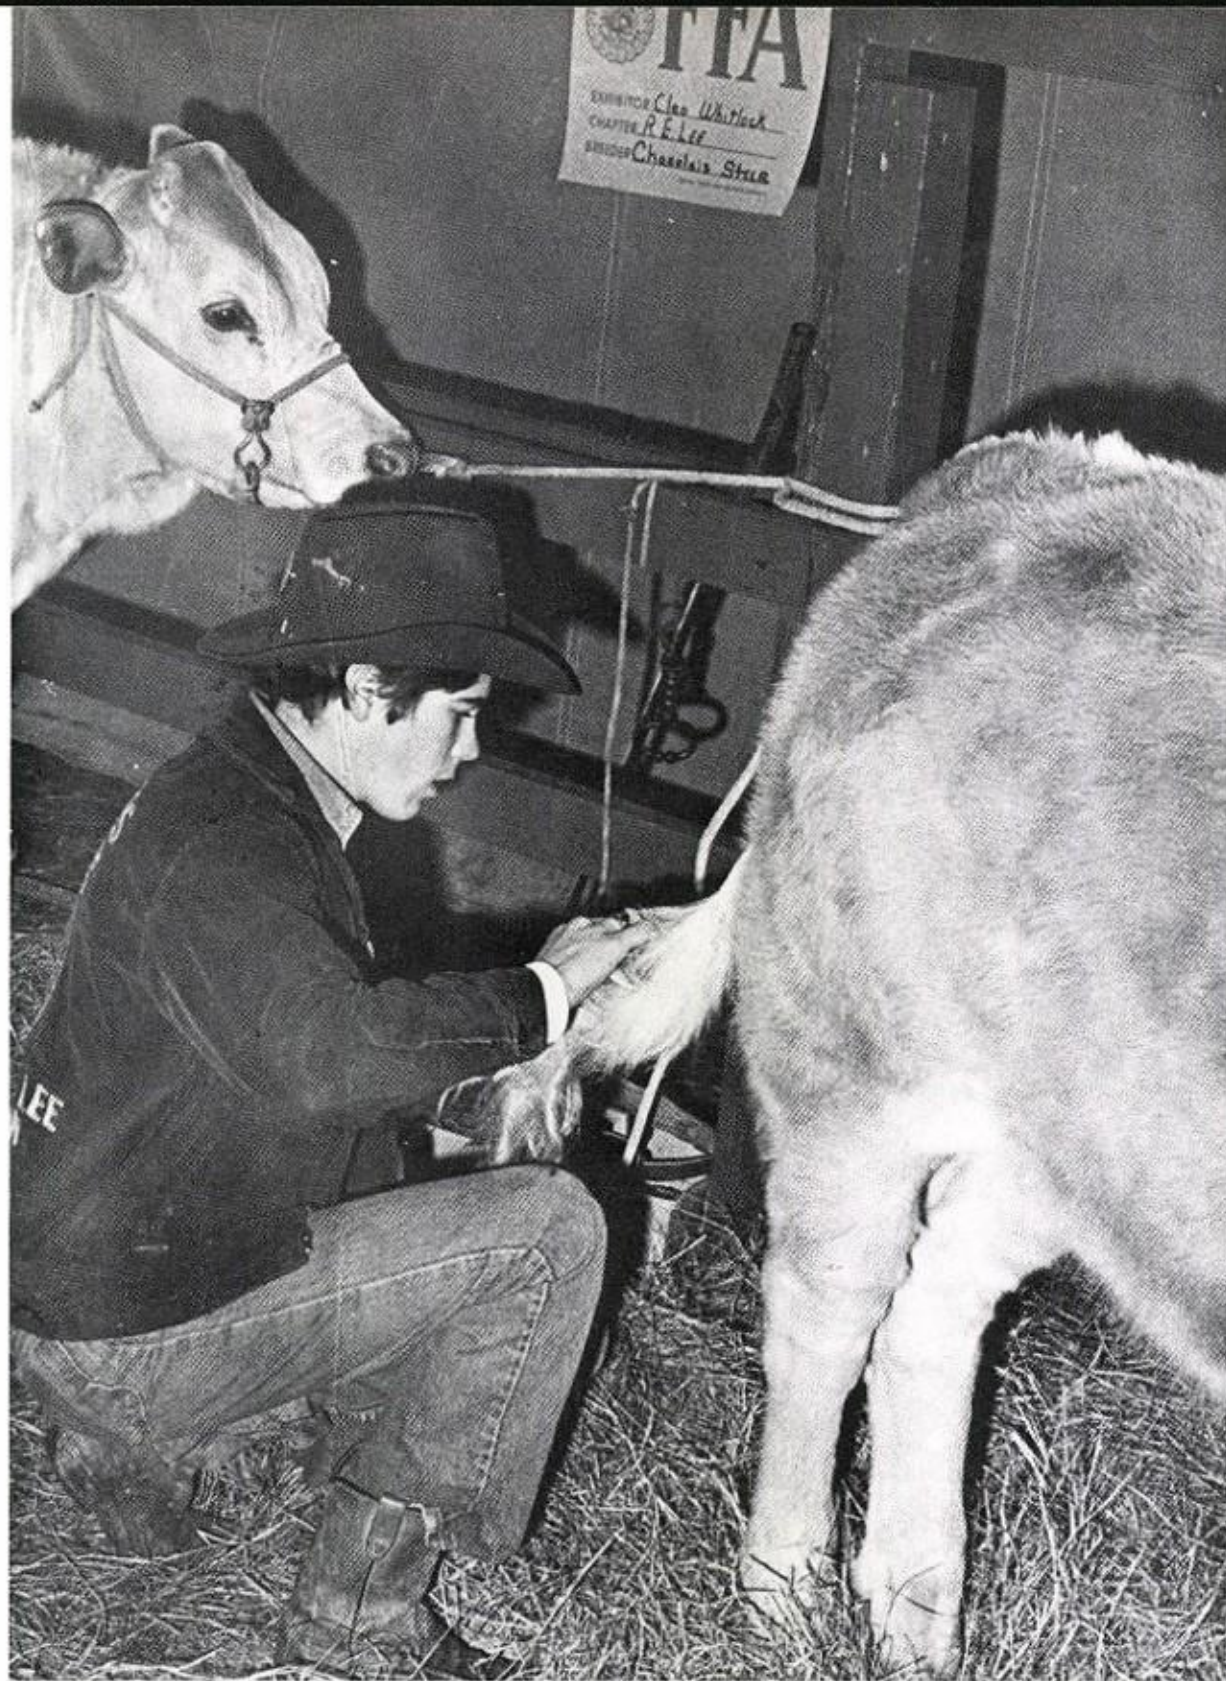

However, through actions of the Student Council this year, seniors with an A or B average were exempt from mid-term exams in terminal courses. In continuing courses, seniors took the final, but received the option of accepting credit or no credit for it.

The plan was developed on a three-year experimental basis and was established in an attempt to encourage maintenance of higher scholastic averages among all Lee students.

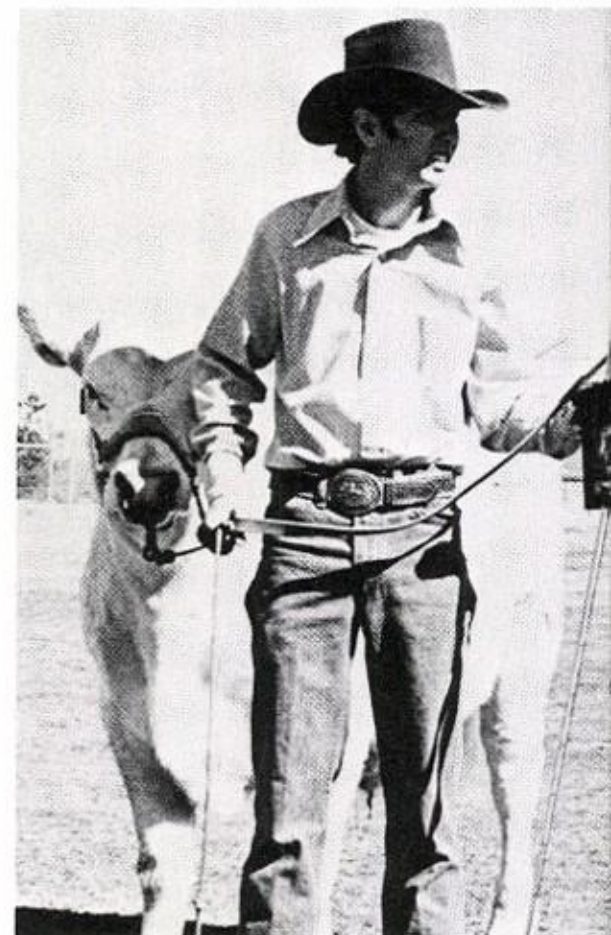

On January 29, the Future Farmers of America sponsored a "carnival" — the annual Lee livestock show. Students and faculty were invited to view the animals throughout the day and observe the actual judging. Mr. Roy Sheffield, the Vocational Agriculture sponsor, aided each student in exhibiting his animal — the result of a one-semester project.

The animals were classed as goats, rams, rabbits, heifers, steers, bulls, mares, and chickens. Students whose animals displayed excellent qualities were honored by the judges, who were agriculture teachers from area schools.

Doug Terrill braids the tail of his prize steer as a jealous friend looks on!

"All right, everybody, line up!" yells the judge. Sounds like a bunch of bull to me!

Cleo Whitlock and steer have doubts about entering the competition!

Kickers Congregate With Pride

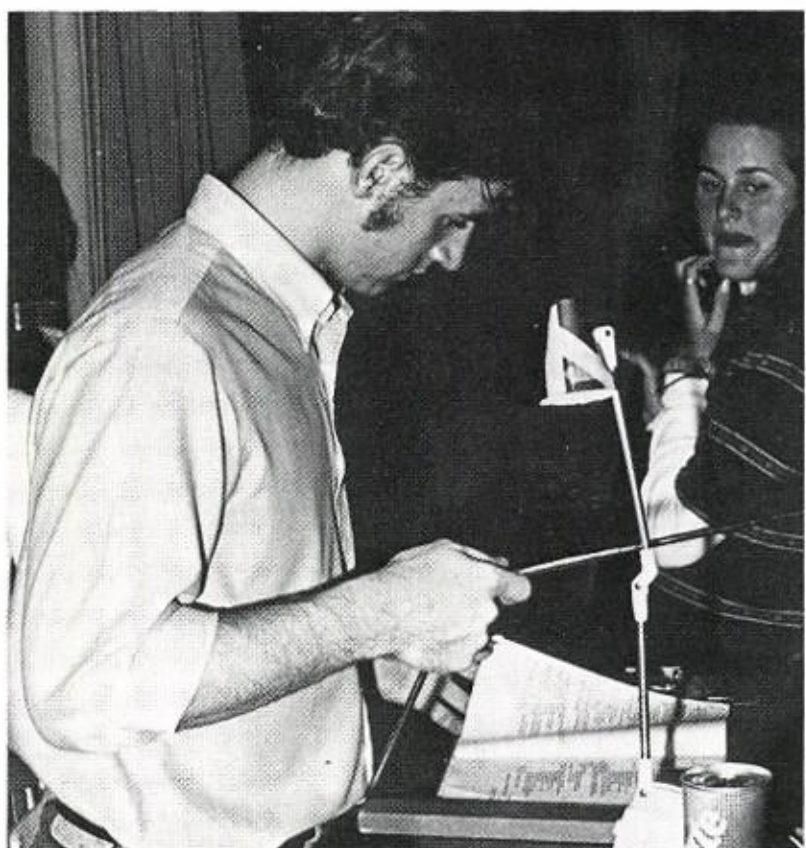

Kent Corrigan pretends to be uninterested but . . . is plotting to take away his goat's bottle. Who's the baby here?

"I know the sign says it's supposed to be a rabbit, Michele, but it looks more like a skunk to me!" comments Linda Ficklin to Michele Lipinski.

Talent Flourishes

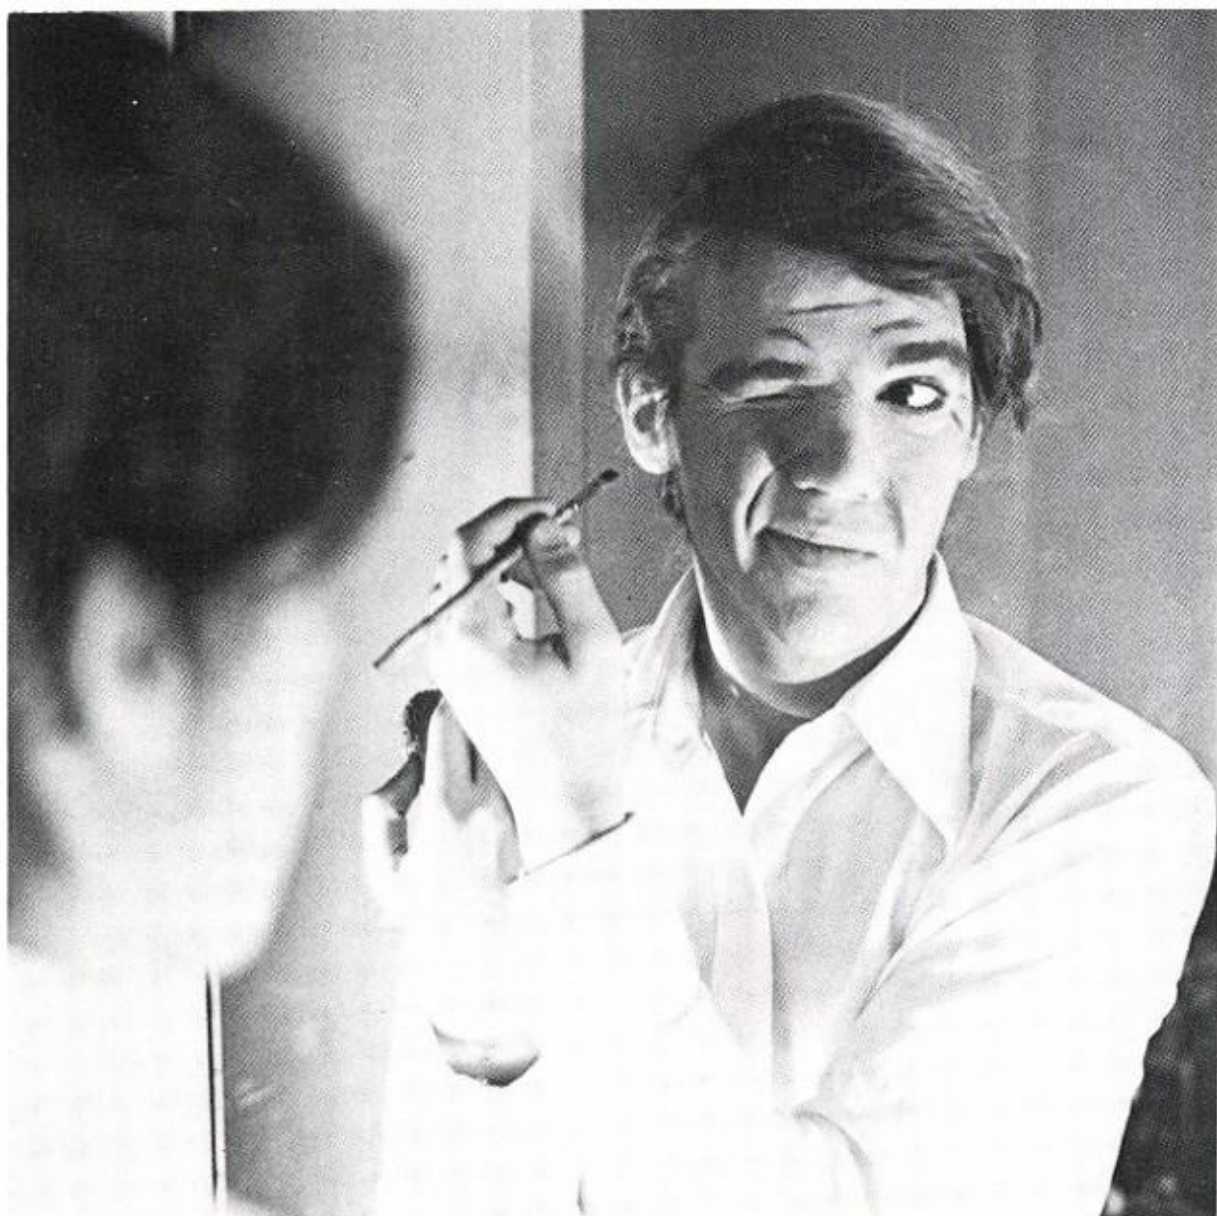

Greg Davis, head of lights, closely follows the script.

Melody Lofton tries to save Warner McBride's soul, while Warner entertains other ideas?!

Nathan Detroit, played by David Jenney, contacts fellow gamblers.

"Gee, I didn't know that make-up could make this much difference in my looks!" says Gary Lambert while winking to himself.

After more than two months of planning and practicing, Dramalee members presented "Guys and Dolls" February 23, 24, and March 1.

The musical, directed by Mr. Victor Siller, is set in New York City in 1950. Gangsters, gambling, and girls are the predominant features of the times.

Enhancing the mood of the era through their leading roles were Tena Alcorn, Melody Lofton, Charlie Williams, Warner McBride, and David Jenney. Also essential in presenting the musical was the orchestra, conducted by Mr. Charles DeLaney.

Although the production as a whole was a difficult one, the thespians continued efforts through time-consuming rehearsals to bring their interpretation of "Guys and Dolls" to the people at Lee.

Mr. Robinson, as Big Julie, checks out the scene with his gang — Kevin Boyd, Ed Cicccone, Tim Rottet, and Billy Paige.

Hot Box girls — Stacy Miller, Allyson Womac, Wendy Jones, Cyndy White, Connie Jordan, and Adelaide (played by Tena Alcorn) — sure know how to cool off an audience!

Oscar Fellows and Gary Pendley have it out one morning before schools starts!

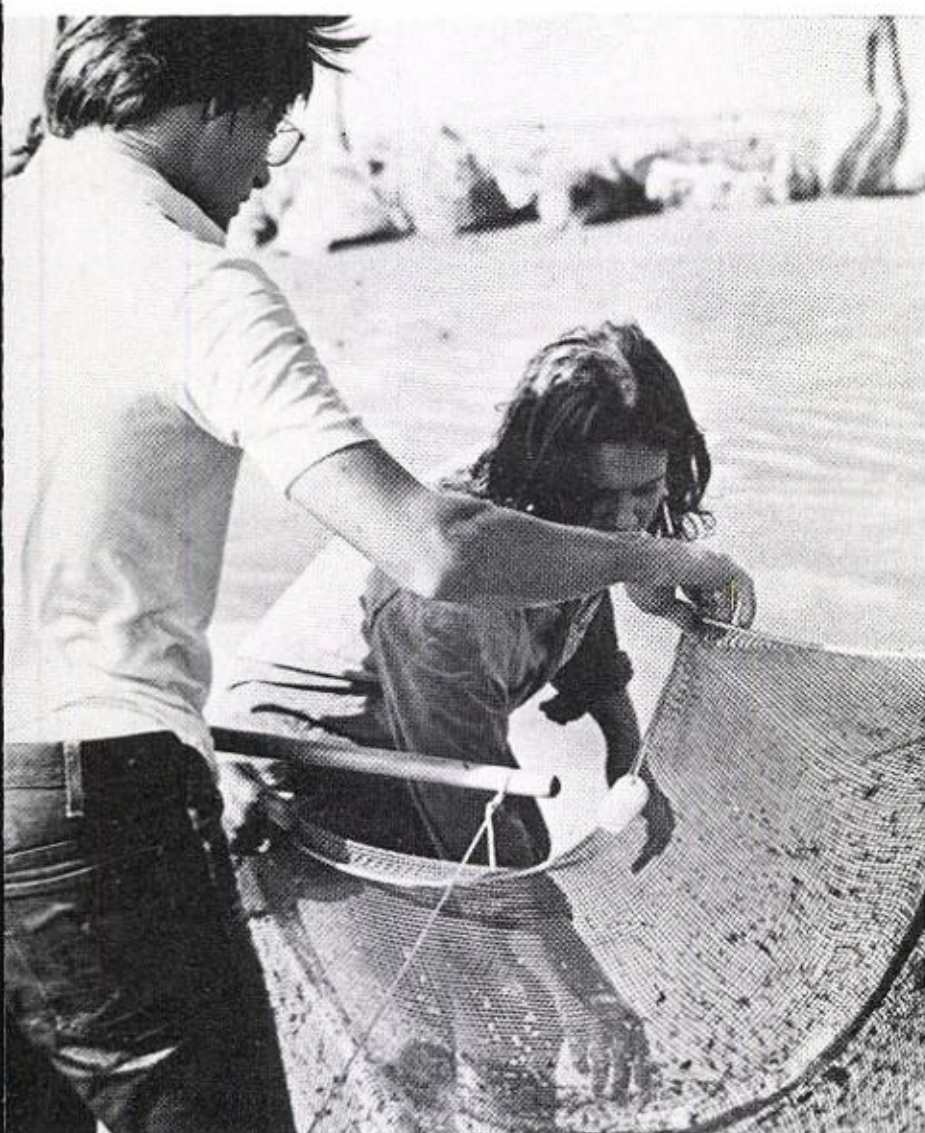

Alice Arnold is frozen solid at the thought of her best friend's hitting her with a snowball!

Billy Britain, after just a few hours, has become an expert at heaving snowballs.

This girls' gym class applauds the spring-like weather.

"That's right, Susie, just pick it up!" Danny King and Susie Hauser spend their spring vacations at the beach.

Mother Nature Startles Students

As the seasons change, a marked variation in student activities results. This year, Lee students viewed snow in Houston for the first time since 1960. With such an occurrence being phenomenal, school was dismissed, and students experienced one full day of heaving snowballs and making snowmen.

By the next weekend, however, Mother Nature had performed a complete turnabout. As the temperature climbed toward the 80's, some Lee students headed for the beaches, while others planned picnics in city parks.

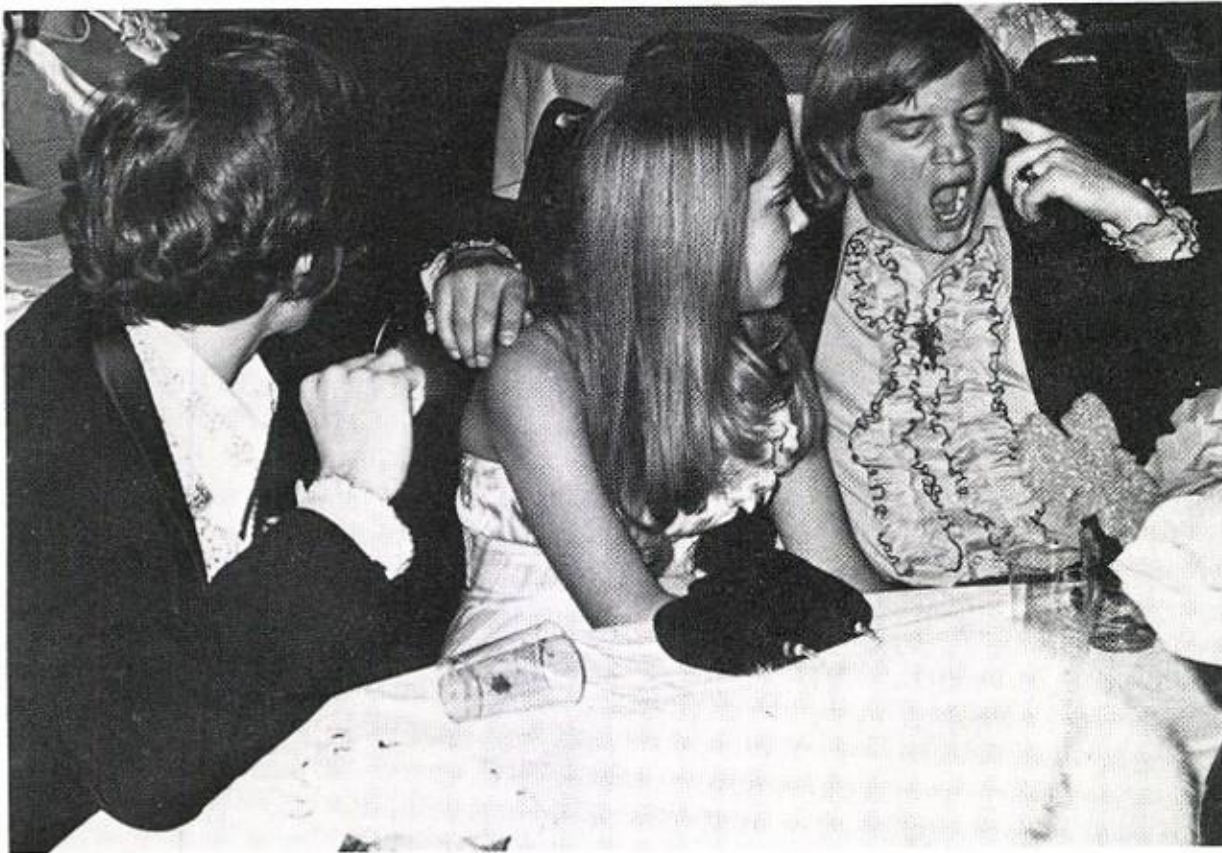

Johnny Duncan, Melinda Allen, Robbie Keeton, and Mr. Allen celebrate the end of their senior year!

Gathering in the auditorium for different assembly programs is something everyone remembers about his years at Lee.

Year Ends; Friends Don't

Parties, senior skip day, and entertainment day characterized the last weeks of school for seniors. Planned by the Senior Cabinet, the prom was held on May 11, at the Houston Club. Oz Knoz was the group selected for the dance, while the Kashmere stage band performed on entertainment day.

As the day of graduation, May 29, approached, seniors recognized their last moments together as a class before saying "so-long" to three years of spirited activities at Lee.

Nancy Ham wonders why Tim Ashley is so tired; Doug Dwyer comments, "These proms will do it to you every time!"

At the Lee-Lamar basketball game, Mrs. Wisdom and other members of the Lee faculty were seen rooting for "Dan's Dirty Dozen"!

Young Leaders . . .

By exercising diligence and persistence in every endeavor,
And grasping each opportunity for self-improvement,
Students were molded into leaders —
Leaders striving to guide others toward individual improvement,
Not searching for personal renown or recognition.
Each radiated a sense of responsibility to people,
By initiating, by motivating . . .
by leading.

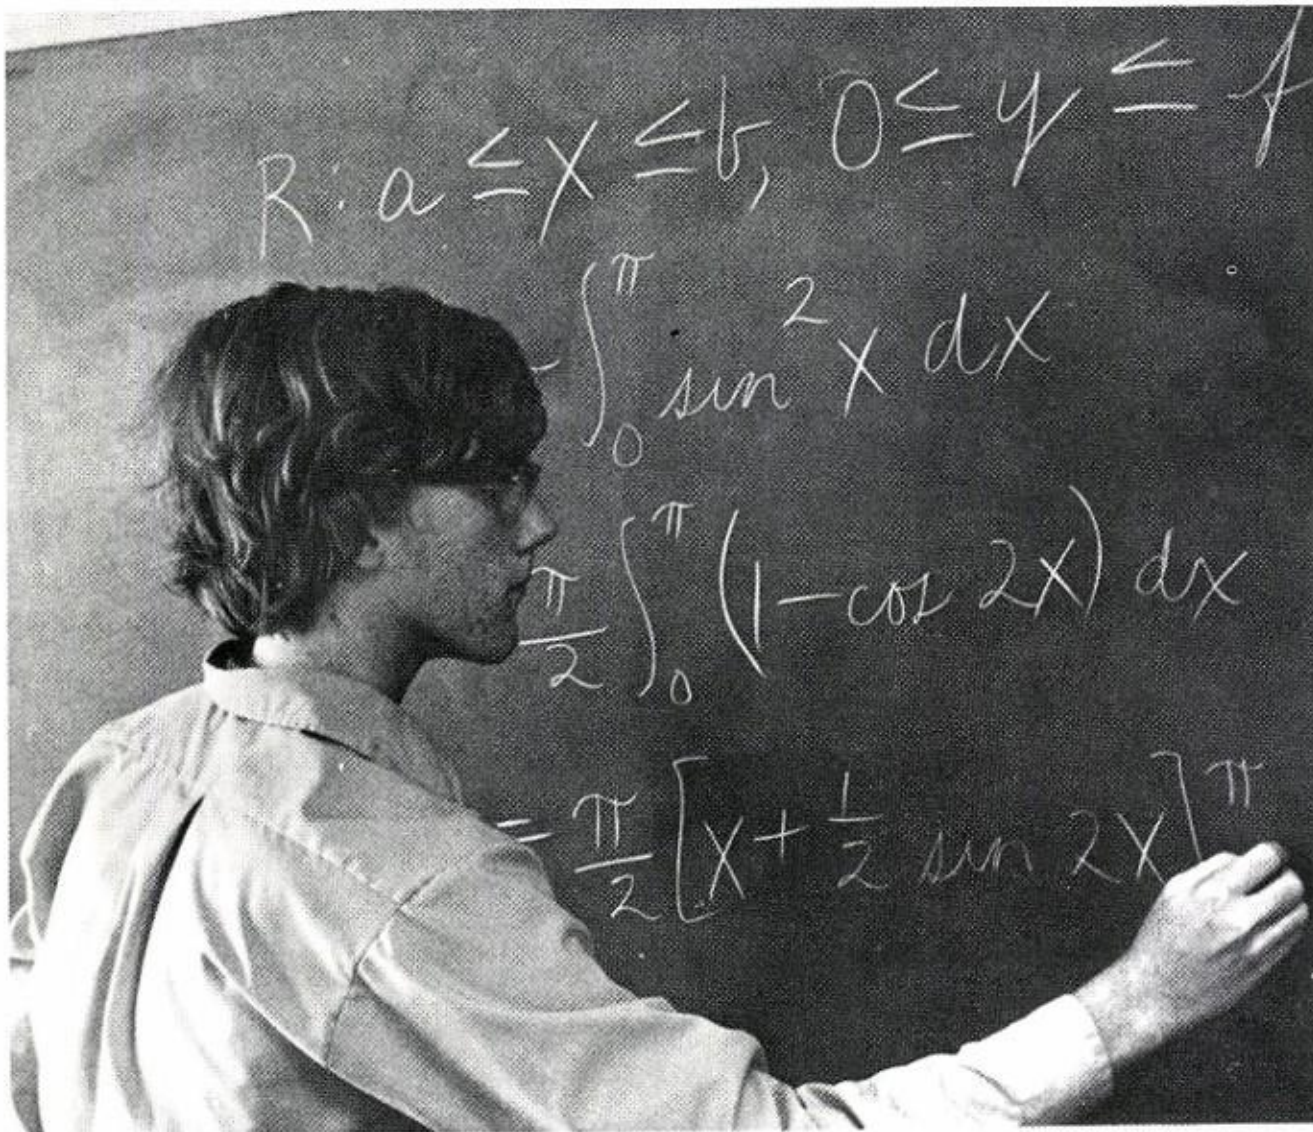

Outstanding Achievement Earns National Merit Award

Qualifying for the position of National Merit Semifinalist, nine Lee students were honored by the National Merit Corporation last September. David Elrod, a former Lee student, was among these seniors showing outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test which was incorporated for the first time with the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test taken in October of the junior year.

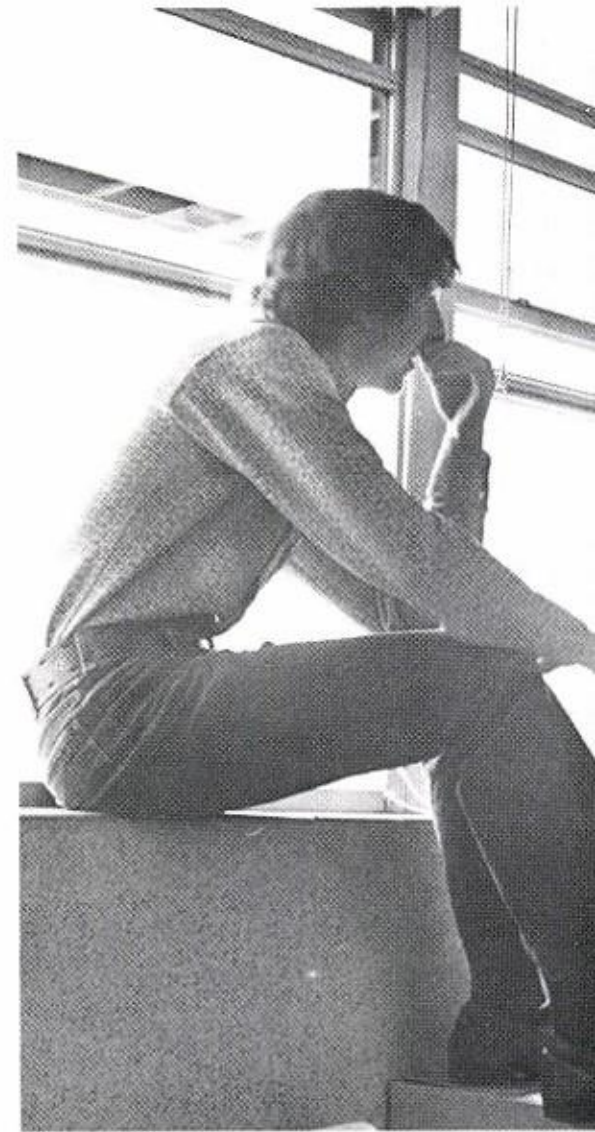

After a personal interview, semifinalists maintaining a relatively high score on the senior Scholastic Aptitude Test were recognized as finalists.

Honors Bring Smiles

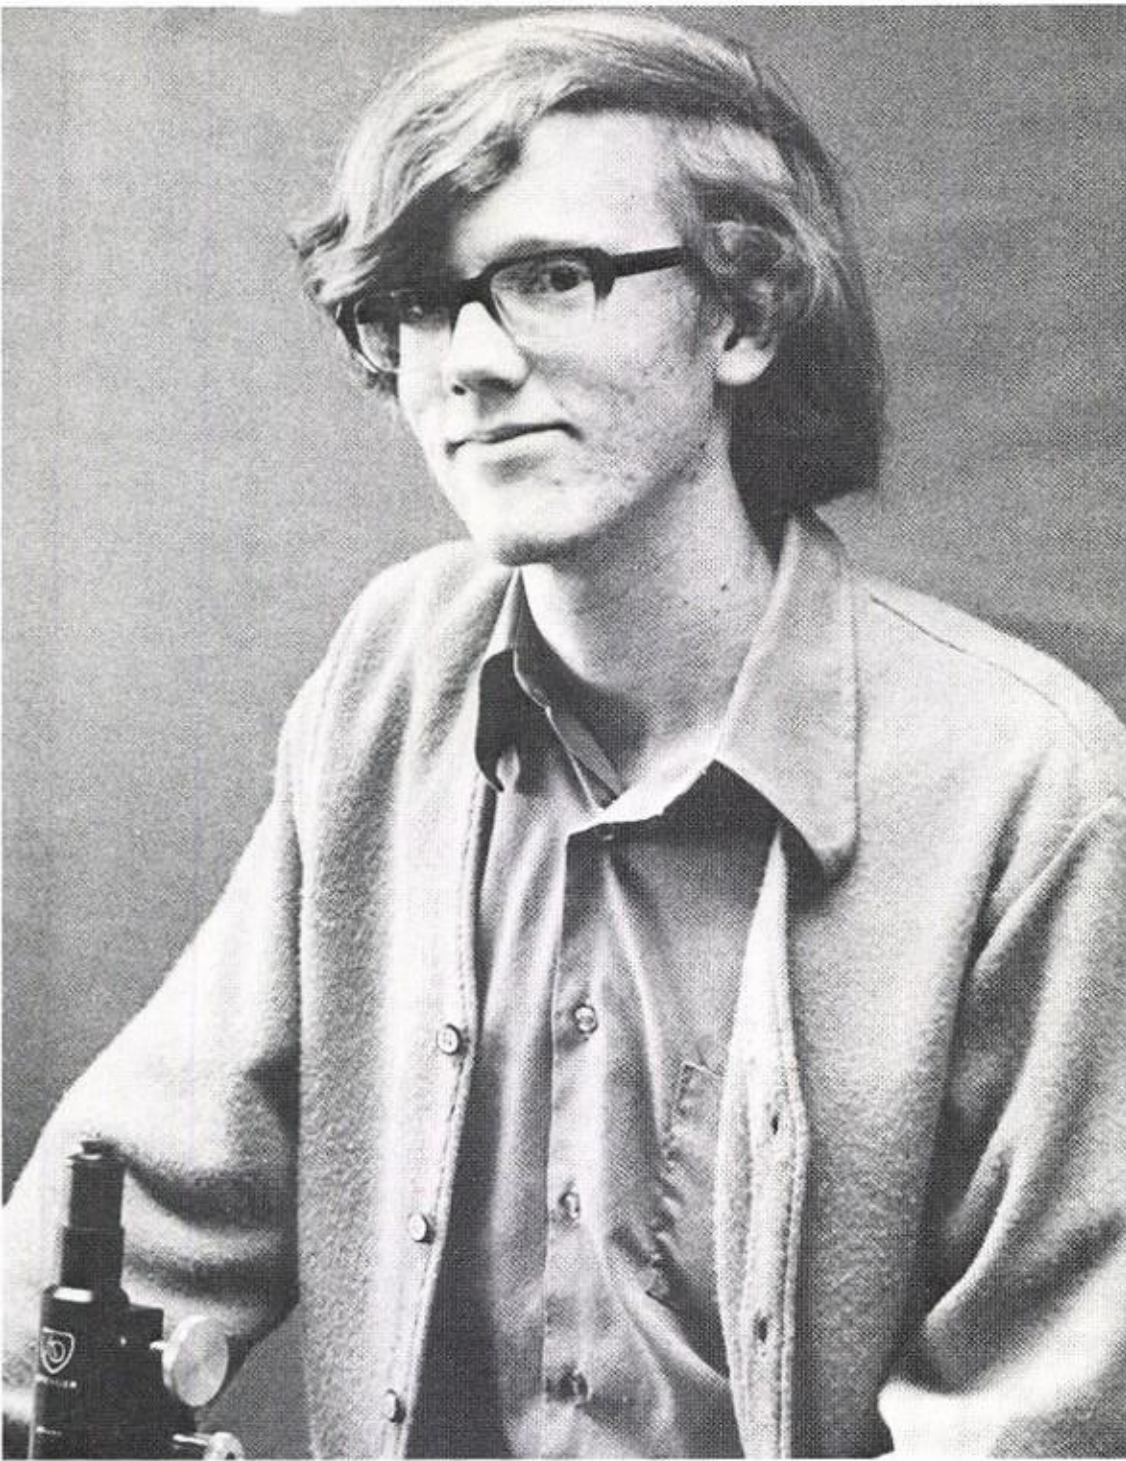

DAR Award winner, Suzy Cox, tries hard to encourage students to buy merchandise from the General Store by putting on that salesman's charm.

Gayle Coolidge, winner in Congressman Bill Archer's "Intern Program," looks forward to the Washington D.C. trip.

Girls' and Boys' State representatives Pam DeWitz and Steve Buckley find out what really goes on inside Mr. Miller's office.

Some students not only make contributions of service to their school, but also are very distinguished in certain areas of education.

Awards for Excellence are presented by teachers to those students displaying outstanding accomplishments in particular scholastic fields. These honors are announced in the SABER, and the recipients' names are exhibited on plaques in the main hall.

By presenting the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizenship Award and by selecting the Girls' and Boys' State representatives as well as the student representative in Congressman Bill Archer's Washington "Intern Program," teachers acknowledged further excellence among Lee students.

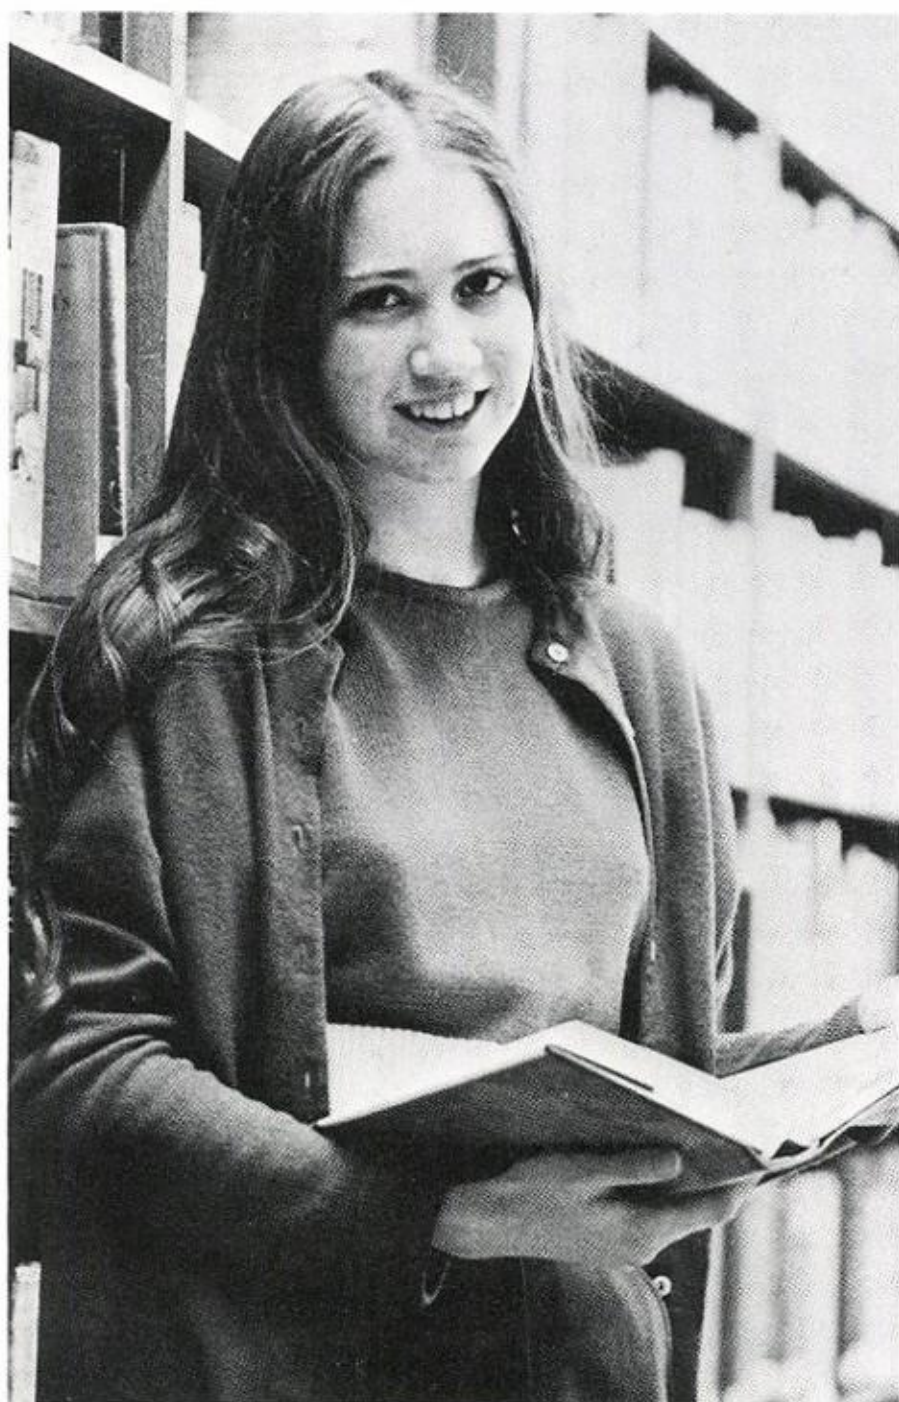

MATH, SCIENCE AWARDS — Archie Henderson, participating in major works math and science courses, was presented with both of these awards.

COMMERCIAL AWARD — Margaret Hook was presented with this award for her contributions to the Distributive Education program.

INDUSTRIAL AWARD — Craig Johnson's creativity in metal and wood shops enabled him to win this award.

FINE ARTS AWARD — Susan Roberts received this award because of her excellent three-year debating record. She was Lee's top debater this year.

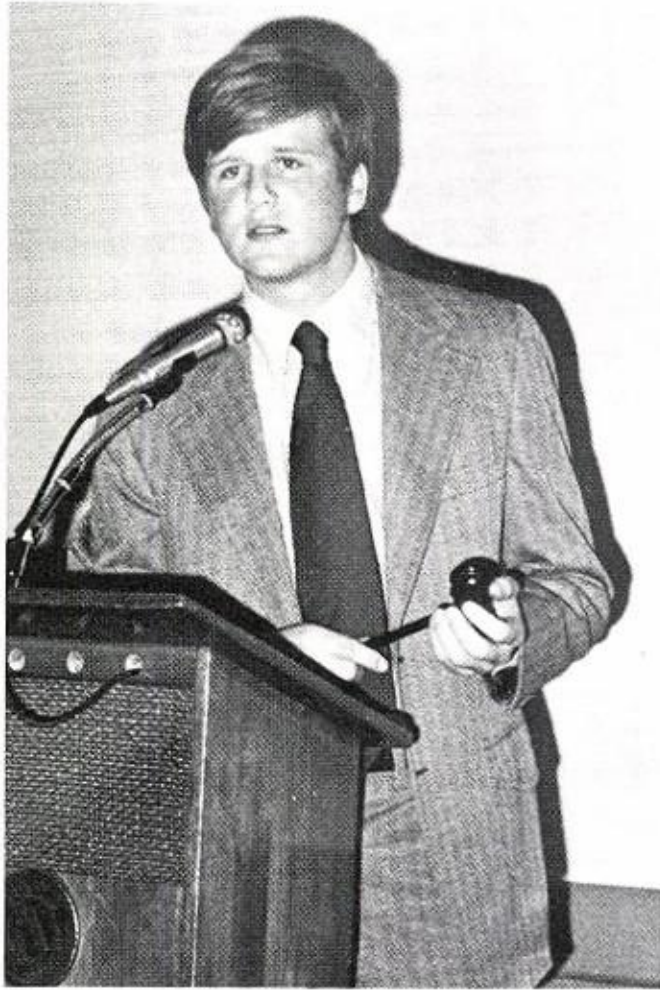

ENGLISH AWARD — Twinkle Gray earned this award through her three years of outstanding work in major works English.

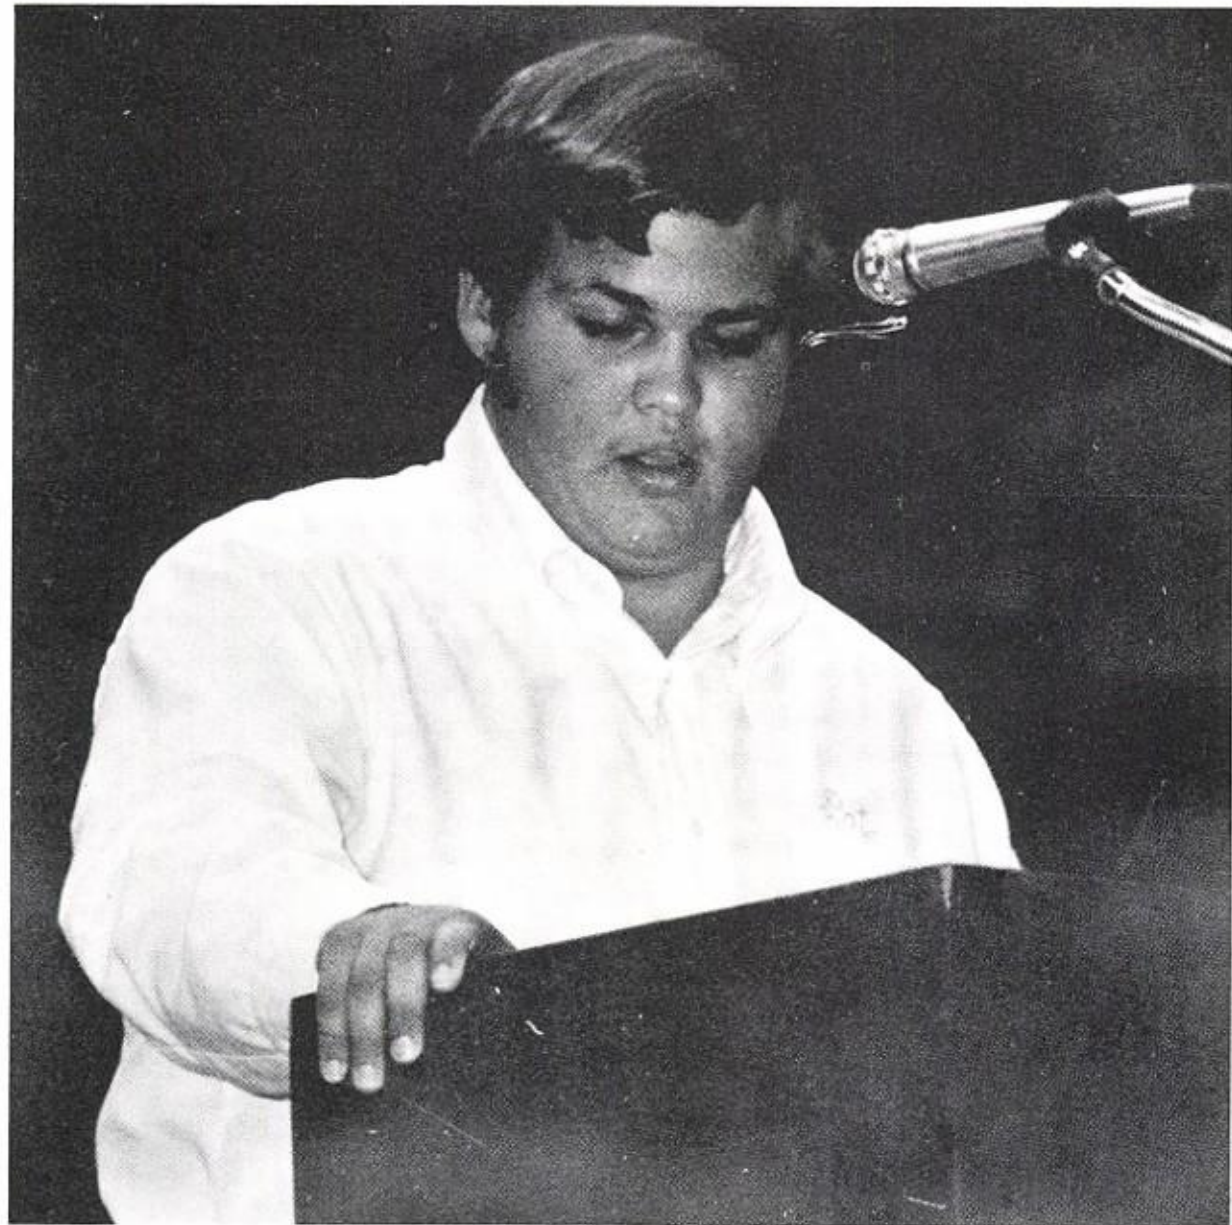

LANGUAGE AWARD — Linda Wittig's six-year study of special progress Spanish led to first place in the Spanish culture essay contest.

New Principal Shows Concern

Opening its doors to a new principal, Lee welcomed Mr. Charles Miller, a man who assumed the endless responsibilities of his position. Mr. Miller demonstrated his concern for Lee and its students not only by encouraging total participation in pep rallies, club activities, and football games, but also by personally taking part in all school assemblies, aiding the P.T.A.'s annual projects, and regularly attending school and club activities.

Problems such as over-crowded classrooms never hindered Mr. Miller's willingness to contribute his valuable knowledge and time to aid each person — students, faculty, and parents.

Mr. Charles Miller, Lee's new principal, displayed an ever-present concern and interest as he set high standards for students to follow.

Aiding Mr. Miller with the duties of general administration were assistant principals Mr. William Cook, Mr. Lucious Randle, and Mrs. Mary Carolyn Smith.

Their daily tasks of supervising Lee's campus, patrolling the cafeteria, and reprimanding students for tardiness and other infringements contributed to the long, hard hours each devoted for the betterment of Lee. However, they were all able to find enough time away from their busy schedules to enjoy many of Lee's athletic events, club banquets, and school assemblies throughout the year.

Having these three competent assistant principals, Lee's students are provided with the guidance necessary for their high school years.

Teachers Enrich Students' Knowledge

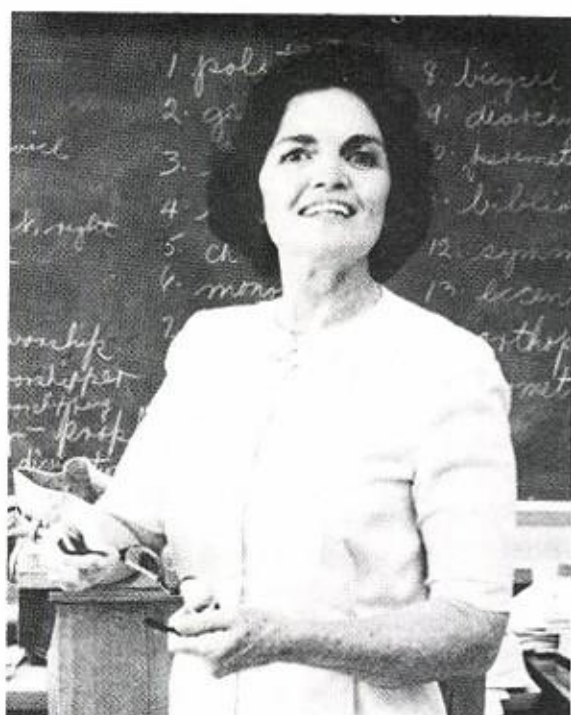

Headed by Mrs. Velma Brennan, the English teachers strive to educate students in their native language and to enrich their knowledge of grammar and literature before graduation.

Workbooks were used diligently throughout the year along with the grammar and literature books. Also, students read novels such as Gulliver's Travels and The Return of the Native as well as many in-depth essays and compositions.

Thus, the students receive a firm background of the English language and are prepared for college as well as for daily living.

To incorporate an essential knowledge of science in each student, this department offers a variety of scientifically related courses — physiology, oceanography, chemistry, biology, and physics.

Variety also is present within the courses themselves with the oceanography field trips, individual projects, dissection of cats and pigs in major works biology and physiology, and the public seminars attended by the chemistry-minded individuals.

A new addition to the department this year was the Biology 2 class which was offered to those students who had taken Biology 1 and chemistry.

Students who wish to plunge deeper into science are invited to join the Science Club.

Mr. Howard Behrens, head of the science department, strives to provide the future doctors, chemists, and other scientists with a full knowledge of science — the growing factor in today's society.

Mathematics, a basic foundation in education, is needed to ignite the fuses of logical reasoning and mental alertness stored in the minds of each student. Summed up by Mrs. Thera Yoes, the mathematics department adds as many measurements, properties, and relationships as possible to the endless sets of calculations each student must encounter.

Opportunities are given to each student to develop a knowledge of related math, geometry, algebra, trigonometry, elementary analysis, analytical geometry, computer math, and calculus.

Pursuers of the mathematical field may have the desire to join Mu Alpha Theta, an organization which gives students opportunities to listen to knowledgeable speakers and to prepare for the Math Association of America test. All accelerated classes participate in this nationwide test.

Thinking above and beyond the numerous sums, products, and quotients, one realizes that Lee seeks to create a strong interest in mathematics, a most useful tool in life.

Government, economics, and world, American, and English history classes make up the social science department, headed by Mr. Harris Butler.

The social studies classes received an extra bonus of a presidential election this year. In the government classes, students learned of the workings of their government and were better able to understand the significance of national elections. Therefore, the students qualified to vote obtained a greater insight into the responsibilities of choosing an able candidate.

History classes taught students the importance of not only their American heritage, but also that of England and other foreign nations. Thus, learning from past experiences students can better prepare themselves for the future.

Languages Overcome Differences

In order to live in the fast-paced communicable society of today, it has become increasingly advantageous to have a basic knowledge of other countries in this world.

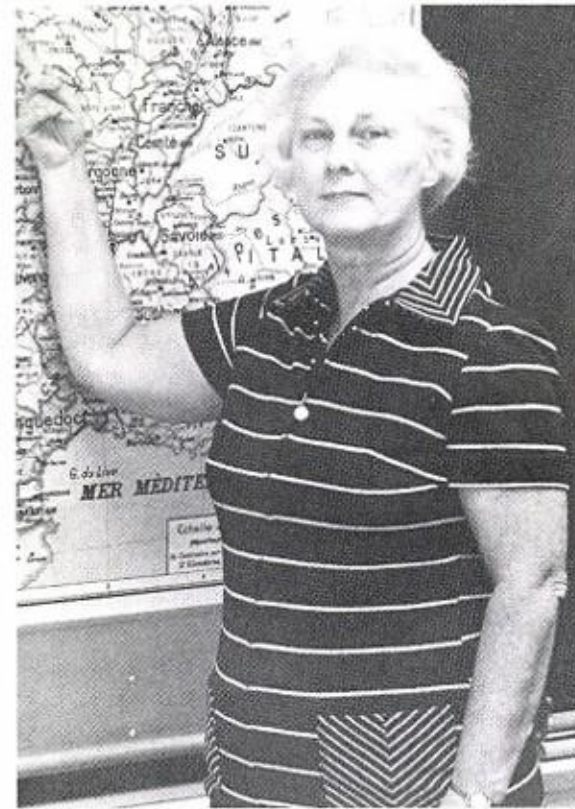

To know the language of a country is to know its heritage and customs and thus, to better understand its people. Such is the aim of the language department, headed by Mr. Marshall York.

This year, special progress Spanish classes three and four were combined with regular Spanish one and two classes.

Students are taught the languages of France, Germany, Spain, and even ancient Rome. In studying cultures other than their own, students are better able to cope with the differences and barriers created by language.

Expand Talents

Fine arts and speech arts have become an integral part of the curriculum over the past years.

The fine arts department, headed by Mr. Henri Gadbois, includes both art and music classes. Although the art classes develop students' talents in painting, drawing, and crafts, an in-depth study in art history is included.

The music classes are composed of the Dixi-Liers, Southernaires, Stage Band, Marching Generals, and the Sumphonic Orchestra.

Mr. Roy Sheffield heads vocational agriculture which is offered to the terrestrial-minded students.

Still another aspect of learning at Lee is the speech and debate department. Also, for those preparing for the future, courses in home economics, typing, bookkeeping, and shorthand are offered.

These departments, with their many diverse courses, offer students a break from the daily routine and give each student a different way to express himself.

Sports Provide Challenges

Headed by Mrs. Ella Allen and Mr. Ronnie Wilson, the P.E. department offers numerous activities in physical education.

The girls may choose to excel in volleyball, tennis, archery, softball, badminton, or basketball. Football, baseball, track, basketball, and golf are offered in the boys' P.E. department.

While learning to win as well as to lose, students have opportunities to participate in intramurals and to try for placement on competitive teams.

For those interested in a military career, Lee offers students an NDCC program. Arousing school spirit, the Lee Lieutenants promote citizenship among students. No matter in what sport the students' interests lie, the P.E. department at Lee strives to provide a challenge in every sport.

To be of service to Lee at school functions, in the cafeteria, and in the community is the responsibility of the Hospitality Club.

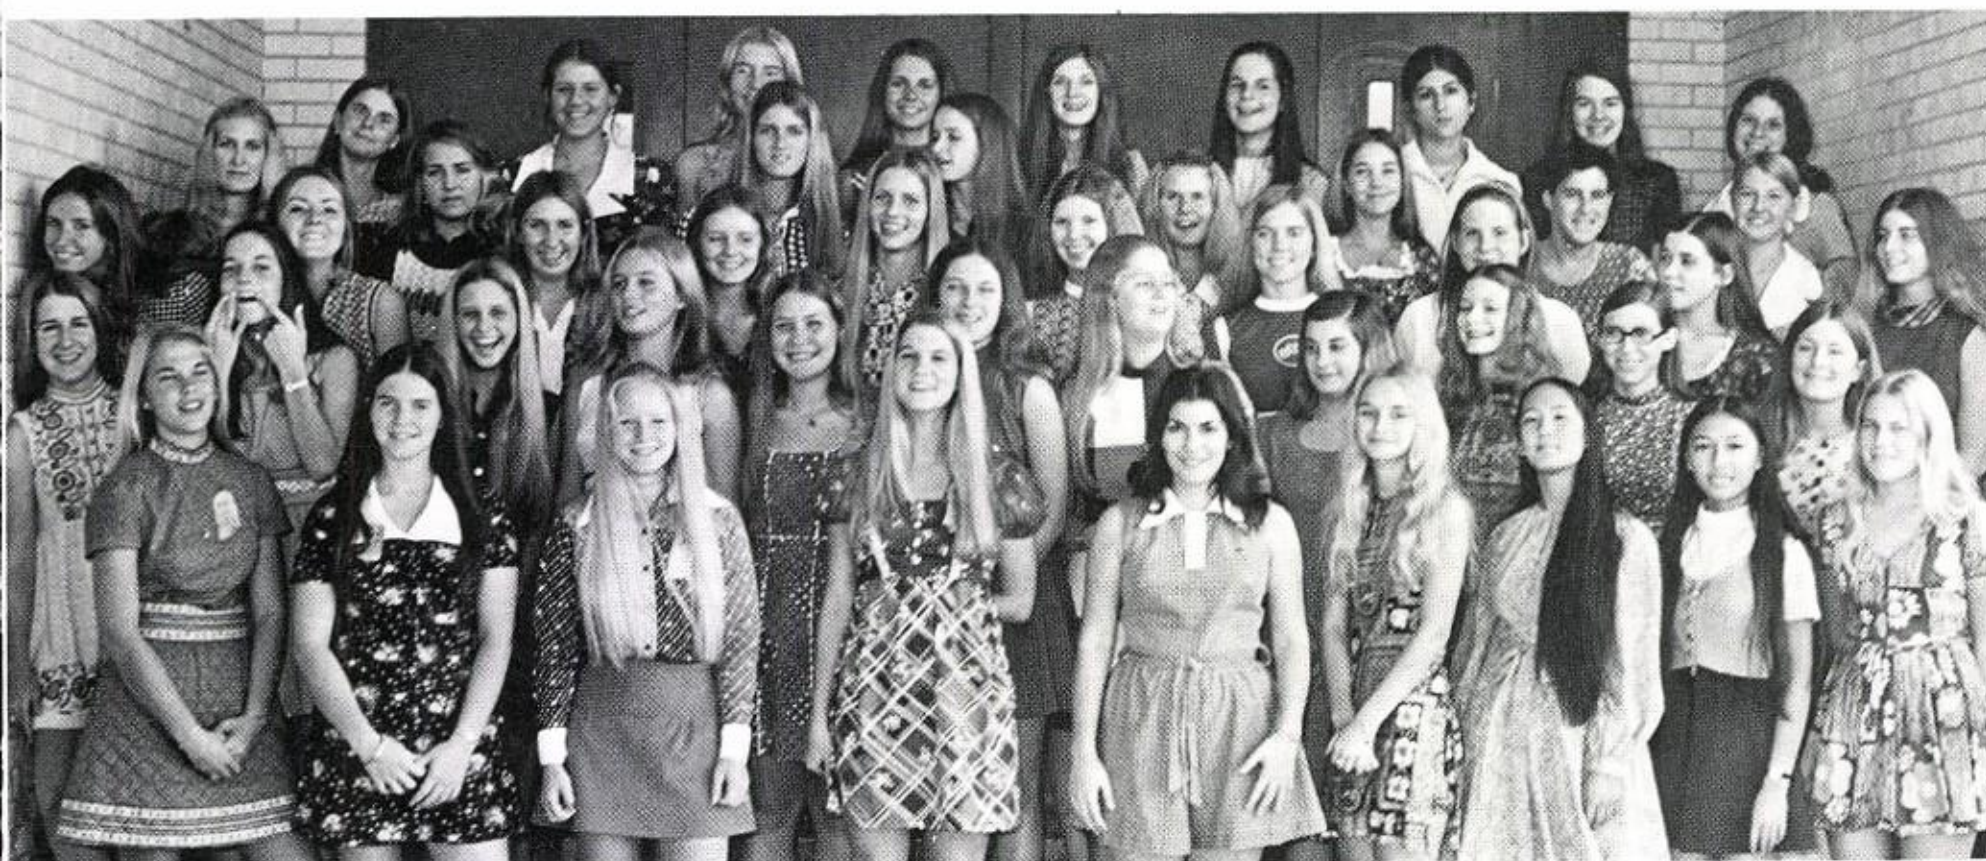

Major projects for the year included honoring teachers on their birthdays, making a Thanksgiving basket for a needy family, and sponsoring a Christmas party for elementary school children. Also, members cleaned the cafeteria tables and ushered at all school programs.

The club, sponsored by Miss Betty Baldwin and Miss Charlotte Haynes, ended a year of service with the election and installation of officers.

Legionnaires Stock Store

Each morning before school and during all lunch periods, the Generals' Store is operated by members of the American Legion Club and their sponsor, Mrs. Velma Brennan. Cough drops for relentless coughers, paper for forgetful students, and pens, locks, and novels are the major commodities of the store.

Members of this club must be either a winner of the American Legion Award or a holder of a Certificate of Merit.

Meetings are called when deemed necessary by the president or by the sponsor, and both a fall and spring social add to the fellowship of the Legionnaires.

Sophomore Orientation began an active year for the Anchor Club. Sponsored by Mrs. Mary Jane Comstock, members, for the first time, worked at Blalock Southwest Nursing Home and continued their work at the Harris County Center for the Retarded.

During the Christmas season, the club sponsored the annual Christmas door contest. Prizes were awarded on the basis of creativity, originality, and theme.

Career Day, co-sponsored with the Key Club, allowed students to hear speakers on careers which interested them. A banquet and installation of officers ended the year.

The Christmas holidays were celebrated by the traditional grapefruit sales and the party for underprivileged Children at the Rusk Settlement House.

Although they sponsored Clean Up Day and Career Day to benefit the school and its students, the club members took the time to serve the community through the backing of "Project Concern" and the Amigos program. Final activities included the Leadership Banquet and a Key Club picnic.

Students Maintain Honor

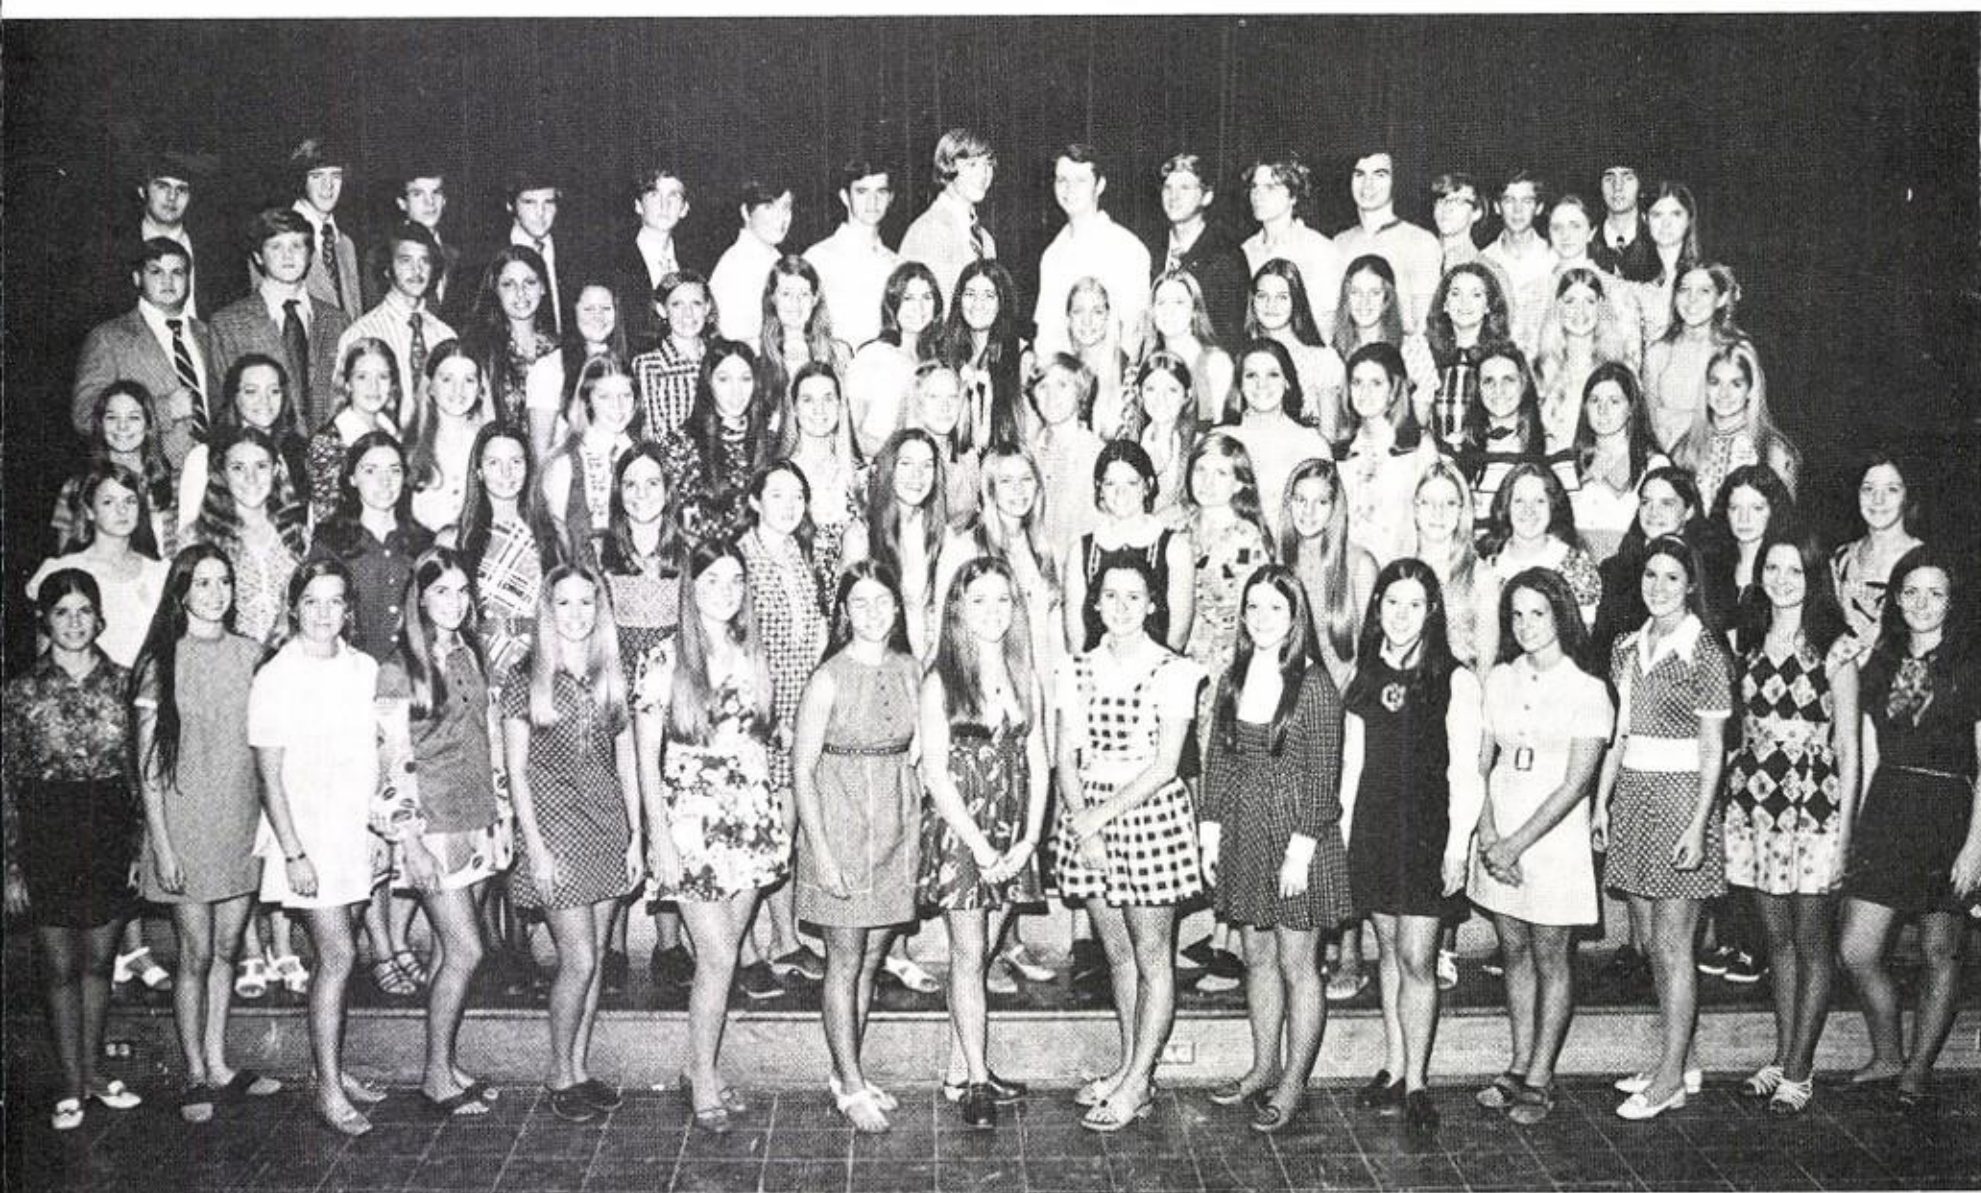

Officers of the National Honor Society — Patti Peery, treasurer; Linda Wittig, secretary; Dottie Roach, vice-president; and Mike Hartwig, parliamentarian, show their reactions to the attempt of Pat Doherty, president, to conduct an orderly meeting.

Sponsoring tutoring sessions for students in need of help, the National Honor Society began a year of service to Lee. The purpose of this organization is to honor students and to recognize scholarship, character, service, and leadership.

While maintaining the required 3.2 grade average, members participated in the annual Heart Fund Drive.

Meetings are held twice a semester and are called by the sponsor, Mrs. Arlene Parson. The induction of newly selected members took place in April.

Consisting of students willing to give assistance, the Library Club aids both the library and the student body. Each member must work — shelving books, filing cards, searching through rows of magazines — at least one day a week after school, before school, or one period a day to maintain his membership.

Along with sponsors Mrs. Carolyn Spidell and Mrs. Annette Parker, members attended local, district, and state meetings and served as hosts at the meetings that were held in Houston.

Other special activities included giving a Christmas party and decorating the library for the Christmas season.

Leading the Library Club in its duties are Patricia Foster, vice-president, and Terry Manning, president.

Mid-Term Exemptions Highlight '73

George Cruikshank, president of the Student Council, and officers Robin Palmer, treasurer; Susan Roberts, secretary; and Mitch Bearden, vice-president, attempt to explain the reason for another called meeting.

To be of service to students, faculty, and administrators is a promise made by members of the Student Council. These students, elected from their homerooms, represent Lee's student government, guided by Mrs. Arlene Parson.

Members are responsible for organizing school elections, issuing the school calendar, and hold liaison sessions to hear both the suggestions and complaints of Lee students. Also, the club sponsored the controversial project of "painting the bathrooms" and helped in obtaining mid-term exemptions for seniors.

Journalists Strive For Achievement

"Yes, it is good, isn't it," modestly admits Mr. Lynn Ashby as Quill and Scroll officers Pat Doherty, treasurer; Linda Wittig, president; Julie Caldwell, secretary; and Patricia Foster, vice-president, admire Mr. Ashby's latest work.

Judy Graff and Trisha Taylor find that the Quill and Scroll refreshments just don't have that special "punch" to them.

As an international honorary society, Quill and Scroll encourages and rewards individual students' achievement in journalism, creative writing, and allied fields.

Through the combined efforts of this club, Lee's newspaper and year-book were compiled and perfected with blood, sweat, and tears.

An induction at mid-term gave the organization's members and sponsor, Miss Regina Satlof, an opportunity to listen to Mr. Lynn Ashby, a noted journalist from the Houston Post.

Closing the year's activities was a spring banquet and the installation of new members.

As the bodyguards for Lee's mascot, Uncle Bob, Uncle Bob's Boys assume the responsibilities of transporting him to and from all football games and other sporting events.

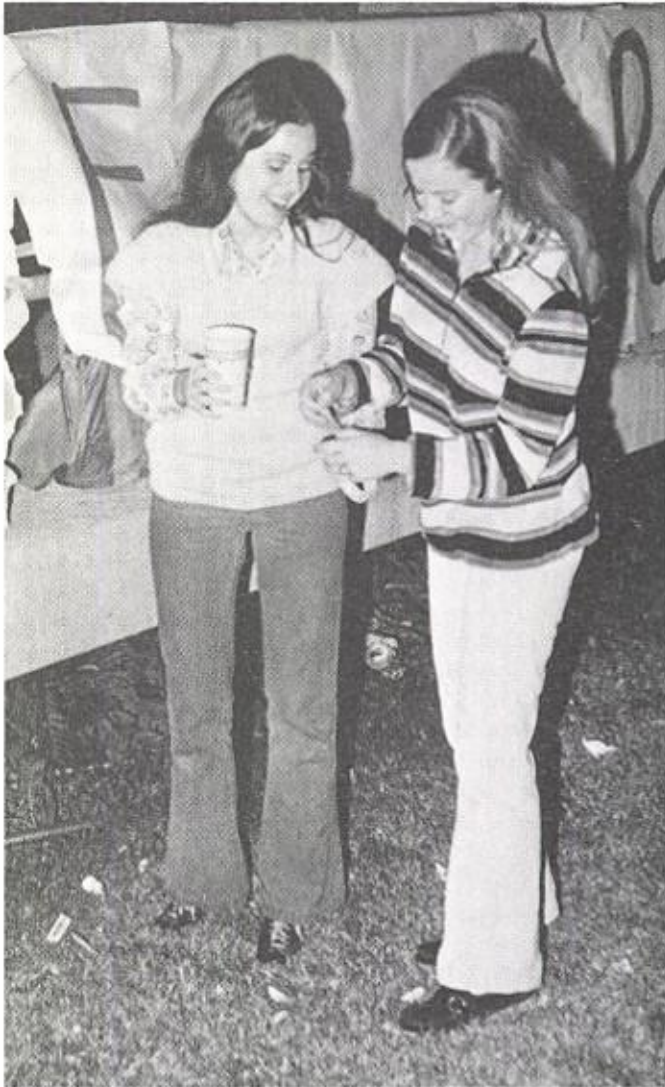

Under the supervision of Mr. Dale Glover, meetings are held weekly to discuss the best strategy for the protection of Uncle Bob. Each member must possess school spirit as well as maintain a "G" conduct average.

Rallies, Skits Bolster Spirit

Posters before games, cupcakes and favors for the players, wrapped houses even in the rain, and scintillating pep rallies for football, basketball, baseball, and track are the responsibilities of the Spirit Committee. These "spirit-oriented" students help to generate enthusiasm with their activities.

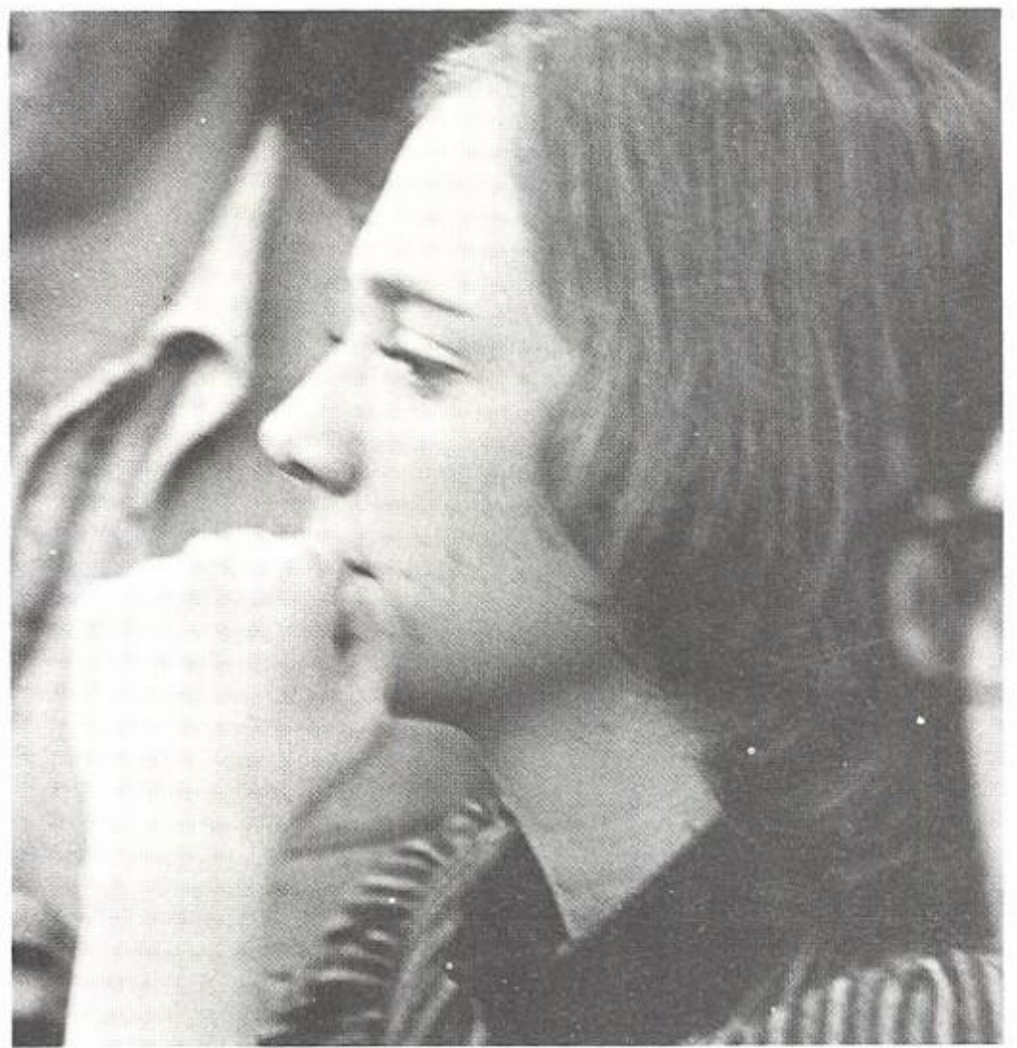

Sponsored by Miss Doris Countee and Mr. Dale Glover, the members carried out their money-making projects of selling hero suckers and pom-poms and the major project of selling football jerseys in vivid colors — canary yellow, burgandy, and kelly green. A party of "celebration" ended the year.

With an active awareness that youth are needed in the business world, the Office Education Association stresses the importance of vocational education as well as the universal value of office education.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Rena Aldrich, members were placed in offices around the city to hold secretarial and clerical jobs in banks, law firms, stores, and other enterprises.

In October, initiation of new members and installation of officers took place. OEA members also attended both the state and national OEA youth conferences this spring.

This year's opportunities are discussed by OEA officers Patricia Spurgin, president; Margaret Hook, vice-president; Mary Brunson, secretary; Michelle Taschery, treasurer; Cindy Newton, reporter-historian; and Debbie Dyke, parliamentarian.

Preparation for careers in industry is the key purpose of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. The instructional programs of vocational trade and industrial education give the students the necessary occupational skills to enter the labor market and develop each member's citizenship, leadership, and character to the fullest potential.

Supervised by Mr. James Nix, VICA's student-initiated civic, professional, and social activities provided the club's goal for personal development.

Leaving school early to work in the industrial field, members of the club learned basic skills by first-hand observation and participation. VICA students worked on the job with mechanics, technicians, and engineers.

Blue Blazers Work for Respect

Busy "blue blazers" enrolled in Distributive Education Clubs of America are constantly striving to develop a respect for the free, competitive enterprising system of the United States. The club, a national youth organization in the public schools, is designed to develop future leaders for marketing and distributive occupations.

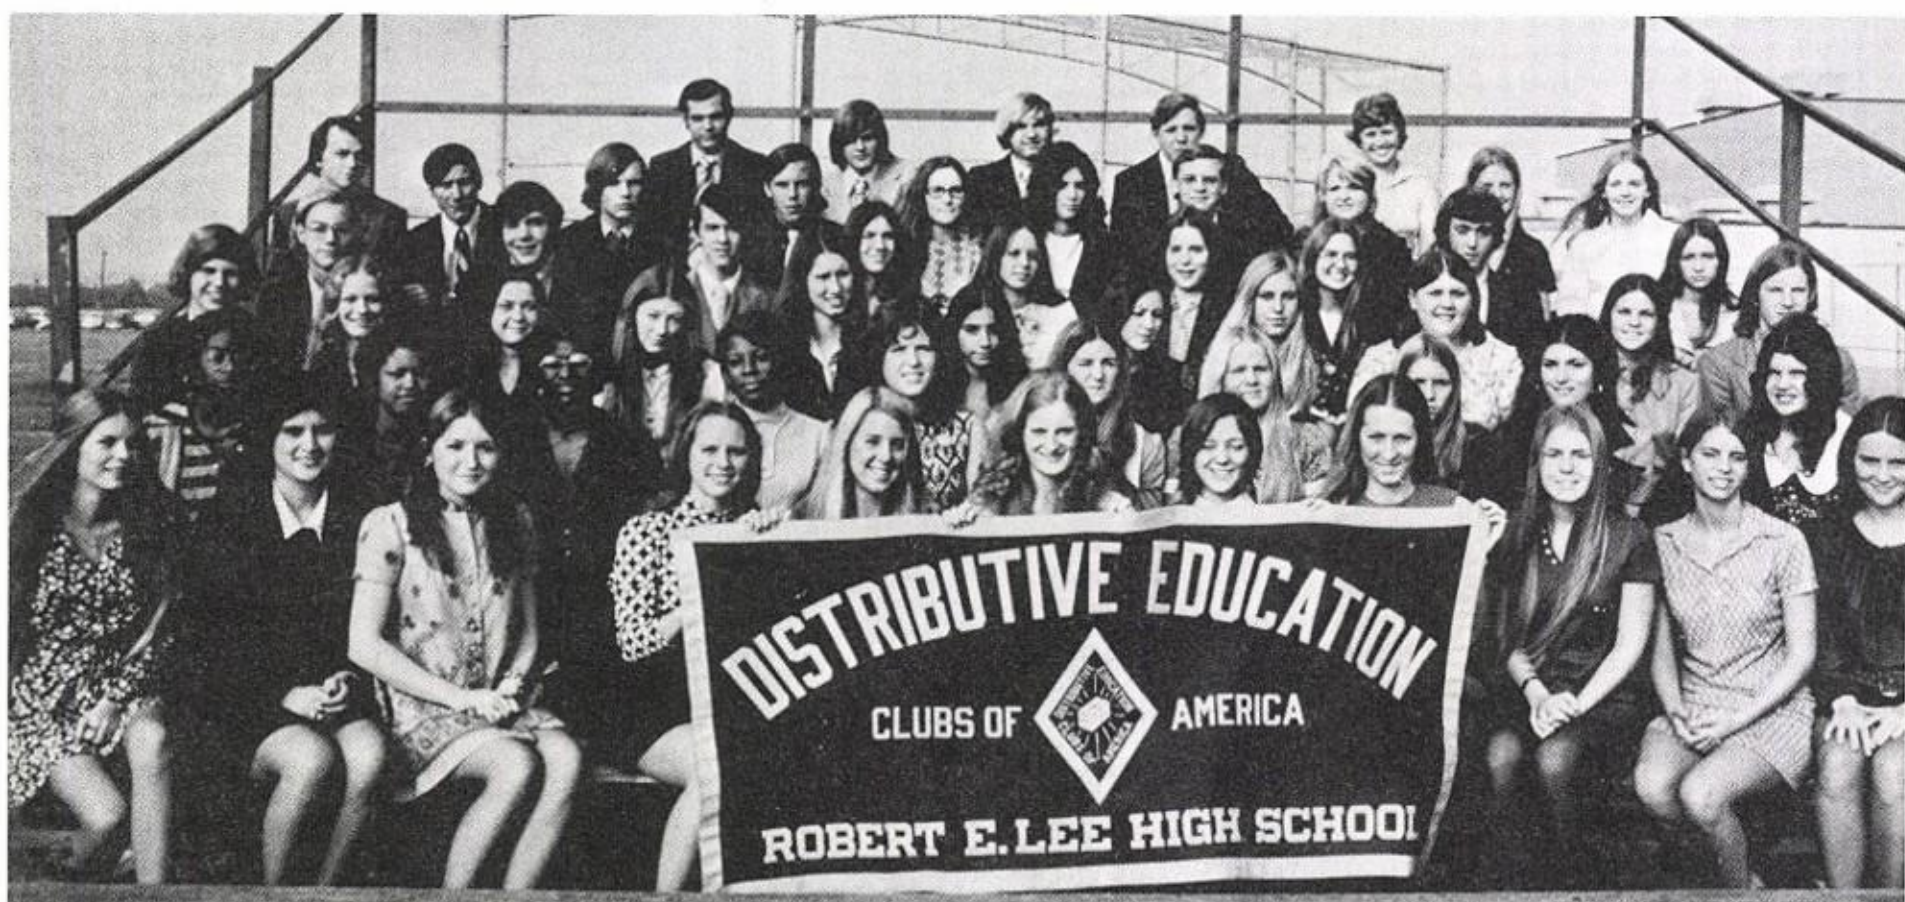

These objectives were achieved through the students' visitation of the State DECA Association, the National Shoe Fair in September, and the area DECA conference, where trophies were awarded to Tina Artman and Mike Lewis for public speaking, and to Karen Lepley and Wanda Bell for display.

Sponsored by Mr. Kelly Ritch, the club members sold candy during the spring semester to raise funds for students' traveling to the National Leadership Conference in Miami.

End of the year social activities included an installation of officers and a spring banquet.

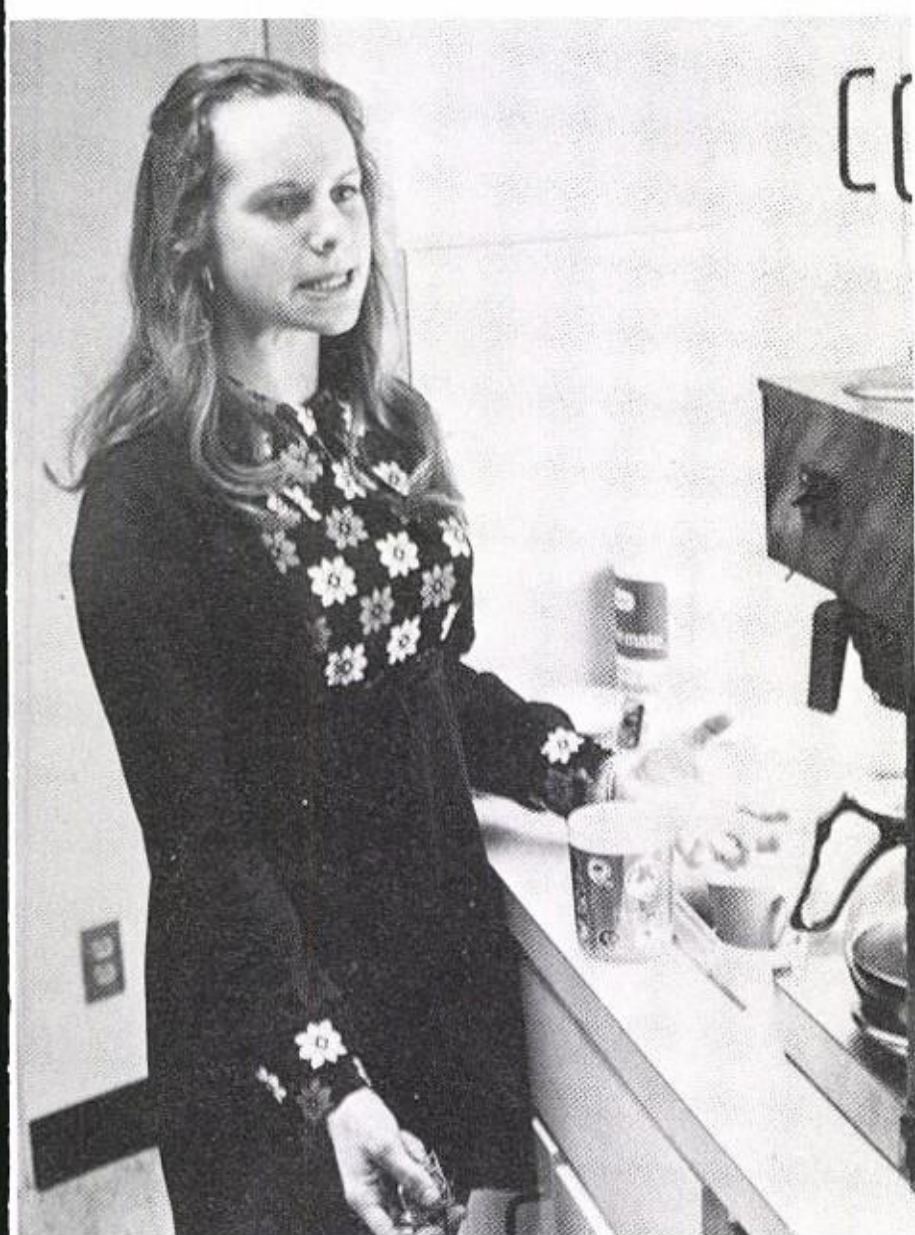

"But, Mr. Ritch, it doesn't say in the DECA manual that I have to tell my measurements to apply for this position," questions Melanie Boyce as Mr. Kelly Ritch and Mrs. Maureen Casey look on in puzzlement.

Promoting knowledge of and interest in the numerous careers associated with medicine is the primary aim of the Medical Careers Club. Sponsored by Mrs. Carolyn Coleman, the club had guest speakers including doctors, dentists, and dental hygienists, and took field trips to Baylor College of Medicine and to M. D. Anderson Hospital.

Special projects included making Christmas stockings and assisting at a party for hospitalized children.

A banquet in the spring climaxed the year.

Sharing smiles and helping others are Mrs. Carolyn Coleman, sponsor; Josie Medrano, president; Barbara Eastwood, vice-president; Jane Ann Smeck, secretary-treasurer; and Lesley Carothers, historian.

Future Lawyers Tour Courts

To study the different fields that the law profession offers and to learn the privileges and responsibilities of living under a government of law rather than a government of men are the goals of the Future Lawyers Club.

At the meetings, guest speakers from the law profession enhanced the members' understanding of present-day law systems.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Virginia Levitt, the club made visits to the courts and took tours of the state capitol and the University of Texas to round out the year's activities.

tary; and Pat McBride, treasurer, can always find odd jobs to keep them busy.

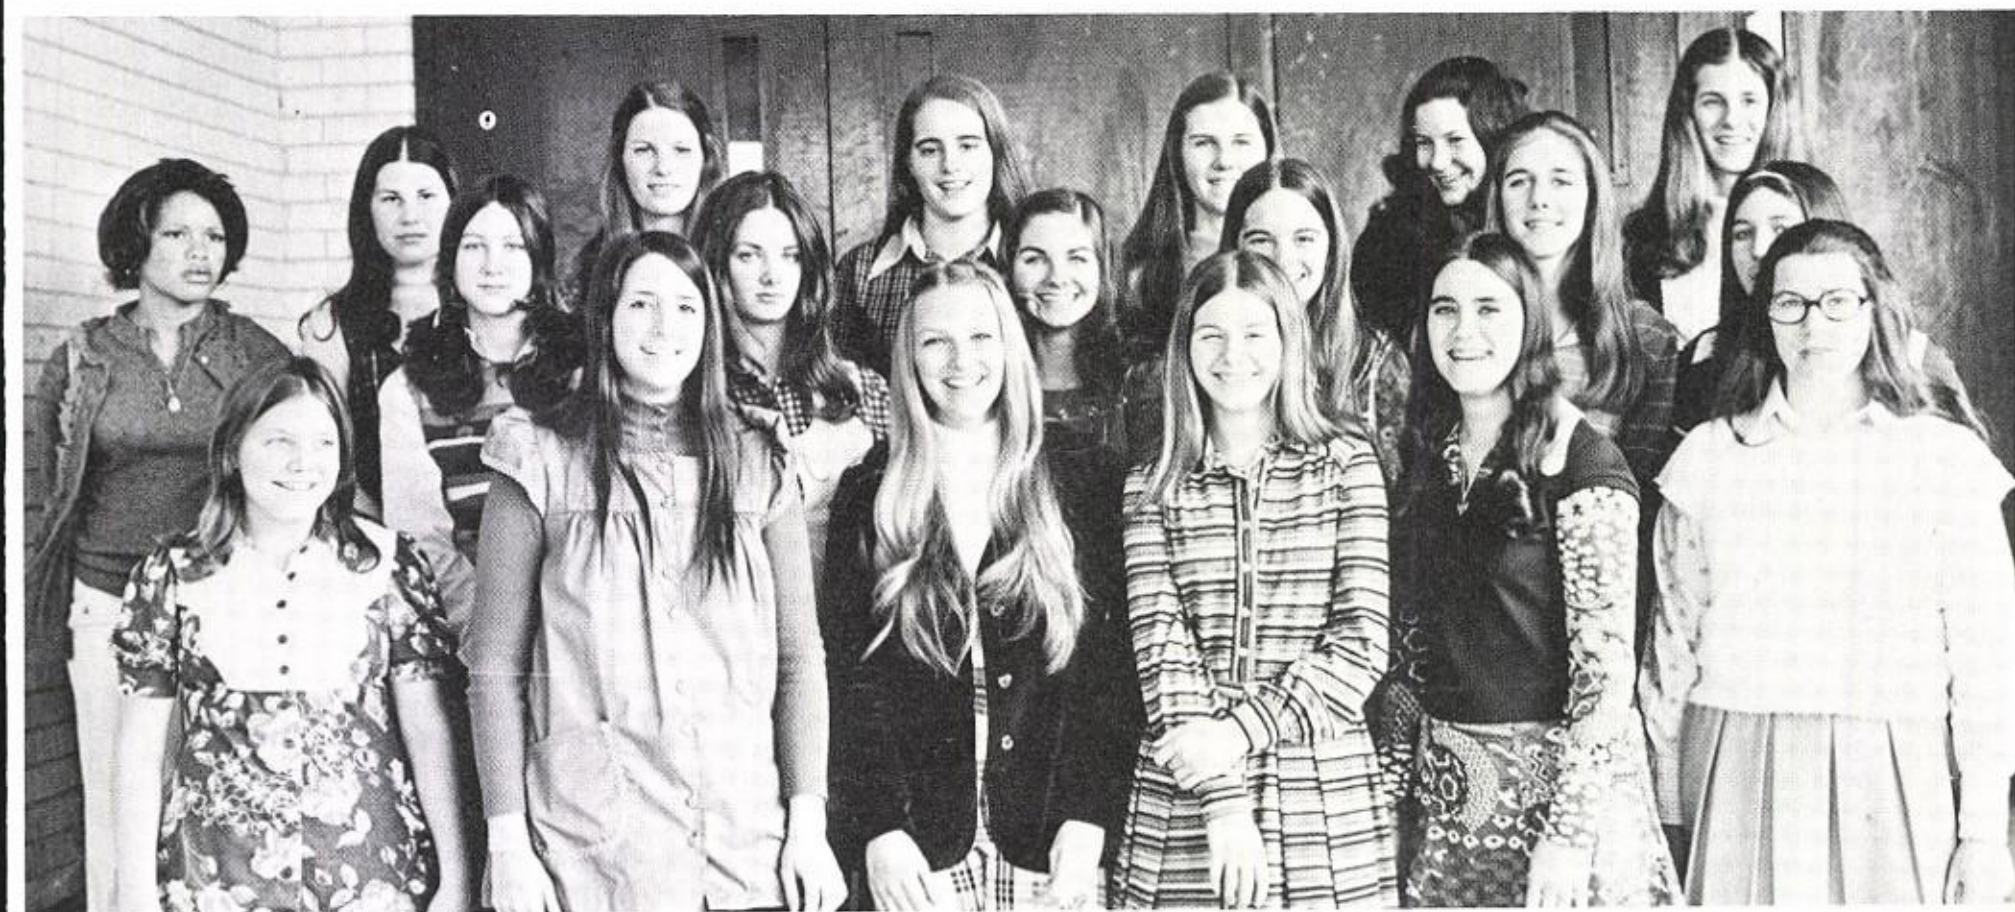

Dianne Taylor and Mrs. Leggett prepare the table for the teachers' luncheon.

Students in the Future Teachers Club acquired a new responsibility as the year began. If a teacher became ill during the day, or if a substitute teacher was late in coming to school, these girls became the "teacher for the hour" by checking roll and keeping order in the class.

In the fall, the girls held their annual luncheon for the teachers. Food was brought in the form of pigs in blankets, cakes, and cookies.

Sponsored by Mrs. Jewel Leggett, senior girls spent one day at an elementary school or junior high school to teach the students. During the May banquet, the girls related their experiences in the teaching world.

Texans Explore State's Past

Students expressing a vivid interest in Texas history are prime material for the Texas History Club. Sponsored by Mr. Noel Lark, the club tries to explore the past while cultivating among its members an interest in Texas and its heritage.

In seeking to develop this interest, Texas History Club members toured the historical homes of Houston. The annual banquet was held at the San Jacinto Inn in May.

Christianity Brings Students Together

Every Tuesday morning, the doors of the auditorium open to the student body. Here, the Christian Student Union meets to talk, listen, sing, and pray in an effort to encourage all students to live a Christian life, both at home and at school.

Members studied Christian ideals and principles with the help of their sponsor, Mrs. Bobbie James. An election and installation of the new officers ended the year.

Officers — Mrs. Bobbie James, sponsor; Eric Traylor, president; Rick Clark, program chairman; Sarah Loomis, vice-president; Jan Plummer, secretary; and Dale VonHeeder, treasurer — share their Christian beliefs.

Number Game Fascinates Mathematicians

Officers of MAΘ are — Linda Wittig, secretary; Ann McSpadden, reporter; Jim Caldwell, treasurer; Tim McCord, vice-president; and Archie Henderson, president.

Slide rules and trig tables become the right hand of any student belonging to Mu Alpha Theta. Sponsored by Mrs. Thera Yoes, MAΘ seeks to promote the scholarship, enjoyment, and the understanding of mathematics among high school and junior college students.

At each meeting, speakers presented the club members with greater understanding of the complex situation pertaining to the world of numbers.

During the spring, the club members participated in contests at Belaire and Waltrip.

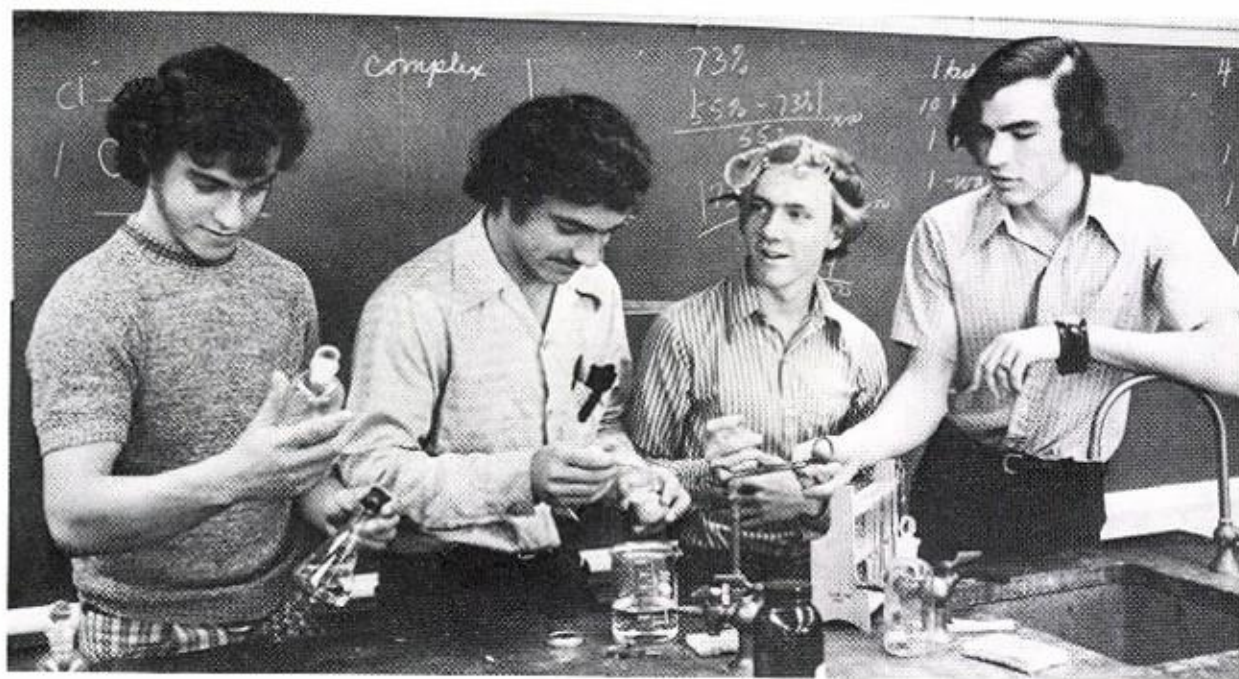

An annual fund-raising project of selling geometers and trig tables raised money for the club's final banquet and installation of new officers.

Young Scientists Open Doors to Unknown

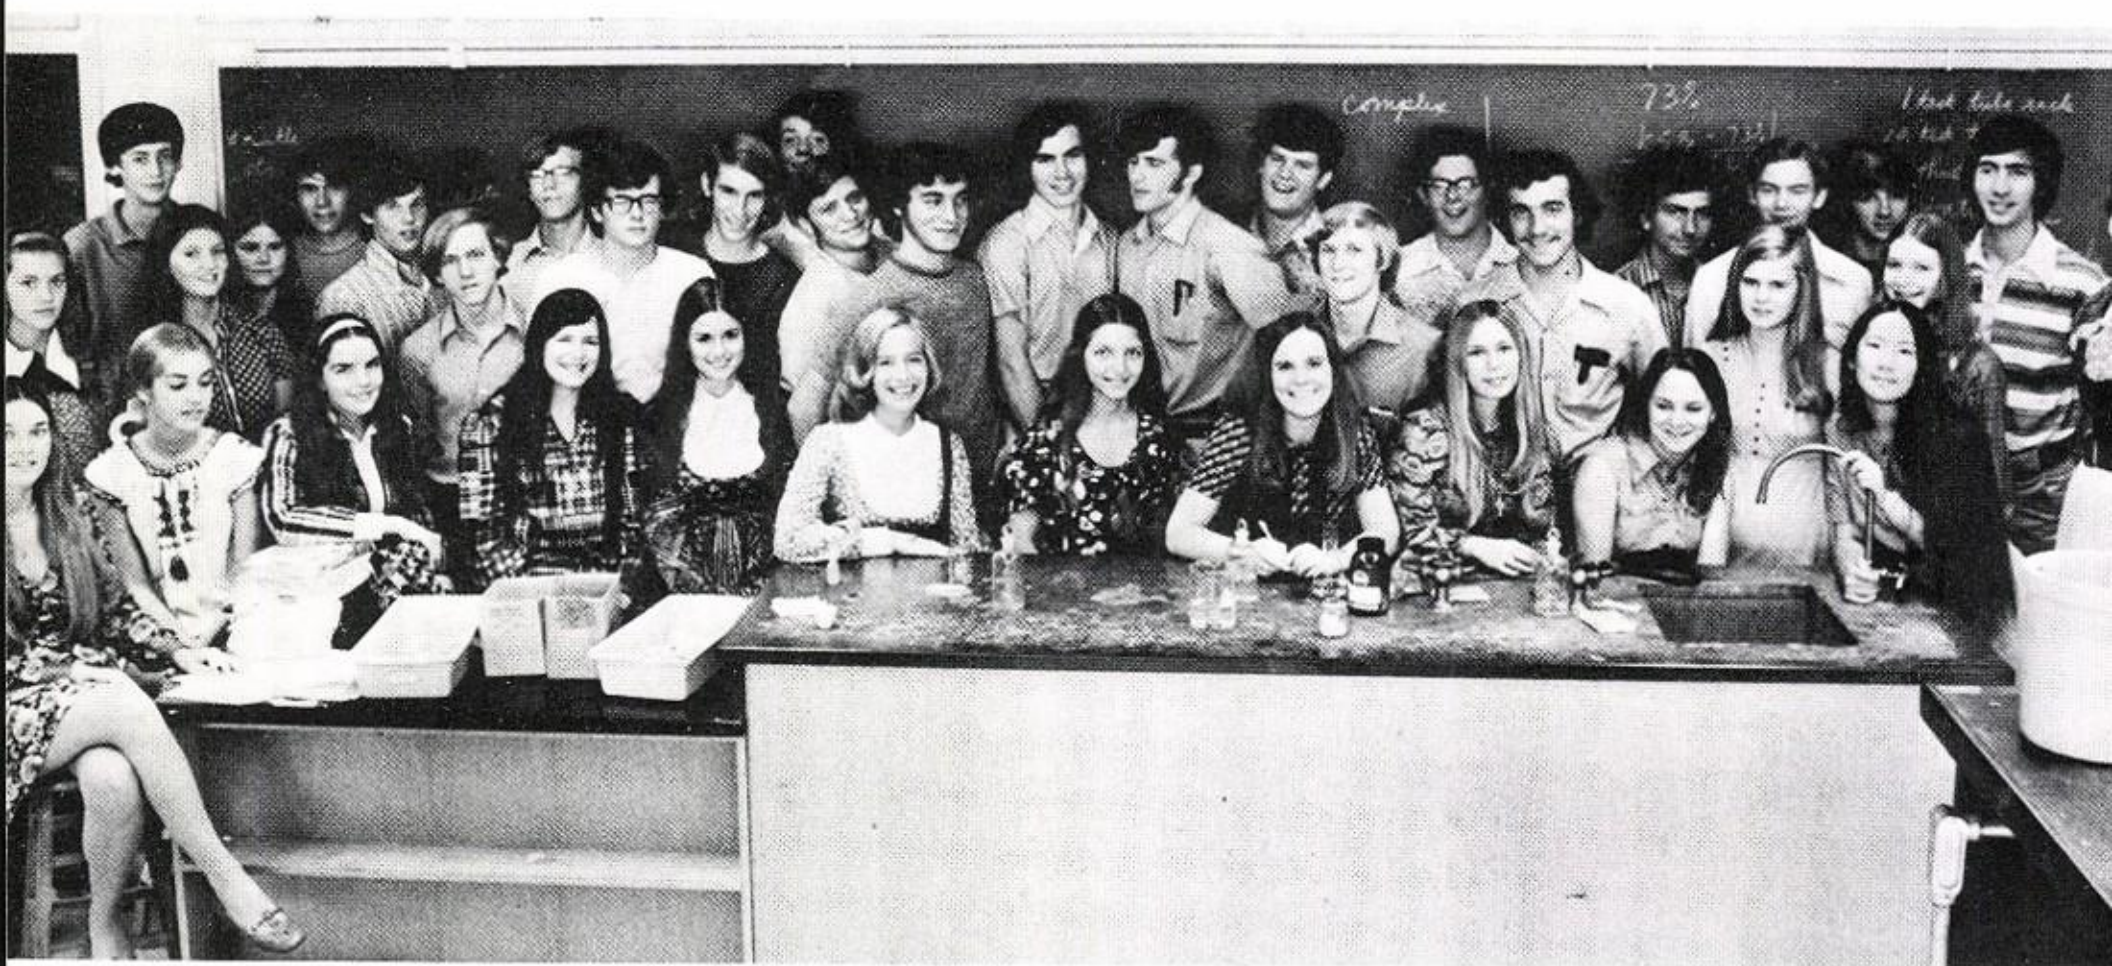

Under the leadership of Mrs. Hettye Hunter, Science Club members are given the opportunity to learn more about science — its procedures, principles, and associated fields of study. Through active participation in club activities, members conducted experiments not ordinarily available to most students.

In March, the Science Club sent representatives to the Junior Engineering Annual State Conference at Texas A&M University.

After excursions were made to the Imperial Sugar Refinery, Rice University Space Science Labs, and Baylor University, the year was climaxed with a spring banquet.

Techniques of modern farming skills are practiced and improved through the Future Farmers of America. This national organization, under the guidance of Mr. Roy Sheffield, provides its members a laboratory for practical training in agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship. Other activities include participating in competitive leadership contests on district, area, state, and national levels.

In the fall, club funds were raised by the selling of F.F.A. calendars. During the spring semester, members of the club sponsored the Robert E. Lee Future Farmers Stock Show and participated in the District Leadership Contest and Northline Harris County Fair.

Future Commanders Drill Toward Precision

Through daily drilling of the numerous skills, the National Defense Cadet Corps strives to perfect marksmanship, marching, and war tactics among its well-disciplined students.

Rank is based on demonstration of these skills which demand not only persistence but also coordination from members of the NDCC. Field training built the unit physically while bivouacs tested their mental alertness and mastery of war-time tactics.

Club sponsors Major Solon Tate and Sgt. Edward Payne helped direct these future commanders towards achievement of the Honor Star.

Raising and lowering the flag at school every day and escorting spectators at all Lee's games, were this busy organization's responsibilities.

On Armed Forces Day and Memorial Day, the NDCC publicly demonstrated its skills in parade marches. Bivouacs, brigade reviews, and award ceremonies occupied the cadets' time in the spring.

Home-Ec Club Creates Originals

With the rising costs of living, students recognized the necessity of developing their own resources and talents. The Home Economics Club, sponsored by Mrs. Margaret Jarry, Mrs. Barbara Machemehl, and Miss Katharine Molloy, provided these students with an appreciation of both stylish clothes and delicious food.

One of the major projects of the year was the selling of Christmas paper and Christmas gift tags. With the money obtained, members bought new equipment for the home economics department. Continuing the Christmas spirit, the club sponsored a Christmas breakfast for the faculty at Lee.

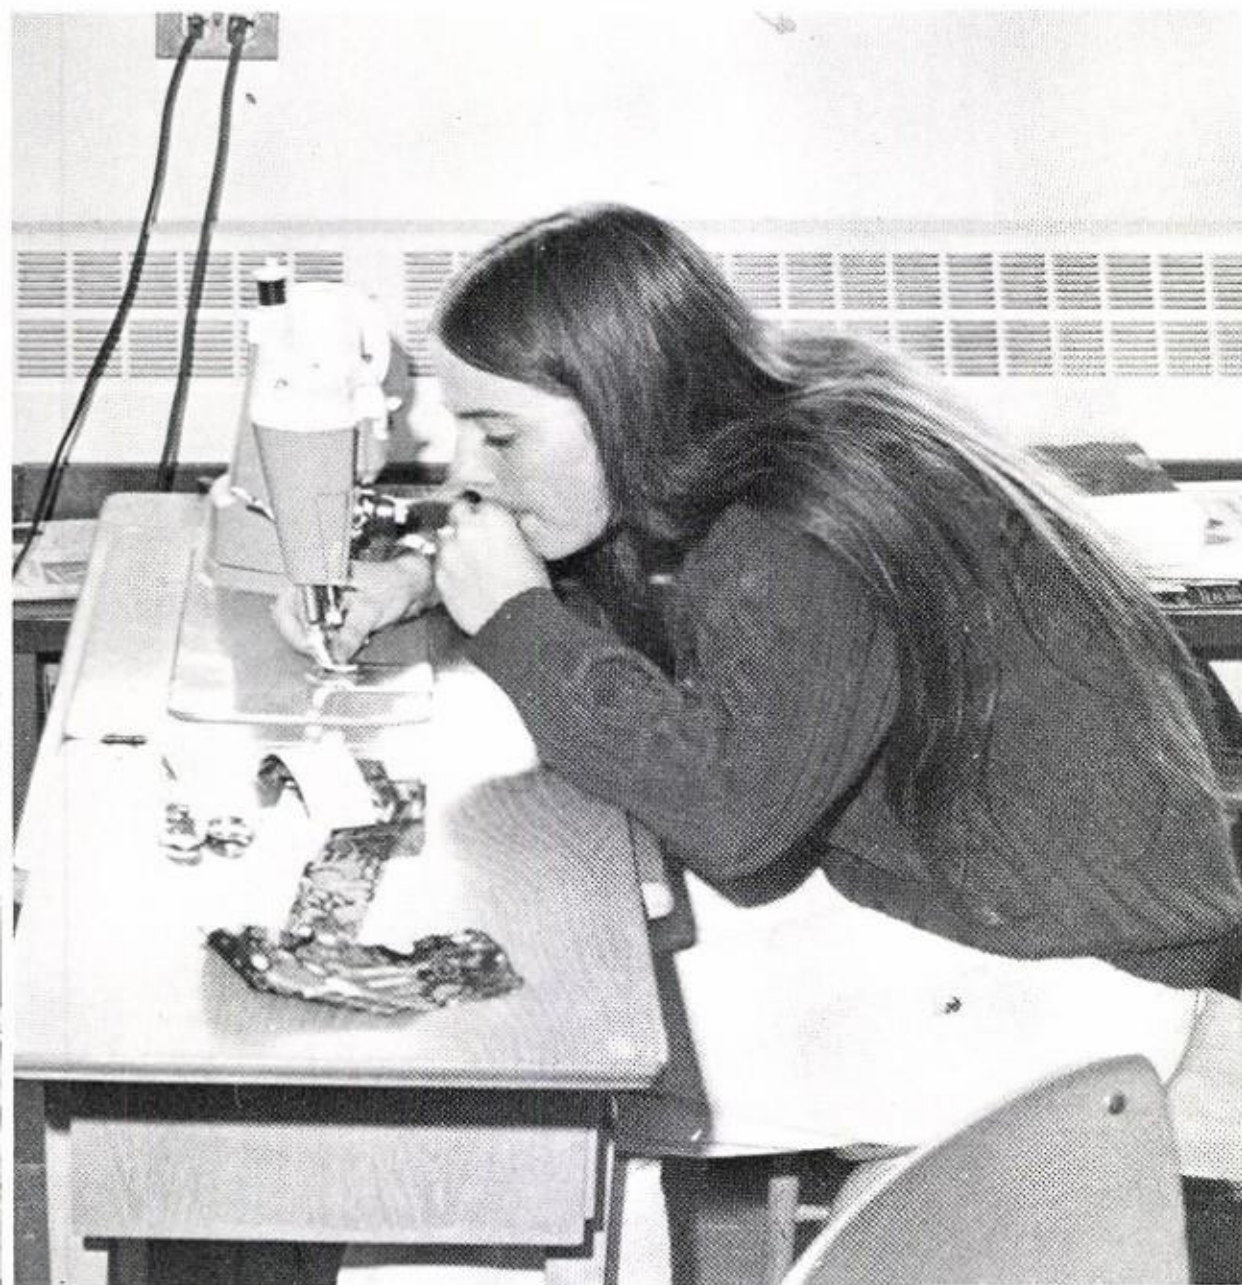

A banquet in the spring ended a year of stitching, ripping, baking, and burning.

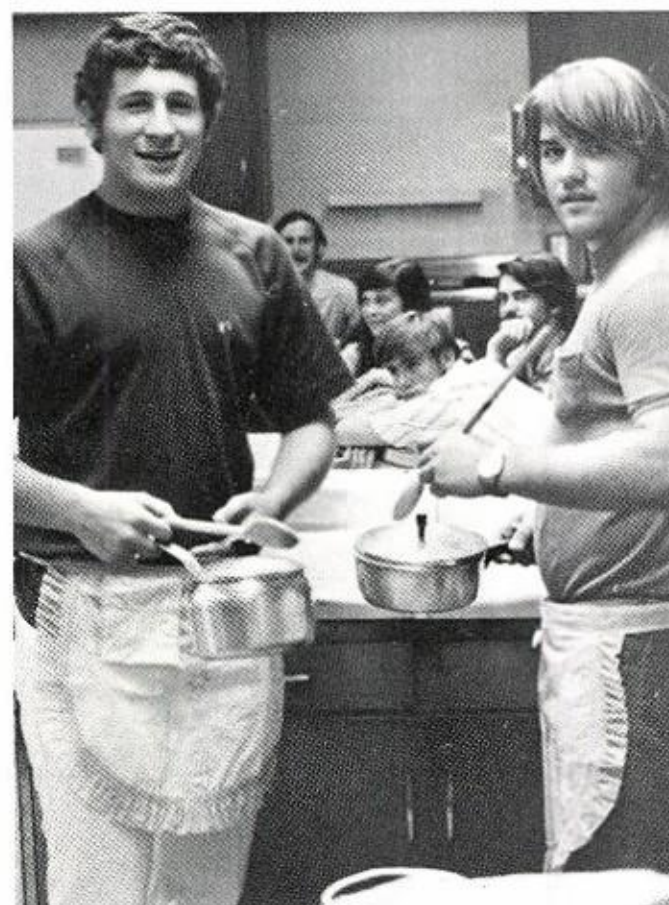

Always revealing their imaginations are class chairmen Yogi Reece, Mike Burt, Marcia Adam, Ken Ballard, Shirley Jones, and Carolyn Boozer.

"Anything you can do, we can do better," boast officers Patti Brandon, historian; Sarah Loomis, reporter; Debbie Hosea, first vice-president; Wanda Bell, second vice-president; Terri Barrett, secretary-treasurer; Curley Green, president; Abigail Edwards, third vice-president; and Neil McCoy, first vice-president.

Emily Murphy bites into a new project.

"My soufflé is better than your soufflé." Steve Kahn and Glenn Sikes compete for the Suzy Homemakers award.

"Hurry, get the roach out of my hair," screams Robbie Keeton as Kathy Andrus rushes to the rescue.

"I wouldn't have bought it if I'd known it wasn't permanent press," sighs Carole Walter.

Encouraging students to speak Spanish and promoting an interest in the study of the Spanish language and Hispanic cultures are the primary aims of the Spanish Club. Sponsored by Mrs. Maxine Dorsey, the club invited speakers from Spanish-speaking countries to show slides and to tell about the customs and heritage of the people.

At Christmas, the members visited a home for the aged where they took favors and sang Christmas carols in Spanish. For its springtime activities, the club took a trip to San Antonio and had a piñata party. In May, the new officers were installed at the annual banquet.

Celebrating Oktoberfest early in the school year, Der Deutsch Verein, sponsored by Mrs. H. E. Thomas, provides all interested students an outside education of the German culture and language. At meetings, guest speakers and films promoted greater insight into the character and customs of the country.

The Christmas season was filled with German Christmas carols as club members sang to the patients at Methodist Hospital.

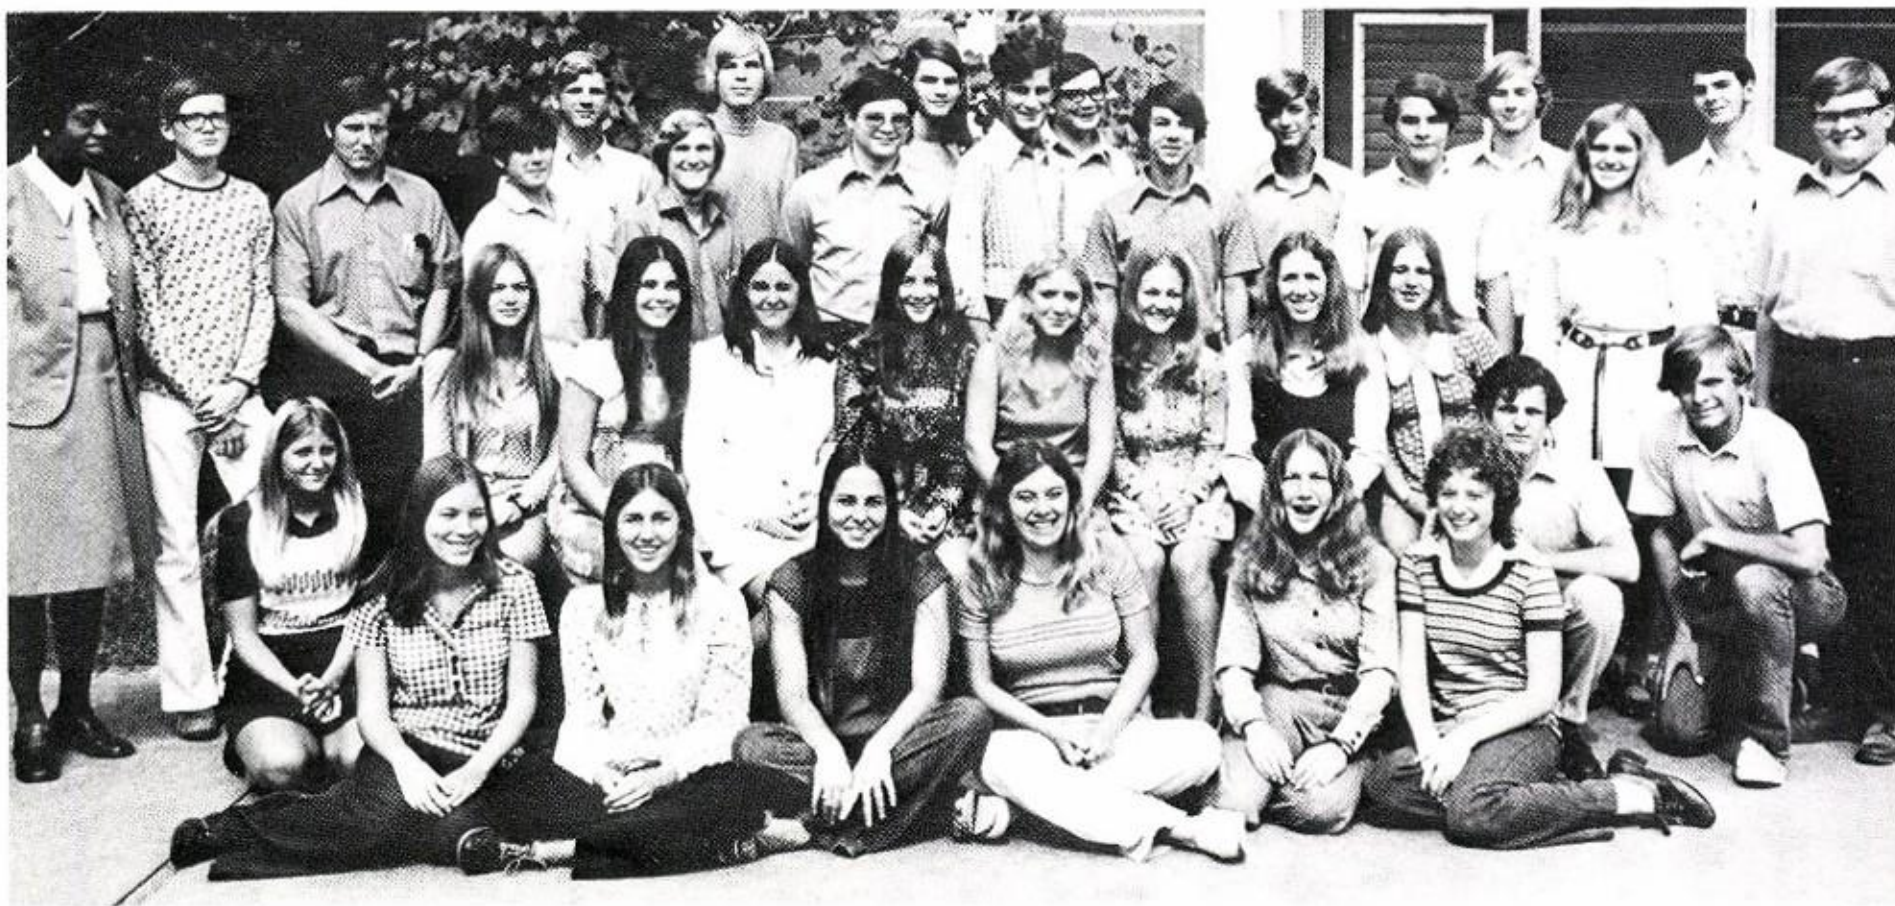

Springtime found the members of the German Club involved in dramatics by their presentation of a German play both at Lee and at the Texas Association of German Students Convention.

Final activities included field trips and the spring banquet.

LHS Inspires Romans

Honoring outstanding students of Latin, the Latin Honor Society, under the guidance of Mrs. Walleah Tennyson, strives to foster the development of academic standards in Latin and to be of service to Lee. Members not currently enrolled in Latin, must have previously completed two years of this language.

Highlights of the year included not only a fall and spring banquet and the induction of new members in February, but also the fourth annual Gulf Coast Latin Convention. Additionally, the club captured first place in the "chariot design" and third place in the "grape-eating" contests in the second annual Roman Games, a mock Olympics.

Girls Learn French Cuisine

"Oh, to be in Paris!" dreams Mrs. Miriam Peterson, sponsor, as officers Beverly Robertson, historian; Sandy Gullett, president; Susan Peterson, vice-president; Louise Brown, treasurer; Sally Engemoen, secretary; and Candella Koomey, program chairman, join in her reverie.

Three French beauties, Susan Peterson, Louise Brown, and Nancy Wade, anxiously await the arrival of the French actors in "Le Medicin Malgre Lui."

Les Fleurs de Lee, or the French Club, offers to French enthusiasts the opportunity to expand their knowledge of France: its people, customs, and language.

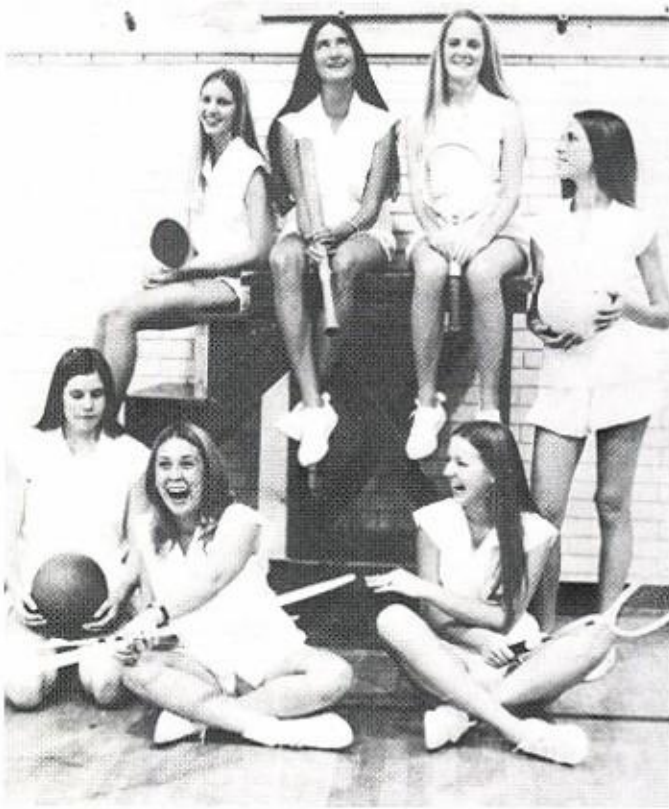

Traditionally, the club began the year with a faculty breakfast held in the Home-Ec living room. Also, members learned the art of French cuisine through attending a French cooking school.

In the spring, Les Fleurs de Lee hosted a theater troupe from Paris, which performed the play, "Le Medicin Malgre Lui." The year concluded with a French dinner at Brennan's Restaurant.

Leadership Demonstrates Teamwork

Seven intramural sports — volleyball, tennis, softball, archery, basketball, table tennis, and badminton — are associated with Le Melee. By participating in any one of these, every girl at Lee becomes eligible for membership in this organization, sponsored by Miss Jane Borneman.

An awards ceremony is held in the spring to present letters in each sport to the girls who were on winning teams. Outstanding senior girls are awarded silver charms.

Heads of sports are — Lynn Kercheval, basketball; Clare Broun, archery; Robin Saville, badminton; Sally Engemoen, table tennis; Vivian Streit, softball; Melinda Allen, tennis; and Mary McKay, volleyball.

Volleyball intramurals have become one of Le Melee's most popular tournaments, with over fifty teams competing for first place. At the end of the year, players on the winning team are awarded letters. Spirit, as well as competition, plays an important part. Other intramurals include softball, tennis, badminton, archery, basketball, and table tennis.

Mu Delta Chi Creates Style in Dance

After tryouts for prospective members in October, the Modern Dance Club began preparations for its annual Christmas project of performing at Blalock West for the old folks and Dairy Ashford Elementary School. Also, attending dance seminars at Sam Houston State University was another major activity of the club.

The aim of Mu Delta Chi is to provide interested girls with an opportunity for participation in, and further learning of, the art of dance.

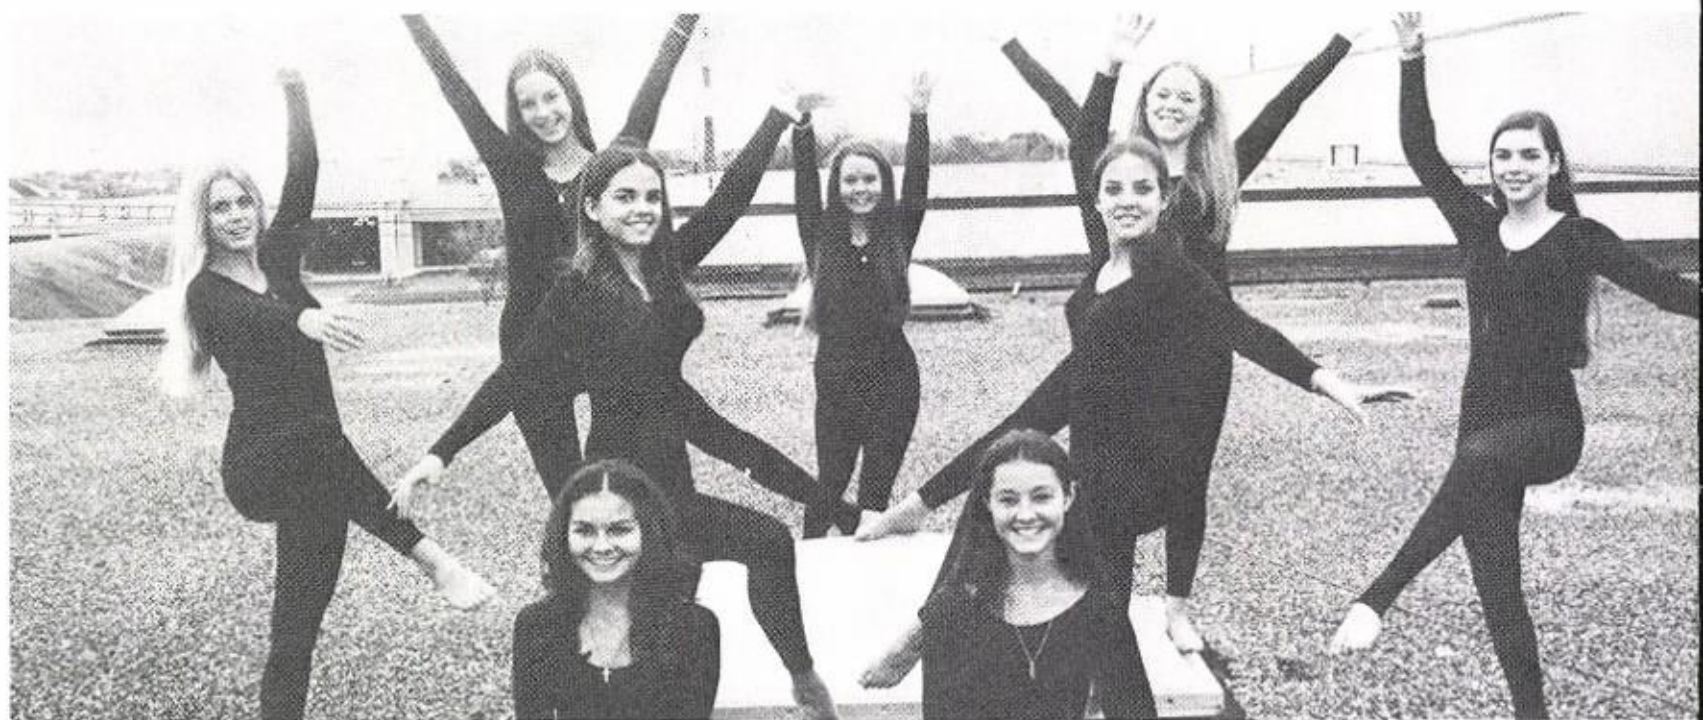

The year ended with a potpourri banquet at the ranch house of the sponsor, Mrs. Ella Allen.

New members of the dance club are — Standing: Linda Crecelius, Terry Deal, Sheryl Cheeseman, Carol Bakke, Susie Ellis, Melanie Palmer, Kirby Devine, Pam Renaudin, Barbara Lightfoot, Melinda McConn, Kitty Gallagher, Julie Ajello, Betsy Sengelmann and Kellene Cutrer. Seated: Pam Farrell.

Bill Swartz, two-star general, and Kathy Fischer, three-star general, help in preparing the routines which the Lieutenants perform at football games.

Half-time routines performed at the football games highlighted a year of precision for Lee's Lieutenants. Practices for these performances were held during sixth period and after school throughout the football season. The girls, sponsored by Miss Jeanne Reynaud, also published the 1973 directory which was sold in December.

For their senior trip in February, the Lieutenants went skiing in Winter Park, Colorado. The traditional Rebel Formal was held in the spring, and new officers were installed at the annual Gray-Gold game.

Both cheering . . .

Car Buffs Drive On

To keep up with the ever-expanding interest of the "younger generation," Lee attained a new club — the Car Club. Sponsored by Mr. Clark Young, the group of car buffs is dedicated to learning the mechanics of this complicated machine.

The club members' main project consisted of completely taking apart and rebuilding an engine. Other fall projects included field trips to car shows and tours through car companies.

The "big wheels" of the Car Club are — Mike Smith, reporter; Jay Stone, vice-president; Elaine Peterson, secretary; Candy Velvin, treasurer; and John Sharley, president.

Picture Them Busy

Eager to increase a knowledge of photography, Mr. Willie Trotty and Mr. James Jones initiated the formation of a Camera Club. Learning how to adjust a camera lens and how to enlarge and develop pictures was the basic project undertaken by the club.

Having access to a camera is the only requirement for membership in this organization.

Jay Rea finds that interesting things develop in the darkroom.

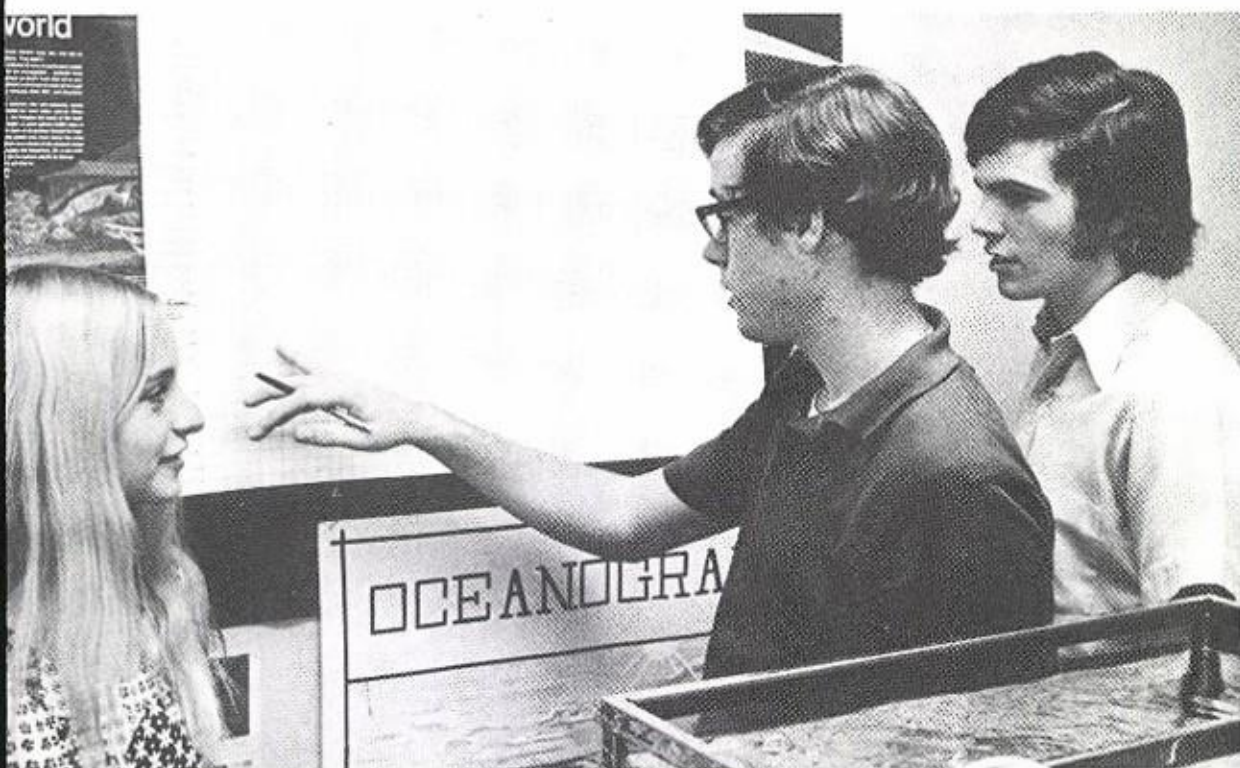

Aiming for a beneficial first year at Lee, the Camera Club officers are Peter Traylor, vice-president; Suzanne Wells, secretary-treasurer; and George Matcek, president.

Chess Team Vies for Title

The Chess Club offers students the opportunity to further their enjoyment and ability in playing the game. In addition, students who have never played chess are given instructions on its basic principles.

Under the supervision of Miss Doris Countee, these Fischer-Spassky fans meet twice weekly to test their skills in chess against those of their peers.

Chess Club members also participated in several city-wide tournaments throughout the year.

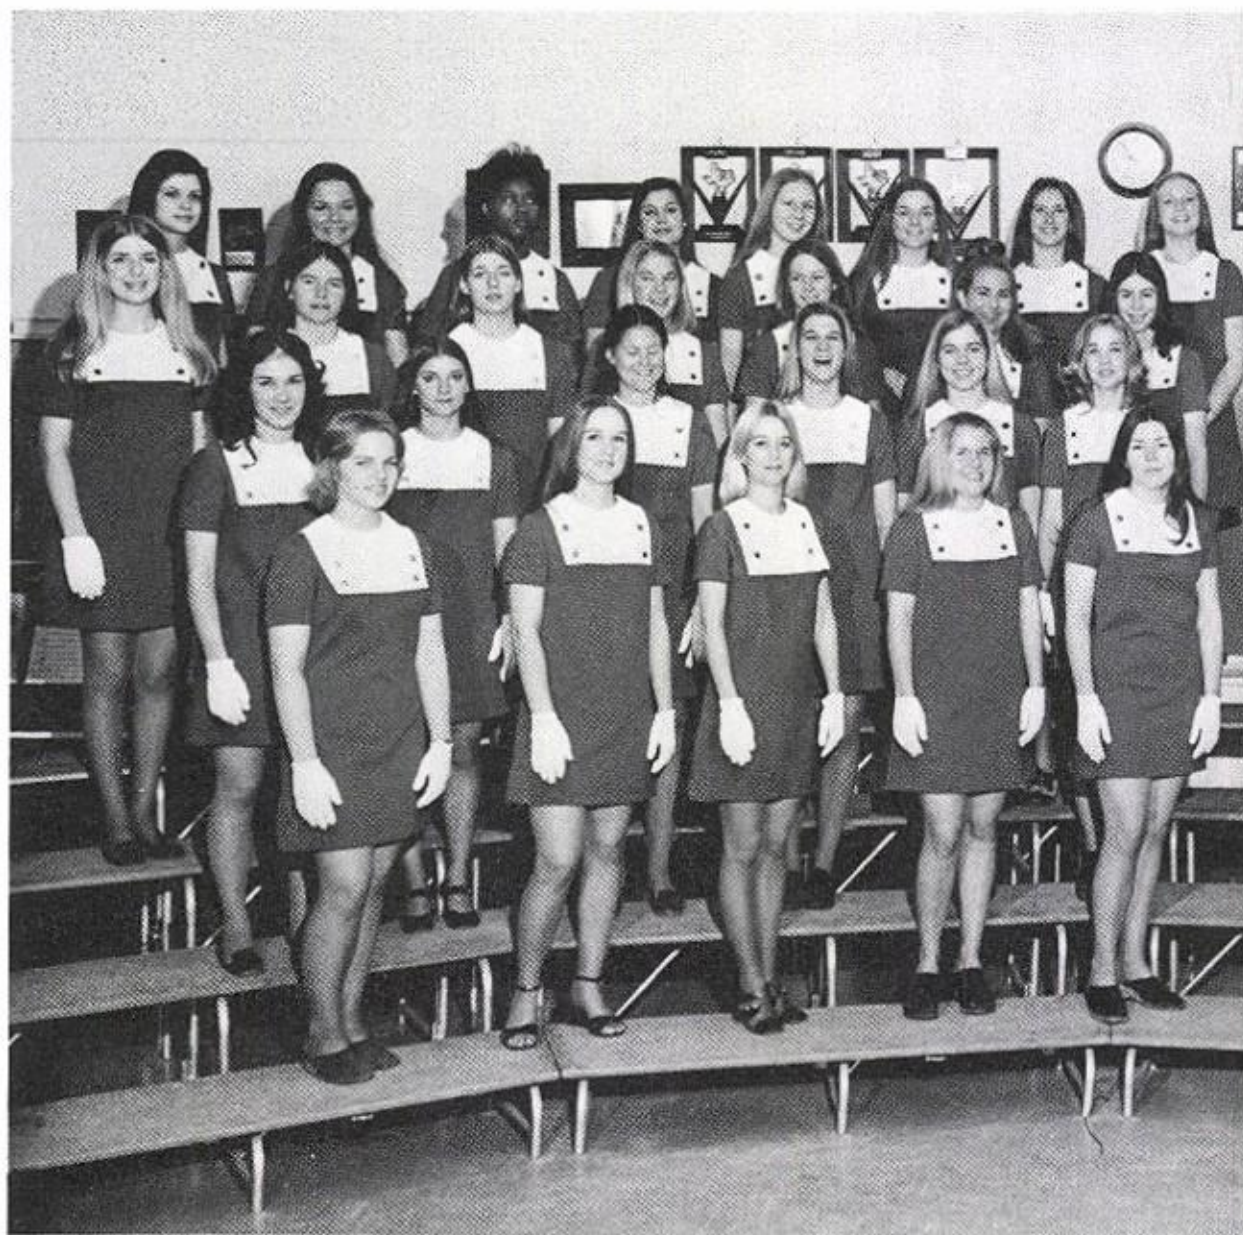

Dixi-Lier yuletide spirit fills the Robert E. Lee auditorium.

"Dixi-Liers must be dedicated to making the chorus a source of pleasure and pride to the school and community. They must be determined to be highly ranked in competition and willing to cooperate with the director, Miss Eleanor Grant, and with fellow members."

This year, Christmas was an extremely busy season for the chorus. The members joined the River Oaks Baptist Handbell Choir in spreading holiday spirit at performances for the Junior League, the Humble Building, Sharpstown Mall, the Bank of Texas, and the school P.T.A. and Christmas programs.

In the spring, individuals participated in the All Region and All State Choir tryouts, as well as in solo and ensemble contests. Dixi-Liers area winners were Jan and Lesa White and first alternate, Melody Lofton. Lesa was the first Dixi-Lier to be honored with making the All State Choir. The semester's climax occurred in May when the Dixi-Liers attended the Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi to compete with other school choirs.

Southernaires Provide Distinctive Sound

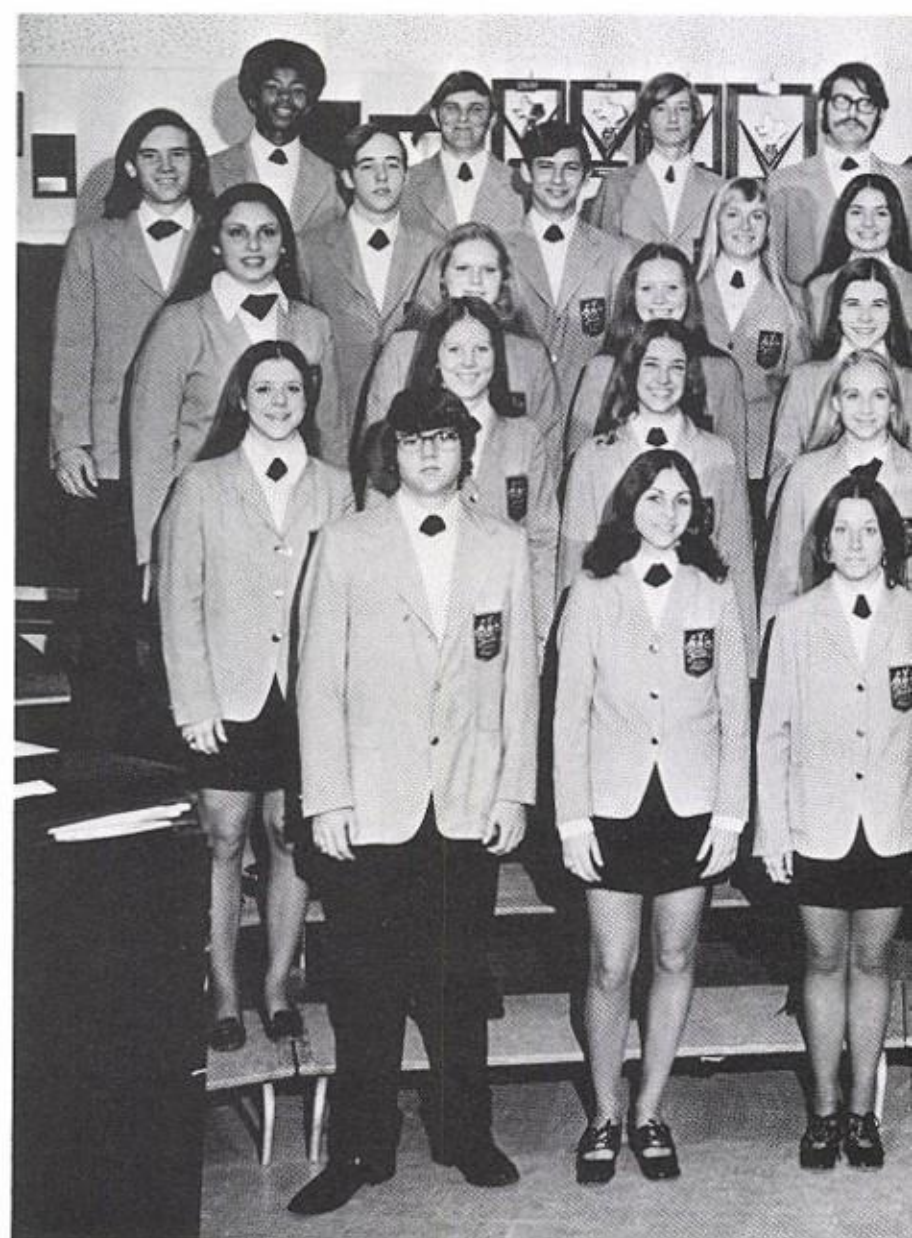

The Southern Swingers provide the best of the Southernaires and then some.

Furthering the growth of chorus members in an advanced music situation and representing the school through activities requiring choral groups, the Southernaires completed another successful year under Miss Eleanor Grant.

In early fall, the chorus performed with the Houston Symphony Orchestra at Jones Hall. Yuletide activities included a program with the Houston Baptist College Choir, performances for civic organizations and banks, and participation in the school Christmas and P.T.A. programs.

Competition describes a Southernaire spring season. In February, individuals took part in tryouts for the All Region and All State Choirs, as well as in U.I.L. solo and ensemble competition. The highlights of the semester were, however, the contests at Sea-Arama Marine World in Galveston and the Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi.

A special division of the Southernaires, the Southern Swingers, performed for the Riviana Foods Christmas Party at Look's Restaurant. The singers also sang at banquets and other small functions throughout the year.

Dramalee Has Fruitful Year

Dee Russell, vice-president; Tena Alcorn, president; and Suzie Patterson, secretary, laugh at the old "egg-in-the-hand" trick.

At the beginning of a busy year, the Dramalee and Thespian organizations received a new sponsor, Mr. Victor Siller.

Participating in tournaments at Beaumont, South Houston, Corpus Christi, Spring Woods, and Ross Sterling High Schools, members won six first place awards and seven second and third place awards. Melody Lofton captured first place in poetry at the Bellaire tournament, with more than eighty schools participating.

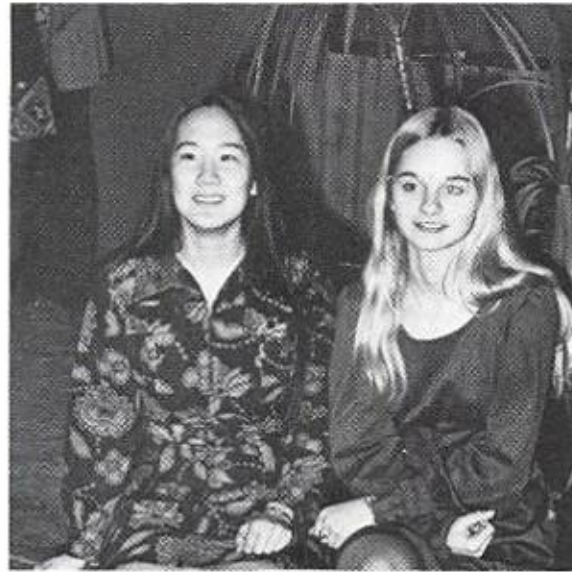

In January, members attended the South Texas International Thespian Society, in which Tena Alcorn and Dee Russell held the offices of vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, this year. For next year, Regina Chien was elected to serve as president, and Gay Dishongh as secretary. In addition, the drama students attended the organization's regional conference.

The year's highlight was the spring production of "Guys and Dolls," a story of New York gamblers in the 1950's.

Also, the orchestra was invited to perform at the Music Festival in Corpus Christi.

Providing entertainment for civic functions and school assemblies as well as providing students with a group in which they are able to develop their individual musical talents and perfect ability in performing philharmonic tunes is the purpose of this club.

Beginning the year early in August with a performance at an exhibition game in the Astrodome, the Marching Generals put in a year of long, hard work. Practicing every day during the fall from two until five, the band prepared for each football game.

Directed by Mr. Charles DeLaney, the band played for the Houston Aeros Hockey Team, a University of Houston football game, and a spaghetti supper. Besides playing for "Guys and Dolls," this year's musical, the band also competed in the HISD band competition.

Participating in the Foley's Thanksgiving Day Parade, the Marching Generals brought home a trophy for their outstanding performance.

NFL Strives for Perfection

Cultivating an interest in forensics and providing competition in speech activities are the purposes of the National Forensic League, sponsored by Mr. Rod Nichols. Members of the club are given a chance to achieve excellence in speaking skills and communication by attending various tournaments throughout the nation.

In October, Lee hosted a competitive tournament for schools in the area. By the end of the fall semester, Lee's diligent speakers had won trophies in the Beaumont, South Houston, and Milby Tournaments.

The spring officers included Bruce Zivley, president; Susan Roberts, vice-president; Betsy Gerhardt, secretary; and George Cruikshank, treasurer.

Installation of officers during the spring banquet brought the year to an end.

"Now, Mr. Nichols, it wasn't all that bad, was it?" Mr. Nichols wonders if Betsy Gerhardt's speech on male chauvinist pigs will be such a good idea after all.

"Well, Susan, I guess I'm just a little shy." John Tipton confides his innermost secrets to Susan Roberts.

"David, maybe if you wouldn't sing the poem, it might be more effective." Bruce Zivley feels that constructive criticism might be David Donoho's only hope.

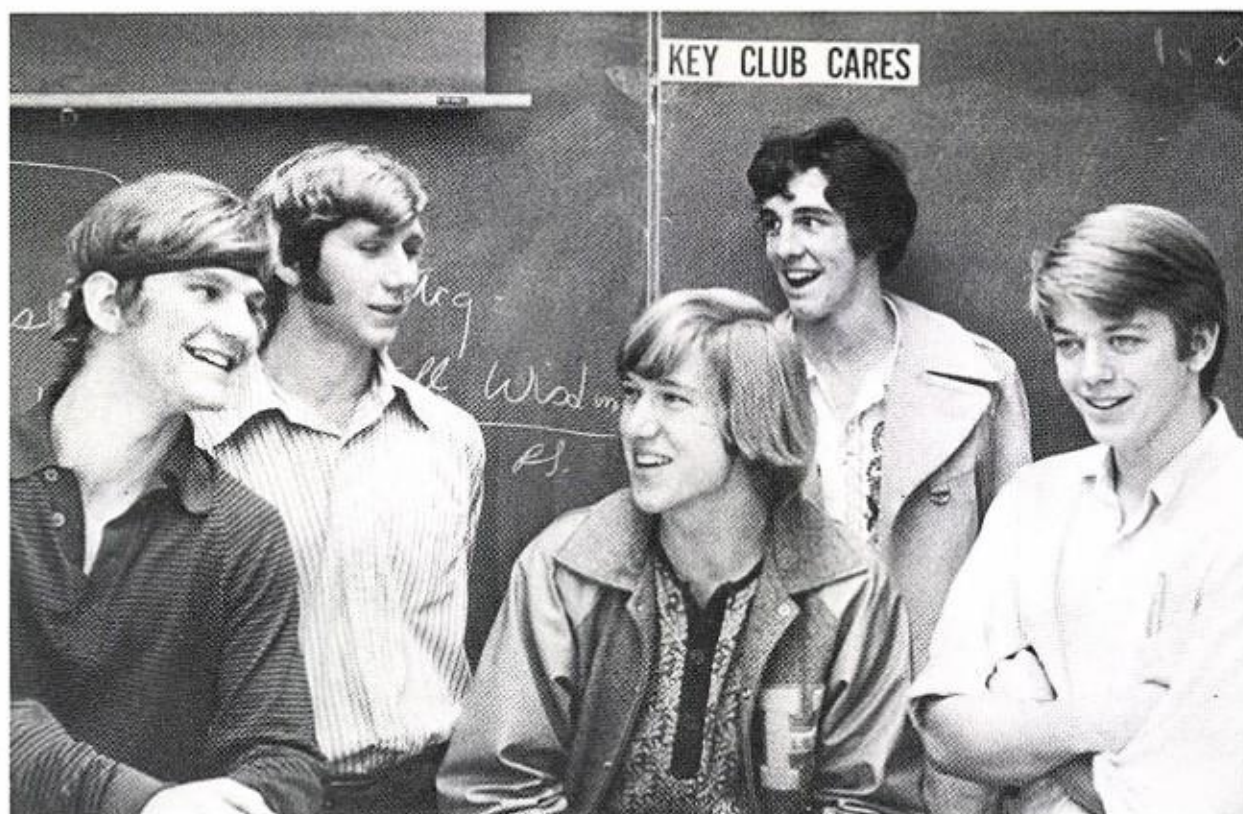

"Surprise!" Lori Pfisterer finds herself as a trophy substitute, much to Bruce Zivley's dismay.

Defense Supplements Eventful Season

With injuries coming to key two-year lettermen like squirrels come to nuts, the fighting Lee football team was deprived of the 18-4A Championship. Such pre-season all-city choices as Mike Waidhofer, Harry Prewett, Tommy Cooksey, Rodney Davis, and Dexter Krause were stricken by the plague. Since the team was made up mostly of inexperienced juniors who were led into the field of battle against experienced "brothers" like Galena Park, Lincoln, Westbury, and district champion Bellaire, the season was not a tremendous success, but it was eventful.

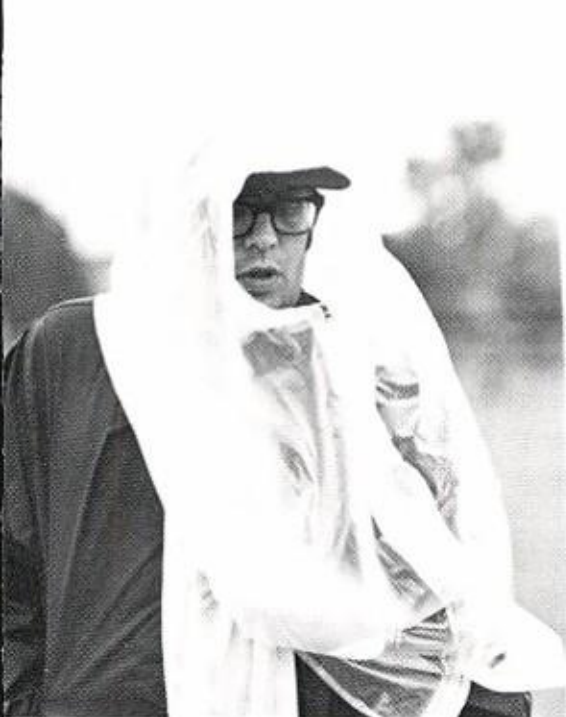

The scrappy Generals had Yogi Reece, Charlie Williams, and Kevin Henry named to the all-district squad. At the annual steak dinner (so-called steak dinner, as there are those who would question the quality of the meat), Yogi Reece, Charlie Williams, and Kevin Henry took away not only all the steak, but also all of the awards!

Even though the season did not grant Lee another district championship, with a 5-4-1 record, the Generals still managed big wins over Sharpstown and the Lamar "Deadskins."

Cagers Surprise Student Body

Headed by Coach Schmiech, the 1973 Lee basketball team showed valuable courage and determination throughout the season. Even though the record showed some losses, the cagers fought hard each contest, and finished with a creditable 6-8 record in District 18-4A.

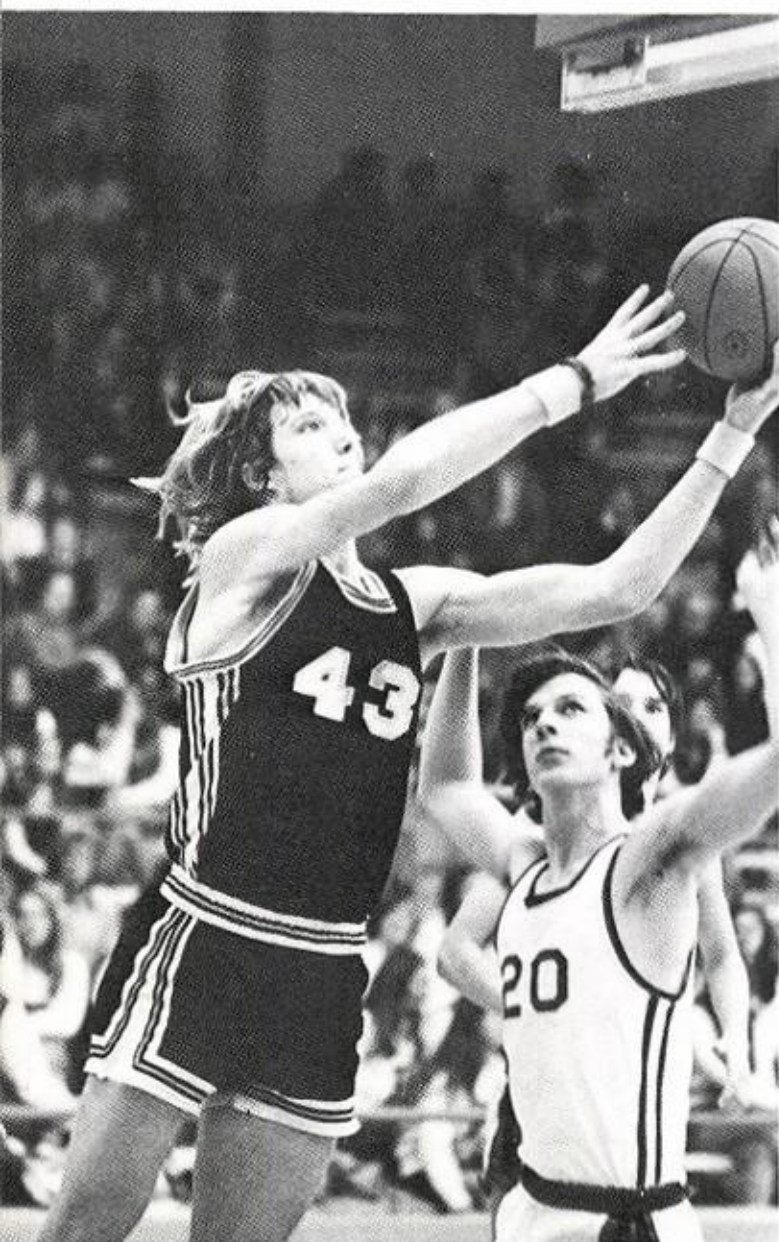

The roundballers were inspired by close wins over Sterling, Lincoln, and Westbury, but were elated with the big victories of the season — the two massacres of the Lamar Redskins.

The cagers were led with senior players Joe Bailey, Mike Hartwig, Steve Walker, Don Riggs, Jeff Porter, John Faniel, and Dale Perry. Valuable help came from the bench with players Jeff Piper, Tommy Ford, Mark Staples, and Doug Lechtenberger.

Baseball Homers at Lee

In an attempt to regain the glamour of a champion, the baseball machine, produced under the expertise of Head Coach Bill McMillan and his able assistant Keith Kilgore, quickly molded into a unit. The coaches trained the "jockos" long and hard. Conditioning, always the fun part of practice, brought the famous "parking lots" and "run-byes." As an added attraction, the team members felt it was their duty to enrich the soil with their emotions.

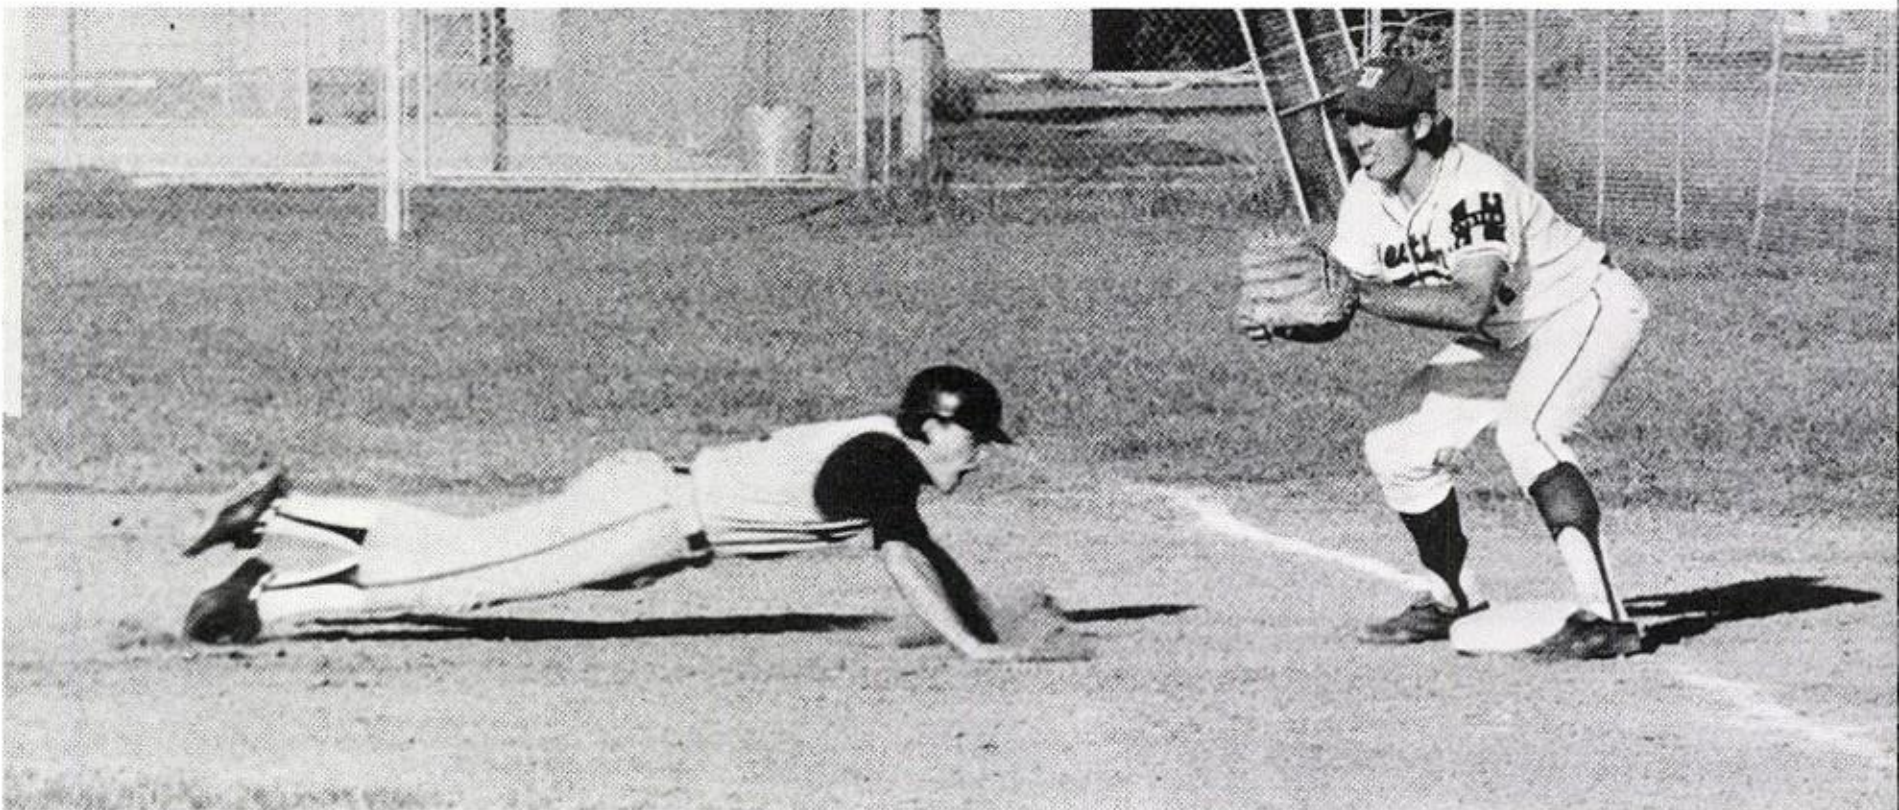

Early season clashes with powers Reagan, Brazosport, Westchester, and Spring Branch tested the Generals' ability.

An experienced group of ballplayers, six to be exact, were greatly needed for leadership. In the infield, Mike Alexander, Ray Benestante, and Dallas DiFiore maintained a flawless fielding record. Larry Wright, All-City sensation, anchored the outfield corps. Steve Buckley and Mike McGilvray had the bulk of the pitching on their shoulders while catcher Stanley Hinson chased every pitch that went awry.

Placed in the strongest district in the city, the Generals matched brain(?) and brawn with tough competitors Bellaire, Sharpstown, and Westbury.

All trackmen from Lee were blended together by hard-working Coach Agleton who prepared the painful practices for the runners each day. These practices were of great value as the tracksters paved their way toward the triangular meets.

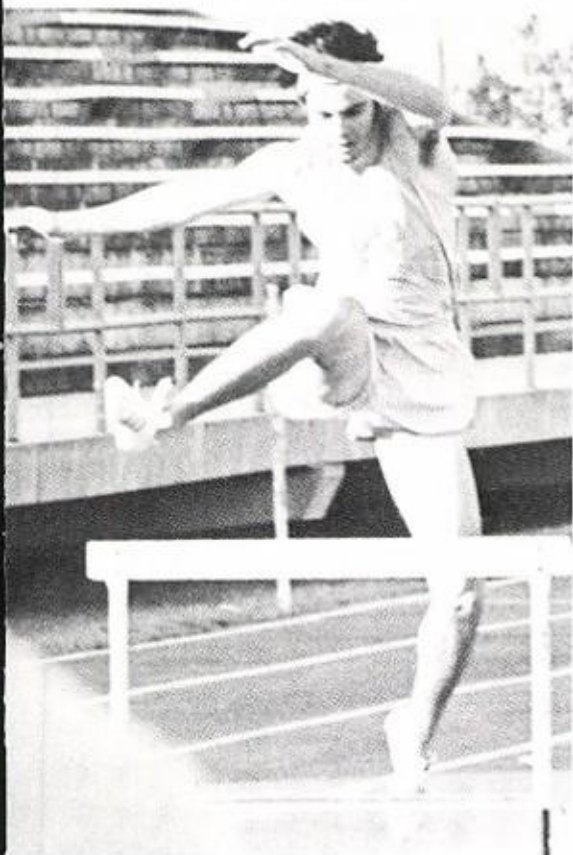

After two of these meets, the speedsters shot-putted themselves into the Redskin and Texas Relays and again made their bid for the district crown.

Leading the field for Lee were returning lettermen Stan Woods and Edgar Bone. Unforgettable aid came from Generals Steve Mott, Keith Miller, and Dano Edwards.

"Hey, I thought this was the 220, not the 440!" Donnie Ray Freney expresses his desire to run another 220 yards.

"My team can beat any team, buddy!" replies Coach Agleton to an antagonizing news reporter.

Tennis at Lee experienced a change in form as Keith Kilgore was appointed as the new head coach for the netters. Coach Kilgore and his team were determined to capture a sixth no-loss record year. With that determination in mind and with grueling practice each day at the Houston Country Club, the winning spirit began with a victory over Westbury.

The netters' locations of play ranged from Memorial Park to MacGregor Park for practice, and from Baytown to Richmond for tournaments.

Even though the form had changed, talent still existed among a team of sophomores and juniors: Bobby Dowlen, Chuck Moody, Buddy Hightower, Edward Breland, Steve Kinney, Dorrance Monteith, and Walter Bering.

After having respectable wins over Bellaire and Sharpstown, the Junior Varsity football team, coached by Gene Agleton, completed the 1972 season with a 3-5-2 record. Defensive players Stan Hinson, Tommy Marshburn, Muchi Myles, and Mike Aldrighette led the team, while offensive players Danny Warner, Donnie Ray Freney, Alex Johnson, and Jeff Jackson opened the way for point scoring.

Although some losses disheartened the players, the Lee J.V. basketball team kept fighting to gather a respectable 7-7 record in district. Coached by Bill McMillan, the team was able to "slam the door" on Lamar, Madison, and Westbury. The roundballers were led by Mike Humphrey, Mike McCarron, Stu Walker, Steve Virgil, John Farhart, and Kurt Siegfried.

Lee Excels in Spring Sports

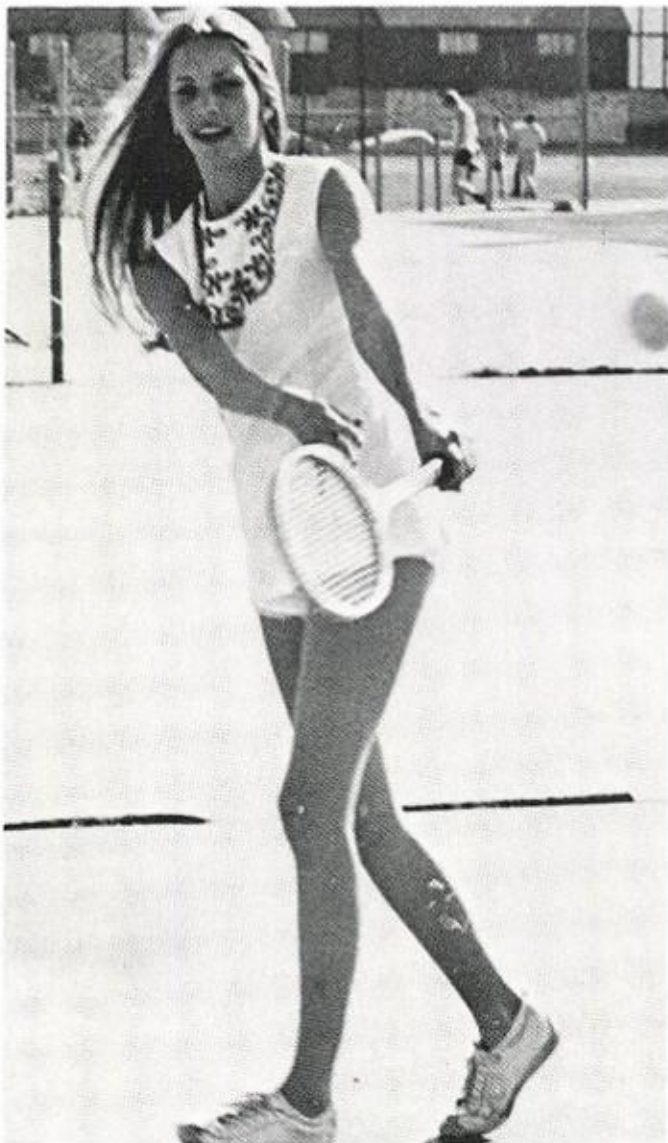

Swimming was a new addition to Lee's physical education department this year. Under the direction of Miss Jeanne Reynaud, the team practiced every afternoon at Jane Long and later swam victoriously over Waltrip, Reagan, and Sharpstown. Diving competition also was held at a few of the meets.

Late in the afternoon, the archery team practiced diligently on the playing field. Miss Jane Borneman, sponsor, selected the top ten girls for competition in high school tournaments. Only the two highest scorers on the team continued to compete for city championship.

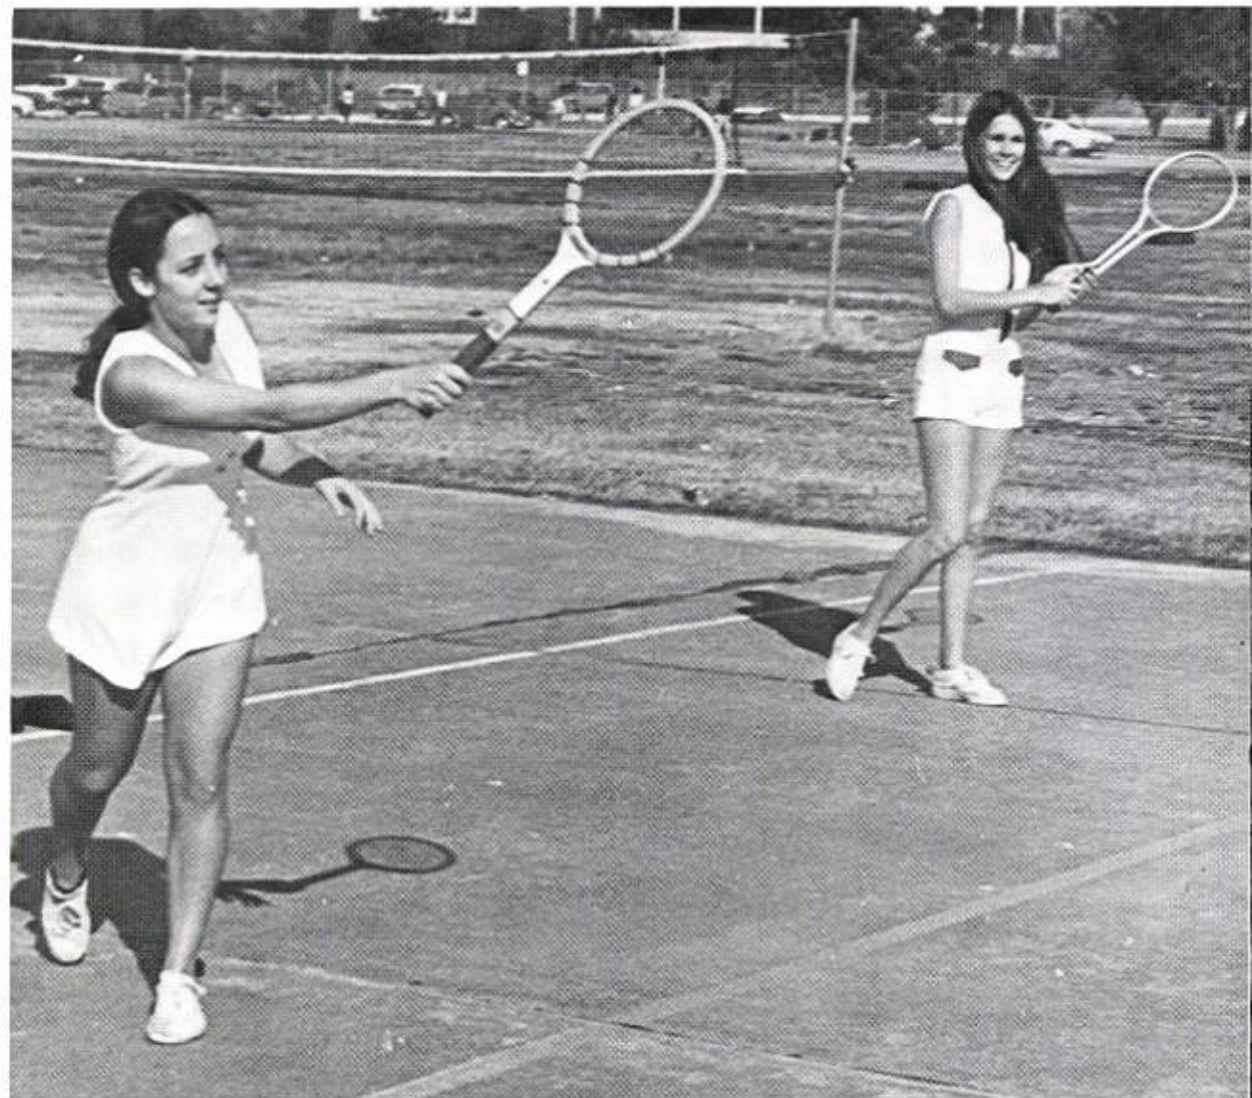

With coaching from the sponsor, Mrs. Ella Allen, the girls' tennis team returned for a promising season. Backed by the knowhow of nine returning lettermen, the team spent many hours practicing at the Houston Country Club to recapture the district crown. The top netters were selected in January and later accomplished victories over Sharpstown and Worthing.

Members of the tennis team are — Kneeling: Alden Bumstead, Dianne Taylor, Ann Vandivier, and Laurette Beeson. Standing: Mary McKay, Betsy Sengelmann, Julie Baumcum, Ellen Wallace, and Sally Engemoen.

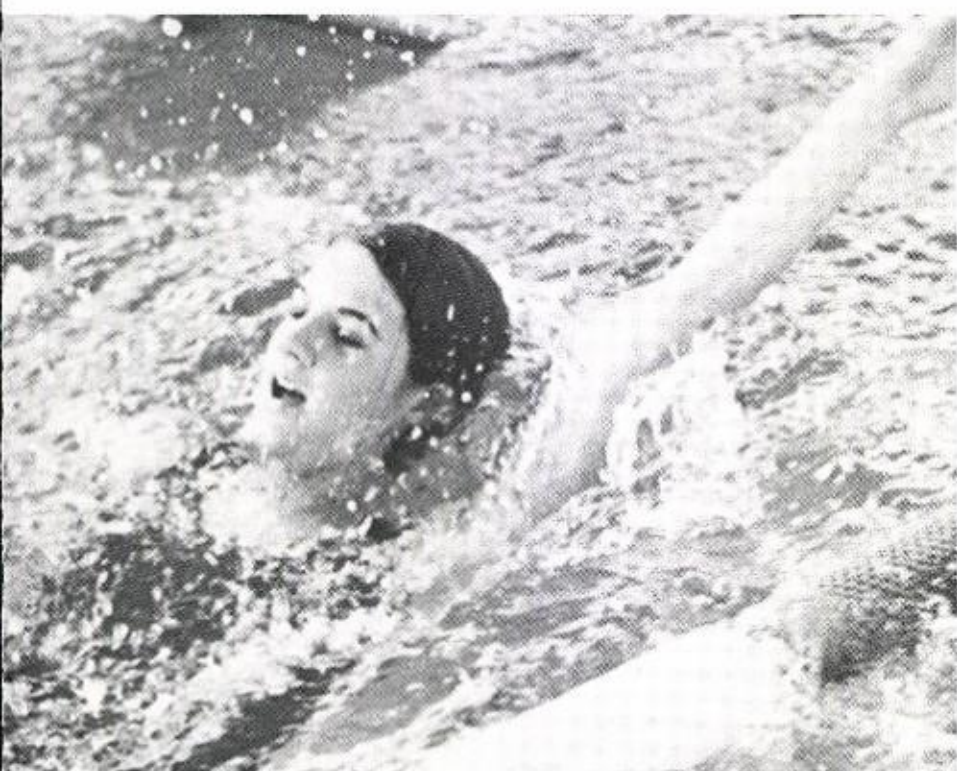

"Anyone for tennis?" asks Sally Engemoen.

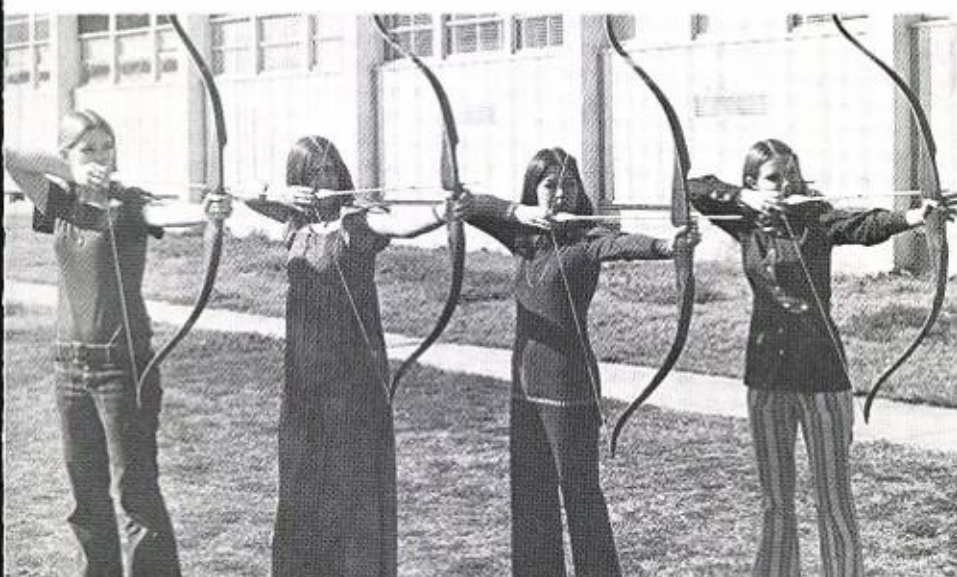

Dianne Taylor and Mary McKay demonstrate their skill in playing doubles.

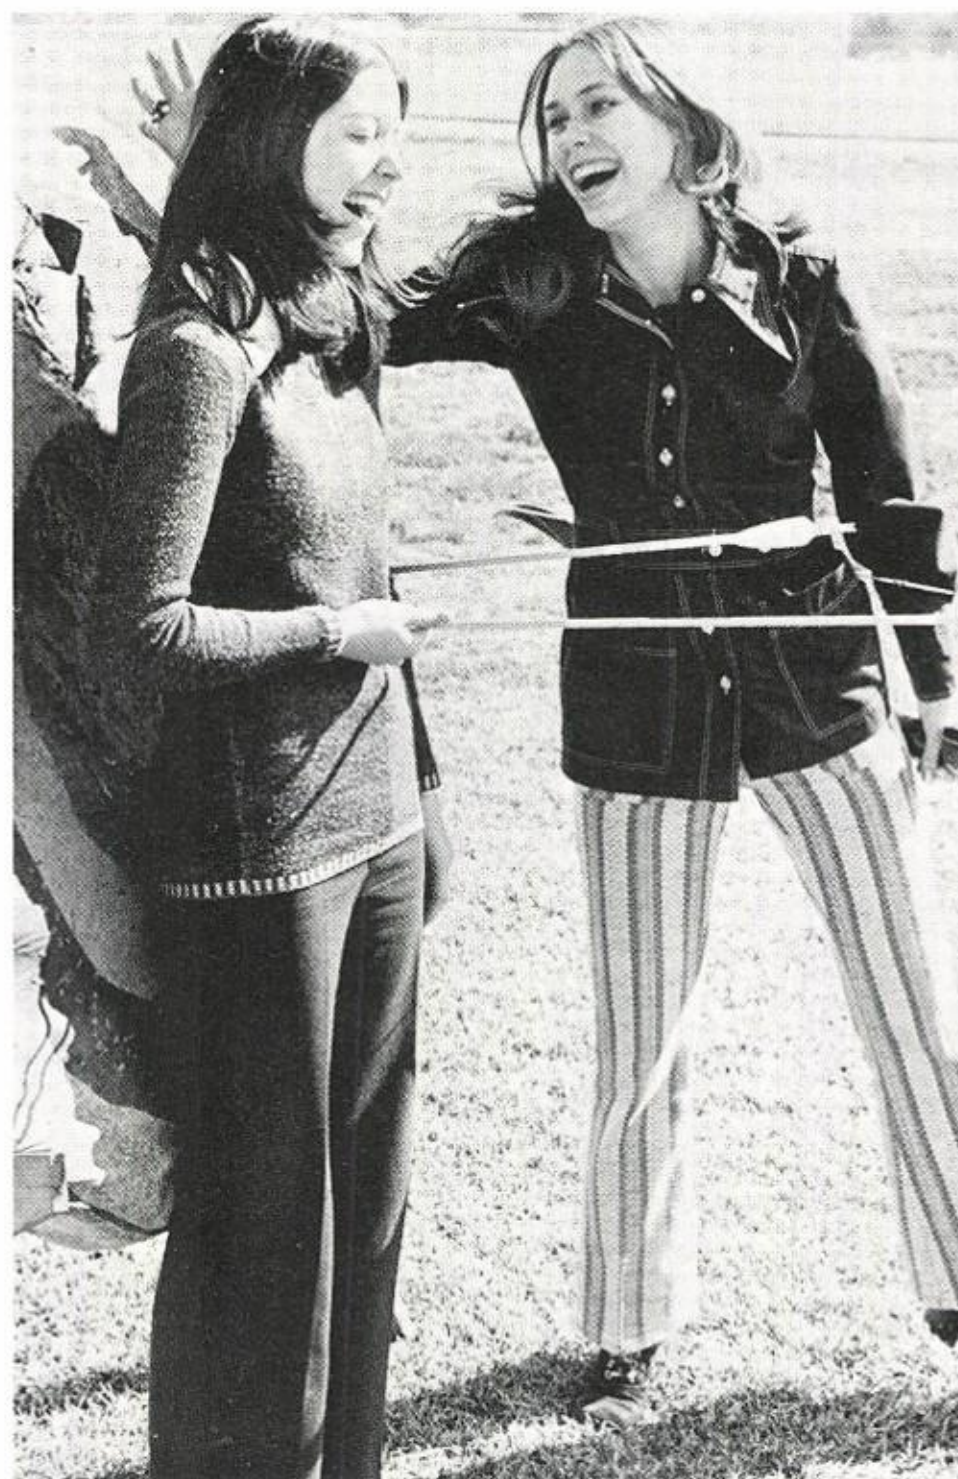

Members of the swimming team are — Row 1: Betsy Allen, Kathryn Kidd, Maggie Urresti, Cathy Campbell, Lynn Boyd, Valerie Watzek, Ellen Taylor, Teri Edge, and Kathy Yeoman. Row 2: Lynn Kercheval, Jamie Tunney, Nita Vandiver, Betty McBride, Susan Wenglar, Gayle Coolidge, and Sue Harris.

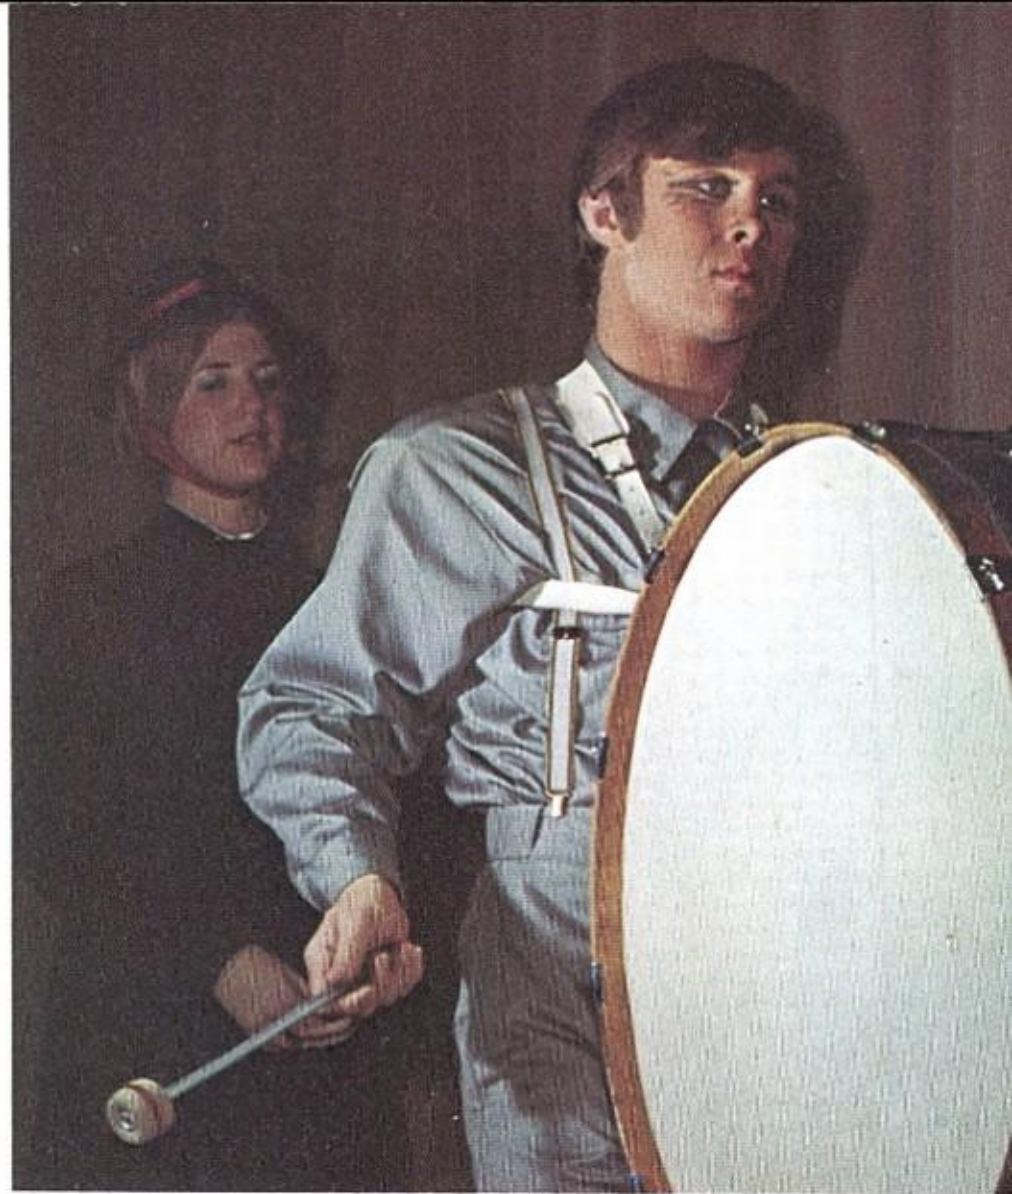

"Maybe Mark Spitz will be waiting for me at the end of the pool," dreams Gayle Coolidge.

Members of the archery team are Michele Schreiber, Cindy Peters, Tena Alcorn, and Barbara Eastwood.

"Well, you said shoot the apple, but did ya have to swallow it?" laughs Barbara Eastwood while Tena Alcorn reaches for the aspirin.

Favorites . . .

With conscientious minds — representing, leading;

Or with affable personalities —
setting paces, establishing moods;

Or with genuine beauty — both inward and outward,

Students necessarily emerge as favorites.

These people — elected into situations of more choice, more decision —

Developed potentials and accepted consequential responsibilities —

Responsibilities to friends, to teachers . . .
and to themselves.

Seniors Set the Pace

In daily school routine, the seniors of the 1973 graduating class set a pace of activity both academically and socially. In this medley of individual paces, conflicts of character and ideas existed in the effort to serve Lee. This diversity was later overcome by the unifying element of cooperation.

The year was the first for eighteen year olds to be able to participate in a national election. Through voting for and campaigning for a particular candidate, some seniors became involved in politics. The mock presidential election provided an opportunity for all seniors to become involved and gave an awareness of national affairs.

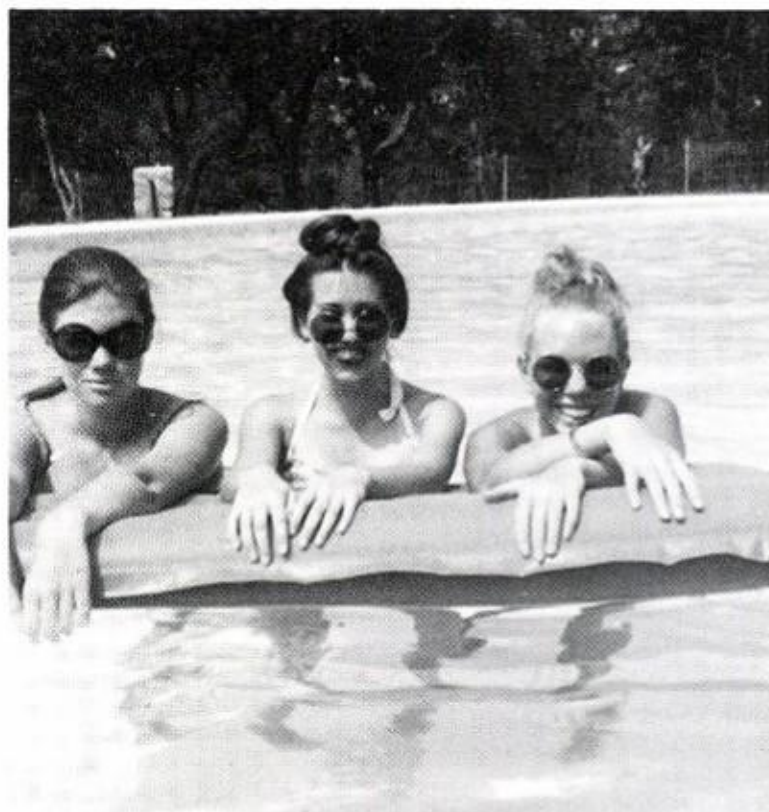

With the guidance of Mr. Kelly Ritch, class sponsor, the senior cabinet undertook the responsibilities of organizing the prom, Baccalaureate, and Commencement.

Through active involvement in all phases of school life, seniors recognized the year as one in which they gained a broadened perspective of the world to be entered at graduation.

Senior Honors, Ads, Index . . .

An end to the year of choice . . .

For some, only one additional step has been made —

A step toward the final attainment of personal goals.

But for a senior, the culmination is achieved —

A culmination of years marked by thrills, by heartbreaks;

Years filled with lasting impressions . . . and abiding memories.

Meg,
Well this year has really been a blast in volleyball and chemistry. We've gone through alot with gone and Harold. you are a really cute and sweet person. you'll have to wait me at smu '11
Have a great senior year!!
 Now the learning process has begun
 Students adhered to promises, then initiated action,

And thus —

Mid-term final exemptions gained approval, acceptance;

But a controversial matter — smoking areas — required more consideration, more thought,

For some students — with increased privileges and increased freedom — Neglected a basic obligation to Lee — That of cleaning, of maintaining the campus.

The learning was intensified . . .

Rules forbidding the initial tendency toward an "open" campus situation

Necessarily became enforced,

And students — now realizing, now appreciating the right of augmented choice —

Responsibly groped for adjustment
 And developed in mind, in attitude.

Each upheld self-discipline as essential in education . . .
 as essential in life.

Yet circumstances of choice evolved beyond Lee High School, 1973 . . .

The war was ended:

Males no longer confronted an ever-present choice —

A choice of enlisting or waiting for the call,

And no longer did one seek education merely for deferment of that call,

For the choice of peace was made.

Outwardly, Lee students resembled those of last year — and the previous year;

Yet inwardly —

They were changed;

They were freer:

Each won the choice . . . and the responsibility.

For the production of this 352-page story, many thanks are due to Mrs. Parson who rushed elections to meet each deadline; to Mr. D-Eon Priest who abided by the Saber through trying situations; to the staff who contributed both the work and humor necessary to survive each "D-Day"; and to those certain teachers who graciously understood that for the editor, "Saber comes first." Yet, a very special thanks goes to Mrs. Margaret Wisdom, sponsor, who trusted, supported, and tolerated thirty totally unique people as they related the one-year story of Robert E. Lee High School — the 1973 SABER.

Meg,

I know that I will probably forget at least half of the stuff I want to say, but I will try to do the best I can.

In the past two weeks I have really needed a friend; because of certain problems, (which you know about). Thank goodness you have been here, or I would not know what to do. Other people listen but they are not as understanding as I would have liked them to be. But you have really helped me a great deal. In fact I was always looking forward to coming to homeroom to be able to talk to you. (That may sound a bit queer, but it was meant to be) I guess I really can't even express how much it has meant to me. You have been the most understanding of all my friends and I thank you.

You and Doug are really cute together. He is really a great guy, so don't worry about when you are gone this summer. Have a great time.

Thank again for being there when I needed someone and listening when I was pouring out my troubles. Love always, Nancy A.

How could I forget to mention = the 100% - you're doing good with him (Doug, that is) and taking lessons. Good luck, sweetie! - xxxxxxxx

Meg,
"Hey May". I want to thank you so much for all you've done this year to make it so much fun for me and so many people. Before this year I guess we just never had been "thrown" together. And this year (unlike many others) I'm really happy that I've got a new friend who I will always treasure (that's the only word that fits in, I'm not trying to sound like Mrs. Krieger essay) and have a blast with. Really, it's a neat feeling I'd forgotten about. Thank you so much for being the neat understanding, listening, helping, fun-to-be-with, and cheering-up person you are and always will be. Please let's stay good, good friends and do a lot together. You're a neat-o person and I love you,
May (with the X-rated back)
